Infrastructure for EA Tool	$20,000
Subtotal	$45,000

g. What are the potential savings?

Improvements in the data collection systems will streamline data analysis because all systems will collect data in a consistent manner. We anticipate savings in time and staff resources in data analysis and reporting. Additionally, as we are able to unmask health disparities and inequities through the standardized collection of disaggregated data, we anticipate improvements in the way the state and its external partners provide services, resulting in reduced costs for OHA, DHS and external partners.

h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

DHS Non-MAGI Eligibility Automation Project

Department of Human Services (DHS) seeks $7.5 M TF ($6.75M FF, $0.75M GF) to implement a planning effort to prepare for the implementation of an eligibility system for its non-MAGI (Modified Adjusted Gross Income) Medicaid programs. DHS is committed to completing thorough planning to provide a framework for phased delivery of functionality that demonstrates meaningful progress in short increments of time.

The recent decision by the Center for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS) to extend 90/10 funding for Medicaid eligibility systems provides substantial resources to help DHS proceed with the planning work. A recent CMS site visit provided Oregon with an understanding of CMS' expectation that it proceed with automation of the eligibility and case management for the non-MAGI Medicaid population as soon as possible after successful completion of the MAGI Medicaid Transition Project.

In initial conversations, DHS, working with the Office of Information Services (OIS), believes that a transfer system solution serves as the likely best alternative to minimize risk and increase likelihood of successful completion.

For transfer system to be successful, it is important to pick a state that most closely models Oregon's non-MAGI programs in order to minimize the amount of customization that must be made to support DHS's business needs. Because Oregon has been on the leading edge of policy waivers in this area, it is unlikely that any transfer system will be a perfect match. However, it is the desire of DHS to choose a system that has a majority match for functionality and then to increment the delivery of additional functionality in small-phased implementations.

To this end, DHS will follow the Stage Gate Process required by the Office of the State CIO and proposes to complete the following activities between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2017.

Proposed schedule includes:

- By July 2015-Preparatory work using current resources
 - APD approval from CMS
 - Planning vendor RFP for July 2016 execution of SOW
 - QA vendor chosen for July 2015 execution of SOW
- By April 2016 – Stage Gate 1 Activities
 - High level business concept
 - Core Team Defined
 - Project Governance Defined
 - Project Charter
 - Project Plan & High Level Business Requirements
- By October 2016 – Stage Gate 2 Activities
 - Business Case & Information Resource Request
 - Detailed project Plan
 - Transfer system Chosen
 - RFP for System Integrator Released for 2 phases – FIT Gap + Implementation
- By March 2017:
 - System Integrator vendor contract negotiated for FIT Gap Phase
- By June 2017-Stage Gate 3 Endorsement Activities
 - Fit Gap Assessment of Transfer System Solution
 - Fit Gap General System Design
 - Refined Project Plan
 - SI vendor contract negotiated for Implementation (pending approval for 17-19 appropriation)

Rough budget = $7.5 M TF

- QA-$750k
- Planning Vendor - $1.5M
- State Staffing - $2.25M
- System integrator - $3M

Note: While the MAGI Medicaid System Transfer Project has chosen to implement the Kentucky KYNECT system, DHS will consider that application but will look at other systems to determine the most appropriate system fit from a program need perspective. Project approach may be updated based on alternatives evaluated.

Summary Statement:

Youth and adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) are significantly underrepresented in Oregon's workforce. With appropriate services and assistance, persons with I/DD are capable of employment. The state is seeking to increase competitive employment of I/DD persons in integrated workplaces through the Department of Human Services' (DHS) Employment First Policy and Governor Kitzhaber's Executive Order 13-04. The order directs state agencies and programs, including DHS' Office of Developmental Disability Services and Vocational Rehabilitation, to take various steps and to achieve specific goals. In order fulfill the policy and order, this POP requests funding for:

- a. Six Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors, Two Human Services Specialists and 1 Operations and Policy Analyst to serve increasing numbers of youth with intellectual and developmental disabilities and increase engagement with school districts participating in Youth Transition Program (YTP) and with state I/DD system.
- b. 10.5 contract Benefits Counselors to provide benefits counseling services to persons with disabilities, including those with I/DD; and two Operations and Policy Analysts to train, oversee and support the counselors; and to plan future delivery of these services.

- c. An Employment First Transformation Fund and Operations and Policy Analyst to identify, research and promote utilization of best and evidence-based practices that facilitate competitive employment of I/DD persons and promote continues improvement of related services.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP is necessary for the Department’s Employment First Unit, the Office of Developmental Disability Services and Vocational Rehabilitation to meet the expectations outlined in the Department’s Employment First Policy and fulfill the Governor’s Executive Order 13-04. The Policy and Executive Order were developed in response to the continuing underemployment and unemployment of Oregonians with disabilities. Few groups of working age youth and adults (ages 16 to 64 years) have higher rates of unemployment and underemployment than those with disabilities. The rates are higher yet for individuals with significant disabilities.

Specifically, this POP will be implemented through administrative and program activities described below.

- a. The Employment First Unit, ODDS and VR are collaborating to increase the number of youth and adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) that achieve integrated, competitive employment.

Last year, VR was provided with funding allowing it to hire 8.0 FTE specialized Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors to serve I/DD individuals. Through this POP, VR seeks funding for the following additional staff positions in order to achieve the Executive Order's goals and objectives, and address the increasing demand and need for vocational rehabilitation services by youth and adults with I/DD:

- i. 6.0 FTE specialized I/DD Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors. The additional specialized I/DD VRCs will ensure that each of Vocational Rehabilitation 14 branches has a counselor with a caseload dedicated to serving individuals with I/DD. As illustrated below, VR has experienced remarkable growth in the number of persons with I/DD seeking and receiving its services over the past five years. In addition, the program is presently experiencing increases above the Executive Order-forecasted 100-plus clients a month level, as a result of the outreach efforts of the new I/DD counselors. These counselors are providing VR with the expertise and service coordination capacity needed to effectively assist individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities.
- ii. 2.0 FTE Human Service Specialists. The addition of these positions will allow VR to pilot an alternative service delivery model that increases the program's capacity to serve the increased demand for services from individuals with I/DD, while reducing reliance on VRCs for certain VR services. In a number of other states, VR programs utilize highly trained VR paraprofessionals to augment the work of their professional VR counselors.
- iii. 1.0 Operations and Policy Analyst 2. The analyst will coordinate delivery of VR's school to work services to I/DD youth, including those provided through VR's Youth Transition Program (YTP), as VR expands its capacity to serve this population. Through YTP, VR and the 85 school districts and 145 high schools presently participating in the program, youth with disabilities are assisted in transitioning from high school work or higher education. (YTP is a nationally and internationally recognized best practice. Just this past year, it was recognized as one of the world's model programs for youth by the European Association of Service Providers for Persons with Disabilities. Over 25,000 youth with disabilities have been assisted by YTP since it was begun in 1990.)

