WHAT THE MEASURE DOES: Allows person who has been sexually abused and who has an objectively reasonable fear for his or her physical safety to petition a circuit court for a restraining order against his or her alleged abuser if: (1) Person seeking the restraining order and respondent are not family or household members; (2) respondent is at least 18 years old; and (3) respondent is not already subject to a restraining order. Requires court to hold ex parte hearing day of filing or following judicial day. If petitioner can show that his or her fear is objectively reasonable and that respondent subjected the petitioner to sexual abuse within the 180 days preceding the filing of the petition, the court must: (1) Restrain respondent from contacting or intimidating the petitioner; and (2) restrain the respondent from contacting the petitioner's children or family or household members if requested. If respondent is restrained from entering an area surrounding the petitioner's residence, the order must describe the area.

Provides respondent, the right to request a hearing within 30 days after the order is issued. If the person does not request a hearing, the order is confirmed by operation of law. Limits the use of evidence relating to the petitioner's reputation or past sexual behavior.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Applies to situations when Family Abuse Prevention act is not applicable

EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT: Changes standard to "it is objectively reasonable for a person in the petitioner's situation to fear physical harm."

BACKGROUND: ORS 30.866 allows court to grant civil protective order if a person intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly engages in repeated and unwanted contact with another person or the person's family. ORS 124.010 allows an elderly person or a person with disabilities or their guardian to obtain a protective order against an abuser for abuse that had taken place within 180 days of the petition for a restraining order. ORS 163.738 allows for a restraining order in a criminal stalking proceeding. ORS 419B.845 allows for a restraining order to protect a child that has been physically or sexually abused.