In addition, the operations and policy analyst will serve as VR's liaison with the Oregon Department of Education and Oregon public schools in relation to youth with I/DD and Autism Spectrum disorders. The I/DD OPA 3 will work closely with VR's existing YTP Coordinator. Together, the two positions will be responsible for providing the necessary leadership and support to:

- Continue existing local YTP sites and engage a new set of school districts and high schools in providing enhanced transition services and strengthening their core transition programs, as VR refines its transition programs to meet the new requirements of the recently enacted Workforce Innovation and Opportunities Act (WIOA).
 - Serve increasing numbers of historically underserved disability populations.
 - Foster greater engagement between high schools and local workforce system programs, in accord with WIOA.
 - Explore with the Department of Education and VR's Executive Team, the possibility of making YTP a statewide program that is present in every high school.
- b. Provision of benefits counseling services is another key element in the Department's effort to implement the Employment First policy and Executive Order 13-04. Benefits counseling has been identified as an essential service by the Executive Order Stakeholder Policy Committee. Through benefits counseling, consumers are provided with the information and assistance needed to use work incentives to obtain, maintain or increase employment, while continuing to receive critical services and benefits, including health care. Loss and fear of loss of needed benefits and services is a significant barrier to employment of people with disabilities. Research indicates that individuals with disabilities who receive benefits counseling are more likely to go work and experience an increase in earnings; and those considering going to work find benefits counseling valuable and necessary.

In response to the need for benefits counseling, this POP funds continuation of Vocational Rehabilitation's (VR) Work Incentives Network (WIN) through the 2015-17 biennium; two benefits counseling demonstration projects with local workforce programs (one urban and one rural); and development of a comprehensive plan for future delivery of benefits counseling services statewide. Currently, WIN is funded with federal Basic Rehabilitation funds. As a result, WIN's services are limited to persons in service with VR. This POP would move funding of WIN to state General Funds only, thereby making WIN benefits counseling services available to all Oregonians with disabilities.

In addition, this POP provides for VR and Oregon's workforce system to pilot benefits counseling services through two demonstration projects with local workforce programs, utilizing WIN's training and certification model (see below), as well as best practices identified through WIN and work force and self-sufficiency programs, such as training on financial literacy and use self-sufficiency calculators.

Over the ensuing biennium, VR and allied DHS, OHA and workforce programs would develop a long-term plan for delivering benefits counseling services to Oregonians with disabilities (regardless of what program or programs serve them), and other Oregonians whose efforts to secure or continue to work may be enhanced by receipt of benefits counseling. The results of the workforce demonstration projects would further inform and guide this effort.

In developing WIN, VR modeled the program after other successful benefits counseling programs and has incorporated best practices, including requiring that its contract benefits planners undergo intensive training, and meet the same proficiency standards as Social Security Administration's certified work incentive coordinators. VR strongly encourages consumers to utilize WIN. Research shows that individuals who receive both vocational rehabilitation and benefits counseling have better employment outcomes than individuals receiving benefits counseling services or vocational rehabilitation alone.

- c. This POP will support targeted efforts and project designed to promote the continuous improvement and transformation of the employment services provided transition and working age individuals with I/DD. These projects may be in the form of pilots or other progressive practices designed to improve desired employment outcomes. A $1.5M Employment First Transformation fund would be established to support these activities. The special projects would be identified by the Employment First Project Steering Committee and the Statewide Policy Group formed under Executive Order. This POP will also fund a 1.0 FTE Research and Innovation Specialist devoted to researching and identifying other progressive practices that should be incorporated into current employment service practice. This person will coordinate efforts with the DHS and ODE staff assigned to implementing the Employment First policy and will also coordinate efforts with the process for determining use of the Special Project Fund.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

DHS proposes this POP in order to carry out the Department's Employment First Policy and the Governor's Executive Order 13-04. The Policy and Executive Order facilitate integrated, competitive, integrated employment of persons with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

People with disabilities remain one of the most underemployed and unemployed groups in the nation and in Oregon. As of May, 2011, the national unemployment rate for people with disabilities was 16.9% compared to 9.2% for able-bodied persons.¹ Other data suggests a much greater inequity. In its most recent report on disability and work, the U.S. Census Bureau estimated that 34% of people with disabilities were employed compared with 71.9% of people without a disability.² Unemployment of individuals with significant disabilities is much higher, including those with intellectual and developmental disabilities, is perhaps as much as 70%.³ The negative effects of underemployment and unemployment on persons with disabilities go well beyond low incomes and lost wages. For many, it may also include stigma, social exclusion, the loss of dignity and self-worth, and dreams deferred and denied.

The implementation of the Employment First Policy and Executive Order 13-04 represents an increase in service delivery demand in certain program areas, including Vocational Rehabilitation. Implementation of these initiatives also requires provision or access to complementary services – such as VR’s Youth Transition Program, benefits counseling and continuous improvement activities, as well as cooperative planning and implementation with other service systems. In addition, research into new or promising practices is an important aspect needed to deliver services in the most effective and efficient manner. More specifically:

- a. VR has experienced significant and increasing demand for its services from persons with intellectual and developmental disabilities since July 2009 (see below chart). Over this same period, VR has substantially increased provision of its services and activities to this population (see chart). The increases in demand and services coincide with the adoption and rollout of the Department’s Employment First policy, which was adopted in 2008 and initiated thereafter through a coordinated series of joint DDS-VR activities; and the Governor’s issuing of Executive Order 13-04 and the subsequent efforts to carry it out.

Based on the above information, VR anticipates that demand for its services by I/DD youth and adults will continue to increase into the foreseeable future -- by 9.5 percent over the remainder of this biennium; and by an additional 17 percent over the 2015-2017 biennium.

- b. This POP is needed to continue, further plan and develop, and expand the availability of benefits counseling services in Oregon.
 - Loss and fear of loss of needed benefits is a significant barrier to employment of persons with disabilities who depend on benefits to obtain essential health care services, needed housing and transportation supports, and necessary subsistence income. Research indicates that individuals with disabilities who receive benefits counseling are more likely to go to work and experience an increase in earnings; and VRCs and individuals with disabilities who are considering going to work find benefits counseling valuable and necessary.

- WIN’s benefits counseling services are being used to facilitate integrated employment of persons with intellectual and developmental disabilities, as part of the effort to implements the Executive Order 13-04 and Employment First policy. Benefits counseling has been identified as an essential service by the Executive Order Stakeholder Policy Committee. It is also being used to increase employment of persons with mental illness, through delivery of evidence-based supported employment and OHA/AMH and VR’s efforts to expand the availability of these services throughout Oregon.
 - Benefits counseling is available on very limited basis in Oregon. Outside of WIN, benefits counseling is only available through Disability Rights Oregon’s Work Incentives and Planning Assistance program, which is comprised 3.5 FTE benefits counselors and a coordinator and has one office in Portland; and a handful of private benefits counselors. WIN and WIPA benefits counselors undergo intensive training and are required to obtain and maintain Social Security Administration benefits counseling certification or the equivalent. This is not the case with most of the private benefits counselors.
- c. Assuring continuous service quality and consumer satisfaction, as measured by more opportunities for paid employment for individuals with I/DD, is not a static activity. Continuous improvement requires a sustained effort and commitment to enhancing services based on data, consumer feedback, and research into alternate and progressive practices. Resources from this POP are to assure DHS can identify and implement practices that positively evolve the effective delivery of employment related services.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

This POP furthers Department’s vision and mission by facilitating the independence, health and well-being of individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities by assisting and supporting them in obtaining and maintaining competitive employment in integrated workplaces. Through employment, individuals with disabilities are able to live more independent, productive and rewarding lives, and are likely to experience better health outcomes.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

Yes, this POP is tied to two KPMs: KPM #14, which relates to achieving integrated employment settings for individuals with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities; and KPM #1, which reflects the percentage of individuals receiving VR services that enter into an individualized plan for employment who obtain an employment outcome. Success will be measured in terms of the percentage and numbers of individuals with I/DD that achieve an outcome of integrated employment.

In addition, Executive Order 13-04 sets forth the following outcomes for ODDS and VR:

- By July 1, 2015 will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 100 individuals
- By July 1, 2016, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 200 individuals
- By July 1, 2017, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 275 individuals
- By July 1, 2018, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 275 individuals
- By July 1, 2019, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 275 individuals
- By July 1, 2020, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 275 individuals
- By July 1, 2021, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 275 individuals
- By July 1, 2022, will provide Employment Services to at least an additional 275 individuals

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Use of federal funds.

- VR is primarily funded by a formula-based, federal grant. With the recent enactment of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunities Act (WIOA), and with its reauthorization of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the federal law that enables and governs VR services, federal funding of VR will be flat for the next five years. Utilizing federal re-allotment dollars was considered but because of its unpredictability this was ruled out.

Specific to WIN/Benefits Counseling:

- Utilizing VR counselors, DHS case managers and AMH counselors to provide benefits counseling services. This was determined impractical given training time needed to become an informed and skilled benefits planner given the significant caseloads of direct service professionals.
- Utilizing private benefits planners. This was rejected because for two reasons. First, provision of incorrect or inappropriate benefits information puts clients at risk. Most of the limited number of fee-for-service benefits counselors in Oregon are not trained and certified counselors. Second, the time and effort required to train, certify and oversee fee-for-service benefits counselors would likely cost as much as it cost to train and contract for WIN's present benefits counselors.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

Funding of this POP will provide significant and needed support to the Department's efforts to fulfill the promise of its Employment First policy and fully implement carry the Governor's Executive Order 13-04. The decision to not fund this POP will or could:

- Lead to imposition of an Order of Selection by Vocational Rehabilitation. If VR continues to experience an increase in demand for its services and it lacks the staff or resources to serve everyone eligible for its services, it will have to institute the mandatory waiting list process (Order) that federal law requires of it in such circumstances.

- Limit the availability of benefits counseling services statewide and thereby reduce the success of the Governor's Workforce Strategies for Work-ready Communities in increasing employment of Oregonians.
- Hinder VR's ability to meet its federal outcomes and other performance measures if, as result of lack of funding, VR is unable to continue WIN and provide VR consumers with a service

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

This POP will benefit the Department of Education, local education districts and schools, community developmental disability programs and provider service agencies; as well as state and local workforce programs. The former entities have direct responsibility for implementing the Employment First policy and Executive Order. The POP will directly and indirectly assist them in carrying out these responsibilities with the Employment First Unit, the Office of Developmental Disability Services and Vocational Rehabilitation. The workforce programs will also benefit as their DHS partners engage in heightened and focused activities and greater collaboration with the workforce system to increase employment of historically disadvantaged Oregonians.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

This POP is a collaborative effort of the Department's Employment First Unit, the Office of Developmental Disability Services and Vocational Rehabilitation. In addition, Temporary Aid to Needy Families, the Oregon Health Authority/Addictions and Mental Health, and a number of Oregon workforce agencies and programs have been consulted about the POP and are in support of it.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

This POP is an equity initiative. Through it, state agencies and programs and their partners will increase the integrated and competitive employment of people with disabilities, with a particular focus on persons with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Oregonians with disabilities experience unemployment and underemployment at significantly higher rates than other Oregonians; and those with significant disabilities experience unemployment and underemployment yet higher rates. In addition, the incidence of disability is greater among a number of other historically disadvantaged populations, including Latinos and African-Americans.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Implementation Date(s): 7/1/15

End Date (if applicable): N/A

- a. Will there be new responsibilities for DHS? Specify which Program Area(s) and describe their new responsibilities.
No.
- b. Will there be new administrative impacts sufficient to require additional funding? Specify which office(s) (i.e., facilities, computer services, etc.) and describe how it will be affected.
No.
- c. Will there be changes to client caseloads or services provided to population groups? Specify how many in each relevant program.
None over already projected numbers based.

- d. Will it take new staff or will existing positions be modified? For each classification, list the number of positions and the number of months the positions will work in each biennium. Specify if the positions are permanent, limited duration or temporary.
 Yes. 1.0 FTE OPA3. Permanent position priced to start 10/1/15. This position will be housed in ODDS.
- e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?
 None
- f. What are the ongoing costs?
 All of the costs in this POP would be considered ongoing.

Summary
Statement:

The Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAAPI) was created in 2012 to centralize the oversight of investigations of reported abuse of vulnerable adults in Oregon, including adults over the age of 65; individuals with physical disabilities, developmental disabilities, and mental illness; and children in certain licensed settings.

Around 85% of the nearly 15,000 investigations conducted under the oversight of OAAPI every year involve the reported abuse of an older adult (over 65) or a younger adult with a physical disability. For this reason, APD is identified as the primary program sponsor of this Policy Option Package.

Although the oversight and responsibility for these investigations has shifted from three distinct program areas to what is now OAAPI, the data systems that are used to track and document these investigations are not consolidated and remain fragmented. OAAPI and the abuse investigators under its oversight currently use nine (9) distinct systems to collect data and generate investigation reports and data reports related to protective services and abuse investigations. These systems run on different hardware and software, collect different data points, and are unable to share data.

The need for an integrated statewide adult abuse data system has been recognized for many years by external observers, including consultants, auditors and media, and is widely accepted by involved agencies and stakeholders who work with the inadequate and disconnected patchwork of adult abuse data systems currently in use every day.

As an enterprise-wide office and Shared Service of DHS and OHA, OAAPI proposes (under this POP) to:

- 1) Fund a contract with a vendor to develop and implement a new, statewide, comprehensive Adult Abuse Data and Report-Writing System, and
- 2) Fund the ongoing support and maintenance costs of the new system

By improving access to abuse and neglect data, this new system will lead to better outcomes in Key Process Measures and Fundamental DHS Protection & Intervention metrics, as well as better outcomes for all the vulnerable Oregonians that OAAPI serves.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

In the second half of 2014, APD and OAPPI are using an initial $500,000 investment of funds from the Special Allocation for Seniors funds (set aside under HB 5201) to contract an independent Consultant, who will develop a recommended approach and plan for implementation of a technology solution to meet OAAPI's need for an integrated Adult Abuse Data and Report-writing System.

During this initial planning phase (Phase 1) the Consultant will begin the evaluation process and project planning, working as needed with the state team to validate and complete functional and technical requirements; identify alternatives, costs and benefits to meet the business needs defined by the requirements; update the Preliminary Business Case; and develop a recommendation report and presentation for the Legislature in January, 2015.

This POP would allow OAAPI to move forward with Phase 2, i.e. issuing an RFP for the procurement and implementation of the new Adult Abuse Data & Report-writing System. Such a system would move OAAPI and APD toward a future state in which we are able to:

- Monitor abuse referrals in real-time, and oversee screening decisions made in the local offices,
- Provide accurate, reliable and consistent data and reports to internal and external partners,
- Understand the abuse history of clients across programs and document perpetrators, improving the Department's ability to ensure the safety of vulnerable Oregonians,
- Respond to the increased need for services that the aging of Oregon's population will demand,
- Monitor and understand the level and types of abuse occurring in the Oregon quickly and easily, allowing us to respond more effectively and develop proactive strategies to prevent future abuse,
- Mitigate the risks outlined later in this document, and
- Achieve the efficiencies and fiscal savings outlined later in this document

2. WHY DOES THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES (DHS) PROPOSE THIS POP?

Created in 2012, the Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAAPI) conducts and/or oversees investigations of reported abuse of vulnerable adults in Oregon, including adults over the age of 65; individuals with developmental disabilities, physical disabilities and mental illness; and children in certain licensed settings.

In 2012, over 34,000 referrals of abuse of vulnerable adults (and children in licensed settings) were received by the state and its representatives, and nearly 15,000 of those resulted in an investigation conducted or overseen by OAAPI. Over 84% of those investigations involved the reported abuse of an adult over the age of 65 or a younger adult with a physical disability.

Prior to the creation of OAAPI, abuse referrals and investigations for adults and children in licensed settings were overseen by different program areas or the Office of Investigations & Training (OIT). Each had their own legacy abuse data and report-writing system, which had developed over time and with varying levels of investment.

At this time, OAAPI continues to rely on those disconnected data systems to store abuse-related data and produce reports, even though these legacy systems are often unable to provide the critical information being asked for currently by internal and external partners, including accurate metrics for Quarterly Business Reviews, requests for statewide abuse data from media, and sufficiently granulated data reports for the Legislature.

The absence of an integrated, real-time Adult Abuse Data and Report-writing System also makes it impossible for OAAPI to monitor and prevent abuse effectively by seeing and understanding patterns and histories of abuse, as victims – and perpetrators – move from program to program and region to region. This leads to the very real possibility of substantiated perpetrators in one program, for example, working in another. It also makes OAAPI unable to gain a holistic view of abuse victims, who are often consumers of services from different programs and whose experiences of abuse may never be tied together.

As Oregon's population ages – and lives longer – OAAPI is seeing an increased interweaving of clients in community and facility settings, with clients of one program often placed in facilities licensed by other programs, or clients transitioning from one system to another as their age, health conditions or behavioral needs change. Because of the lack of integration of abuse data across programs, all too often valuable information in one system is left behind, requiring the new program to re-establish baselines and interventions to help keep clients safe without access to a client's history of abuse.

Finally, the current patchwork of data and report-writing systems lead to multiple inefficiencies and “blind spots,” which confounds quality assurance efforts and leads to timely and expensive re-work. Abuse referrals have “fallen through the cracks” as a result of the current fragmented group of data systems, introducing an unacceptable level of risk.

The shortcomings of the current system are evident not only to individuals within DHS and OAAPI, but have been brought to the attention of the Department by external entities as well, most notably in the following instances:

- DHS consultant Public Knowledge report dated 2005
- McKinsey Study recommendation dated 2008
- Oregonian article dated March 26, 2011
- Adult Safety and Protection Team Report dated August 4, 2011
- Resident Safety Review Council Report to Legislature dated February 2013
- DHS Elder Abuse Prevention Audit (12-013)

This POP would allow OAAPI to move forward with an RFP for the development and implementation of an integrated Adult Abuse Data & Report-writing System.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

In only one year, Oregon has seen an increase of 13% in investigations of abuse and neglect of vulnerable adults – from 12,538 in 2012 to 14,143 in 2013. This growth in the number of abuse referrals and investigations, typical of previous years, is one of the reasons OAAPI was formed, to ensure a coordinated and consistent response to an increasing number of abuse referrals across all vulnerable populations. Abuse is not something that can be undone, and carries with it lifelong impacts to a person’s life in regard to health, emotional well-being, and their ability to benefit from available services.

The need for a stable, integrated Abuse Data and Report-writing System becomes ever more critical as Oregon faces an aging population, a significant annual increase in abuse referrals, and an increased need for services across all demographics. In addition, the Department’s recent emphasis on process and outcome measures to ensure customer service and service equity has highlighted the difficulty of gathering accurate data related to Protection and Intervention from existing data systems.

An improved system for abuse data collection, from the time of screening through report-writing, case closure and referral, is essential to better protect vulnerable Oregonians and to more accurately and efficiently provide meaningful abuse data and outcomes to the Legislature, DHS leadership and the public. To produce this information, this single system must be focused on abuse across programs, not simply added on to the various existing, disconnected program databases.

The development of such a system would contribute directly to the DHS Policy Outcome of “Improving our Human Services Systems,” by addressing a long-standing gap in data collection and analysis and leading to a more efficient and effective state response to the reported abuse of vulnerable Oregonians.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

Yes, this POP is directly tied to the following process measures and outcome measures outlined on the DHS Enterprise Fundamentals Map:

“Protection and Intervention” (OP1) Process Measures:

- % of completed investigations coded “unable to determine” or “inconclusive”
- % of calls assigned for field contact that meet policy timelines
- % of investigation reports completed within policy timelines

“Safety” (O1) Outcome Measures:

- Re-abuse rate
- Abuse rate

The new system would allow OAAPI and APD to report out on existing measures in a far more accurate and efficient manner. OAAPI would no longer have to rely on inadequate sampling of data to produce ‘Timeliness of Response’ measures. It would also allow OAAPI to more proactively address the issues of Investigation Timeliness/Completion in order to avoid the unforeseen backlogs that have resulted in the current system because they were not able to be detected, thereby improving the metrics. Finally, investigators would have a more reliable tool in which to document their investigations and interventions, unlike current systems in use that are prone to ‘crashing,’ resulting in data loss and re-work. A stable data system would reduce the actual time needed to complete reports, and thereby improve completion metrics.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No, there is no statutory impact involved with this POP.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

One alternative considered was the investment of funds and agency resources in the improvement and integration of the assortment of abuse data systems and report-writing methods currently in use. This option, however, is dependent on the continued availability and functionality of all existing systems, which is not likely. Choosing this option would require a significant dedication of program staff and resources to evaluate the feasibility of updating all of the existing systems and then reconfiguring them to provide the accessibility and information currently needed by OAAPI and its partners. And even if the utility of each individual system could be maximized, the issue of disconnected systems unable to share information would remain unaddressed.

More recently, OAAPI and APD have explored combining the development of a new abuse data system with other ongoing IT development projects. For example, a Case Management data system that APD is planning to develop for APD and DD clients appeared to present opportunities. Adding the abuse data collection, screening and report-writing components to a new APD Case Management system, would add significantly to the scope of the project. In addition, since the proposed new Case Management system will be designed primarily for Medicaid clients, it is questionable whether this new system would be able to address the needs of victims of abuse who are not eligible for Medicaid, or the specific needs of other populations such as adults with mental illness receiving services through OHA/AMH or children receiving services in licensed settings.

OAAPI also researched a possible partnership with Oregon State Police (OSP) and their new Records Management System, developed by Niche RMS of Canada. Although the OSP work flow is similar to APD/DD/MH investigations, their system was designed specifically to support dispatch and patrol functions, and under the terms of the OSP contract was not able to be modified to meet OAAPI's needs. As a result, partnering with OSP would require OAAPI to change nomenclature and alter workflow to match the OSP model, and the system would not be allowed to integrate or interface with other systems utilized by DHS. Due to security concerns, even though OAAPI could potentially make the OSP Records Management System functional, it would require many workarounds and would not be able to consolidate all information necessary within DHS systems.

Other systems, such as OLRO's ASPEN database and Lane County's Client-Tracking System, have been explored for possible statewide expansion across all investigation types but found unworkable either due to limitations of the systems themselves or of their support and maintenance structures.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

All of the problems and inefficiencies discussed above add to the risks and liabilities associated with continued reliance on the current patchwork of databases and report-writing methods used by staff across programs. As stated previously, significant and avoidable risks are introduced by the current array of abuse data systems because:

- There is no integrated way to track a particular individual's history of abuse. Records for a single victim may exist in several different data systems, with no single entity able to connect episodes of abuse, neglect or violence in a person's life. This inability to see the larger picture results in less effective – or even inappropriate – interventions;

- There is no integrated way to document substantiated perpetrators and search by perpetrator name, allowing for abuse in one system to go undetected in another;
- Current systems are not accessible from the field causing delays in reporting and potentially placing vulnerable individuals at risk due to delay;
- The existing systems do not alert local or OAAPI staff to cases that “fall through the cracks.” OAAPI’s Quality Assurance staff has identified up to 2,000 such cases that exist in the current system, and is working to resolve them.
- The success of recent class action suits should also not be ignored, as examples of expensive and far-reaching litigation that may result from the failure to catch and respond to systemic problems early.
- Major limitations of the current system are intake/screening; protective services; report writing and tracking a case from initiation to closure.

The costs and inefficiencies associated with the current system are extensive. OAAPI frequently encounters the need for manual data mining and collection to respond to public or media inquiries, to perform effective oversight of local offices and investigators, and even to provide basic quality assurance or monitor statutory compliance.

In addition, the reduction in cost and staff time provided by a searchable database would allow quality assurance staff to spend their time identifying abuse trends and developing targeted prevention efforts, instead of reading hundreds of reports just to extract data. These savings would multiply as efficiencies were realized for investigators and their managers in the field, as well as for OAAPI and other Department staff.

In the current state, the Department loses productivity when workers run semi-automated processes to link data between different databases in order to produce metrics. Many hours are lost during the process of exchanging, checking and interpreting data from the various systems. Unfortunately, this is valuable staff time that could be better put to use performing QA and data analysis in order to identify the causes of abuse (in community and facility settings) and work to mitigate them.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

Other agencies affected by this POP include primary partners with a business need for abuse data or investigation reports, such as:

- Background Check Unit (BCU)
- DHS Case Management (APD and DD)
- Child Welfare
- The Office of Licensing & Regulatory Oversight (OLRO)
- The Oregon Health Authority / AMH Licensing

These agencies would experience a change in how they receive abuse data and reports from OAAPI and from community programs. Their access to abuse data would be based on business need and established using a role-based security protocol.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

The primary collaborators at this time are DHS Aging & People with Disabilities (APD) and OAAPI. Other agencies involved in the discussion due to their use of abuse data and reports include the Background Check Unit, DHS Developmental Disabilities, DHS Child Welfare, OLRO and OHA/AMH Licensing.

We have communicated with stakeholders affected by this POP, including APD field staff and staff with Area Agencies on Aging, Community Developmental Disabilities Programs (CDDPs) and Community Mental Health Programs (CMHPs), about the plan to develop a new statewide Adult Abuse Data and Report-writing System, and they are generally supportive of the concept due the many challenges and difficulties presented by the existing systems in use today.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

Abuse data and report-writing systems currently in use do not capture the racial and ethnic identifiers needed for an analysis of service equity in the abuse investigation process. As a result, it is currently impossible to analyze the service equity in the provision of abuse response and investigation. The proposed new system would be designed to incorporate such identifiers and allow for in-depth analysis of service equity in the delivery of abuse investigations and protective services.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

This POP assumes a relatively simple, stand-alone abuse database with role-based access for data-sharing with partners. A system that is integrated with other existing systems would be expected to cost considerably more; e.g. a new integrated abuse data system being developed in Washington is budgeted at $5.4M.

Additional assumptions that affect the pricing of this POP include:

- The Phase 1 costs of initial planning and evaluation of alternatives (along with initial QA/QC) are paid for by Special Allocation Funds for Seniors.
- This POP provides funding for Phase 2, i.e. procurement of the new Adult Abuse Data and Report-writing System recommended in Phase 1, as well as Systems Integration and QA/QC services to implement the system and ongoing maintenance and support costs.
- The vendor installs any software needed by end users. For desktop and mobile users, this would involve installing operating programs, support tool and patches/software from Microsoft. For users that would access software over an internet browser, this would involve working with the user's device to configure their browser to access the servers. Firewalls and VPNs may need to be adjusted also. These adjustments could be performed by OIS or with agency's authorization by vendor personnel.

- Vendor handles the install and configuration tasks related to deployment of server software and desktop applications. Depending on devices and connectivity, vendor personnel may also handle install and configuration for remote users.
- Vendor personnel work with agency staff and contracted system integrators to review the organization's workflow and rules in order to configure the system to match the agency's policies and procedures, communication codes and other operational settings. Configuration rules could include report routing and due dates, communication codes, policies and procedure implementation, etc. This also includes establishing the process for report submission, deadline/extension calculation and approval processes for each division. Other examples may include import/interface/export data to/from external systems, rules related to reports and mailing form letters/emails.
- Vendor personnel work with agency staff and contracted system integrators to implement the agency's configuration parameters. After agency approval, the software would be configured to operate in the agency environment with minimal impact to the agency. This task would be considered as completed after the vendor receives the agency's acceptance.
- The vendor would train up to three (3) agency staff on how to set-up and maintain the software Standard Operating Data Lists along with the software System Admin Training. This process would incorporate meetings with the vendor and key agency staff. All drop-down lists would be managed by the agency, as well as field labels. Other customizations would include populating the tables, and setting up user rights and access rights to manage the workflow. Much of this would take place pre-installation, but it is assumed there would be ongoing changes to the drop-down lists and field labels due to changes in reporting laws in the state. The DHS systems administrator would have user rights to make these changes.

This estimate also assumes that the computer equipment currently in use statewide by abuse investigators in state, county and AAA offices meets the recommended hardware requirements for this type of abuse database. It is our belief that most local offices currently use equipment that would meet the minimum requirements but, upon approval of an RFP, OAAPI would undertake a statewide survey of current equipment in use to ensure that existing equipment can use the new database, and to address any shortfalls with program and local providers.

Implementation Date(s): Estimated implementation date of June 1, 2017 dependent on multiple assumptions, e.g. RFP timing, decision re: OIS support needed, etc.

End Date (if applicable): N/A

- a. Will there be new responsibilities for the Department of Human Services? Specify which Program Area(s) and describe their new responsibilities.

OIS will have new responsibilities in implementing the new system in the first biennium, estimated at a total of 3.0 FTE for the biennium (broken out below in [d]) and $500,000 for State Data Center costs.

- b. Will there be new Shared Services impacts sufficient to require additional funding? Specify which office(s) (i.e., facilities, computer services, etc.) and describe how it will be affected.

As stated in [a], the cost of additional State Data Center services is estimated at $500,000.

- c. Will there be changes to client caseloads or services provided to population groups? Specify how many in each relevant program.

No changes to client caseloads.

- d. Will it take new staff or will existing positions be modified? For each classification, list the number of positions and the number of months the positions will work in each biennium. Specify if the positions are permanent, limited duration or temporary.

The development of the proposed new system will require coordinated management and oversight by OIS staff to support the implementation of this project, estimated at $752,494.

OIS staffing estimates assume:

1 PM2 24 months

1 PM1 12 months

1 ISS6 12 months

1 ISS7 12 months

1 OPA3 6 months

Accounting and Financial Support

Total estimated FTE for biennium = 3

TOTAL Estimated State Staff and Data Center Costs: $1,252,494

e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

This POP would require an investment in the development and implementation of a new software system. Based on preliminary market research, OAAPI believes a new Adult Abuse Data & Reporting System could be developed and delivered by a contracted vendor for around $1,150,000, as follows:

Host server software including the following modules: Records Management System, Case Management, Incident Reporting Property and Evidence, Personnel Training & Management, Incident Analysis, Equipment Management, Report Photos, Field Interview, Citizen’s Online Reporting (option)	$ 700,000
Records Management (RMS) Users License	$ 150,000
Professional Services by Vendor (Includes Workflow Management, Installation, Project Management, Classroom Training and Workplace Coaching, Data Transfer using predesigned datasheets)	$ 150,000
Transfer legacy data to the new Records Management system (6 databases at estimated $25,000 per database)	$ 150,000
Total Vendor Product and Services:	$ 1,150,000

In addition, an estimated $750,000 cost for the biennium is estimated for Systems Integration and QA/QC services (provided by separate contractors).

In summary,

Vendor Product and Services	$1,150,000
Two years System Integration and QA/QC services	$ 750,000
Sub-total	$1,900,000
Plus 15% Estimated Contingency Costs	$ 285,000
Total Estimated Start-up/Vendor Costs	$2,185,000
Plus Estimated State Staff and Data Center Costs (from [d])	$1,252,494
TOTAL Preliminary Estimated Cost	$3,437,494

f. What are the ongoing costs?

Ongoing maintenance of the system could either be performed by state personnel or by the vendor. If DAS/OIS staff hosted and maintained the system, we estimate that two Information System Specialist 7 (ISS7) and two Application Support Staff (ISS2) positions would be required to support the system on an ongoing basis, at an estimated ongoing cost of approximately $260,000 per year. Our preliminary market research estimates the ongoing cost of paying a vendor to host and maintain the system at around $220,000 per year.

Based on this information, we estimate ongoing maintenance costs of $250,000/year, or $500,000/biennium.

g. What are the potential savings?

In one analysis, the use of an integrated Abuse Data and Report-writing System could lead to the potential annual savings of 4,337 person-hours per year, at the level of an OPA3, by reducing the amount of manual data mining. In the current state, workers run semi-automated processes to link data between different databases in order to produce metrics. Many hours are lost during the process of exchanging, checking and interpreting data from the various systems. Unfortunately, this is valuable staff time that could be better put to use performing QA and data analysis in order to identify the causes of abuse (in community and facility settings) and work to mitigate them.

These savings would multiply as efficiencies were realized for investigators and their managers in the field, as well as for OAAPI and other Department staff.

h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes

It is the expectation that DHS will continue to work with Department of Administrative Services and the Legislative Fiscal Office to change this limitation to Q Bonds by Legislatively Adopted Budget.

2015-17 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services
Program Area Name: Central Services
Program Name: Office of Program Integrity (OPI) Quality Control Child Welfare Review Team (QCCW)
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Child Welfare Quality Control Reviewer Staff
Policy Option Package Number: 108
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: Improving Government

Summary Statement:

The position requested in this POP will increase the QC review capacity in the statewide Child Welfare Quality Assurance system to conduct a statewide qualitative review of the states' child welfare practice in defined areas of child safety, permanency and wellbeing. The position will enable the team to complete stakeholder interviews, which are federally required as part of each state's Continuous Quality Improvement in Child Welfare program. Federal regulations at 45 CFR 1355 require states to maintain substantial conformity with title IV-B and IV-E requirements through CFSR reviews. Other federal requirements can be found in the federal Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 and the Administration for Children and Families Information Memorandum CB-IM 12-07 dated August 27, 2012.

There are currently 3 FTE in the Child Welfare review team. This additional position will enable the state to complete federally mandated Children and Family Services Review (CFSR) as required and mitigate the risk for federal penalties and imposed program improvement plans. This POP has the support of the Child Welfare program area leadership.

Policy Option Package Pricing:	$79,725	$0	$79,725	$159,450

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

The Children’s Bureau (CB) reviews state’s conformity with titles IV-B and IV-E of the Social Security Act through the Child and Family Services Reviews (CFSRs). Federal monitoring of our state’s title IV-B and IV-E program requirements includes child welfare case reviews and stakeholder interviews to provide evaluative qualitative data to determine whether the state is in substantial conformity with the CFSR systemic factor federal requirements.

This proposal is to increase the CFSR review team by 1 FTE for a total of 4 FTE to conduct CFSR case reviews and stakeholder interviews to maintain federal requirements. Implementation will consist of hiring and training the additional FTE through one on one training, use of the established training manual, and federal guidance.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

This DHS proposal will assist the state in meeting federal CFSR requirements (45 CFR 1355.33) by increasing capacity to conduct stakeholder interviews to inform the Children’s Bureau’s determination of the state’s functioning on the seven systemic factors.

This proposal will increase our state’s capacity to provide a statewide qualitative review of the adequacy and competence of casework and supervisory practice in defined areas of child safety, planning and outcomes for the child’s permanent living situation and the child and family’s well-being for a stratified sample of child welfare cases. Findings from the CFSR reviews are shared with DHS for purposes of compliance with federal standards; and to provide information to senior management, program managers and community partners for purposes of program improvement and achieving outcomes for children and families.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY'S MISSION OR GOALS?

The position requested in this POP is directly related to the Agency's mission and goals. Specifically, the agency's goal: "Children and youth are safe, well and connected to their families, communities and cultural identities." The purpose of the CFSR Quality Assurance review is to evaluate the implementation and effectiveness of Child Welfare policies and programs, which include the review area of child safety, and is a critical component to our state's continuous Quality Improvement (CQI) system of Child Welfare.

The Child Welfare Quality Assurance team has recently transitioned to the Quality Control Unit in the Office of Program Integrity (OPI). This newly formed office is part of DHS Central Operations, and provides opportunities for collaboration and support of Child Welfare Quality Assurance while maintaining close connections to the Program Delivery and Design sectors. The CFSR review component in this new structure is a critical review area of the Department to ensure quality Child Welfare services for the best client outcomes.

OPI's mission is to support DHS and Oregon Health Authority (OHA) programs in ensuring compliance with state and federal laws and rules; and to assist with improving program accuracy through high quality and timely accuracy review services and information sharing for select program and program areas.

Our vision for OPI is to be recognized as an indispensable partner in ensuring DHS and OHA program quality and integrity and to have our work product readily incorporated into organizational program integrity discussions and decision making.

We support our mission and vision by:

- Completing accuracy reviews and evaluations of specified program areas and report results to federal agencies, DHS and OHA leadership, programs, other interested parties and stakeholders.
- Providing detailed analysis, technical reports, feedback, recommendations, training for field staff and partners and follow up with each program area subject to review.
- Facilitating collaboration across division lines to establish and strengthen program integrity efforts in programs throughout DHS and OHA.
- Completing selected atypical reviews or reviews on a multi-year review cycle (e.g. PME, PERM, CFSR).

This POP proposal supports this mission and vision by ensuring the federal CFSR compliance to use quantitative and qualitative data to evaluate the state's performance on child welfare outcomes and systemic factors.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS OFFICE OF PROGRAM INTEGRITY PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS OFFICE OF PROGRAM INTEGRITY MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

Yes, this POP is tied to the DHS OPI Performance measure of SP 1: Program Integrity (DHS QBR) 1 (b) 6 – Percentage of Child Welfare review areas considered strengths. This measure is currently at 87%. The target goal for this measure is 90%.

This POP is also tied to the Child Welfare QBR, meeting Child Welfare outcomes.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

No alternatives considered. Status quo would be the alternative.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

Oregon would be unable to maintain compliance with CFSR federal requirements at 45 CFR Part 1355. Further, the State would be unable to adequately assess child welfare practices and related outcomes for children and families through case reviews and stakeholder interviews.

Oregon would be at risk for federal sanctions, which include losing federal match for title IV-B and IV-E funds.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

Agencies affected include DHS Child Welfare program and field offices; Tribal partners and stakeholders; DHS children and family service providers; and federal partners within the Children Bureau. These staff and partners would benefit from timely and useful CFSR data and findings to achieve continuous improvement of child welfare program and service delivery within the state, attainment of performance objectives, protection from federal sanctions; and transference of best practices amongst DHS units, divisions and federal and state partners.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

DHS Child Welfare Program.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

A known inequity this POP is associated with and addresses is disproportionality of children served by Child Welfare. This position would increase the capacity to conduct a more thorough review and analysis of services provided that prevent and/or provide timely unification of families, which include minority populations. It would also provide the ability to conduct targeted reviews, including ICWA CFSR, to determine if we are meeting the needs and providing culturally appropriate services to children and families affected by disproportionality. It would also ensure we are maintaining compliance with ICWA laws.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Yes. 1 CS3 FTE C5248.

- e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

No modifications are anticipated for computer systems. Training will be accomplished through our in-house training resources and from on-line federal guidance and review tools.

- f. What are the ongoing costs?

Ongoing biennial personnel cost for the additional FTE.

- g. What are the potential savings?

Avoidance of federal sanctions which could result in loss of funding. Achievement of client outcomes will result in decrease in foster care cases and service provider costs. These potential savings are incalculable.

h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

2015-17 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services
Program Area Name: Child Welfare
Program Name: Child Welfare Design
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Program Infrastructure
Policy Option Package Number: 109
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: Safety

Summary
Statement:

This POP builds capacity in the Child Welfare design office to support the ongoing efforts currently underway. Those efforts include Differential Response; Safety, Wellbeing and Permanency supports for field workers; development of the statewide hot line;

If this POP is not funded, the fidelity of the field work of Child Welfare will drop and it could threaten the successful implementation of the primary initiative of Child Welfare.

	General Fund	Other Funds	Federal Funds	Total Funds
Policy Option Package Pricing:	$2,183,289	$0	$2,176,226	$4,359,515

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

The delivery of child welfare services in the field is supported by staff in Central Office that develops and implements policy, practice consultation, quality assurance, contract support and general support and consultation. As staff in the field has grown, the staff available to support the field staff has been static. Because of this, there is not sufficient support for the field workers in their application of the Oregon Safety Model, implementation of Differential Response, consultation on permanency issues and the promulgation of the rules that guide child welfare work. All of these initiatives support the safe and equitable reduction in foster care.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

This POP will increase the capacity of Child Welfare Design to support the work in the field, specifically in practicing to fidelity to the Oregon Safety Model, further implementation of Differential Response, Permanency Roundtables, services to children in foster care, and the safe and equitable reduction in the number of children experiencing foster care.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY'S MISSION OR GOALS?

This POP furthers the efforts that are driving the safe and equitable reduction in foster care. This is directly related to the Safety bid team for Child Welfare.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

This POP is tied to the safe and equitable reduction in foster care.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

For some time, the field has had allocations from the Legislature to add staff, however, there was not a concurrent addition of staff for Central Office to support the field casework staff and supervisors. We have considered and used job rotations out of the field for more immediate coverage, but this is insufficient to provide the needed support.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

If this POP is not funded, there will be a continued reduction in the support Child Welfare Design can provide to field workers. This will result in decreased fidelity to the practice elements, impacting all families services by child welfare. Reduced fidelity to the practice model could result in children being left in unsafe situations.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

A reduction in the fidelity of practice to the safety model could impact Native American children and families that come to the attention of the department.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

None.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

These positions will be supporting the field staff in the consistent and equitable provision of services to families. Potentially, with this additional support, we will positively impact the disproportionate representation of children of color in the foster care system by placing fewer children in care, serving more families with children at home.

2015-17 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services
Program Area Name: Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS)
Program Name: Office of Developmental Disabilities Services
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Build Provider Capacity for individuals with significant, long-term challenges
Policy Option Package Number: 110
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: Healthy People

Summary Statement:

A strong need has emerged to support people with long-term challenges with enhanced services in community settings. To that end, the need for a focused strategic plan to address the “stepping down” of people with significant challenges, although NOT in crisis, currently served through the Stabilization and Crisis Unit and in other settings is immediate, cost effective and necessary. This POP supports such a plan with start-up or “grant funds” to provider agencies throughout the state who will build residential homes specifically for people with I/DD who have significant, long-term challenges.

	General Fund	Other Funds	Federal Funds	Total Funds

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP would create a funding resource to develop capacity within the community provider agencies for targeted services in a residential setting. Currently there is not enough service capacity for placement of SACU clients who have stabilized and yet, through no fault of their own, their disability requires intensive oversight and staffing. SACU would work directly with interested providers to establish a relationship and agreement for services directed at current clients while placing them in the least restrictive settings to enhance their independence and improve their quality of life.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

Over the last year of transition and focus on a crisis oriented service model, it has become apparent that the current 108 beds within the system of care are not fully accessible for those individuals in crisis due to the permanency of many current clients in SACU homes. Through further investigation it has become apparent that many SACU clients have “stabilized” and, but for a lack of community placements, remain in our crisis beds. This is compounded by the fact that there are waiting lists for both the children and adults which further places these individuals at risk during a time of crisis.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS?

The mission of DHS is to support people to lead independent and healthy lives in the least restrictive way possible. To that end, this proposal supports resource development to move individuals who are currently living in secured and hardened homes when it is no longer required, simply because there are no other community resources to which they could move.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A SACU PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL SACU MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

As SACU is just beginning to develop performance measures, this POP will support the measure addressing length of stay in the agency. The metric currently under design for SACU has the general population of 108 beds primarily focused on LENGTH OF STAY within the agency, again with the focus on crisis and stabilization needs. Once those needs are addressed within the SACU service model, the client will be moved into a less restrictive and expensive community placement developed with resources from this POP.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No, it does not require a change to an existing statute.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

The need to expand program capacity has been a driver in the system of care for many decades. Current alternatives considered included:

- a. The continuation of the current model which is an expensive service and oversight for a population no longer in need of this level of service;
- b. Using the existing community provider resources but the current shortage of community residential beds as well as the higher acuity of this population did not support this alternative.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

Not investing in community development of a less expensive and more independent resource is twofold. These individuals will need state provided services at a higher rate of expense than a community provider would cost, and the mission of DHS would be undermined in not supporting this investment. Additionally, a crisis bed would continue to be utilized for clients NOT in crisis but simply in our system for lack of additionally community resources. The waiting list will continue to grow.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

The agencies most impacted by this POP include community based provider agencies of residential services for the most severely Intellectually & Developmentally Disabled (I/DD) clients within the state of Oregon. Those agencies would build capacity for services through this proposal as well as improve their own aptitude and skill set in the service provision to this client population.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

None identified.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

We are working with the Office of Multicultural Services to perform an Equity Analysis. Additional information will be reported at a future date.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

The determination of the actual “grants” to each qualified provider would be set through this proposal. The affected cost variance would simply be how far a dollar can be stretched in the development and construction of additional housing resources. An assumption of proper grant management, effective cost allocation, and oversight of managing physical plant construction are all variables in the mix of effective public stewardship of tax dollars. Approximately 25 GF Grants at $10,000 each.

2015-17 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: DHS
Program Area Name: ODDS Assessment Unit
Program Name: ODDS
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Provider Rate Increases
Policy Option Package Number: 111
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: Healthy People

Summary
Statement:

Providers in 24 hour Group Homes and Supported Living Agencies have not had a Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) in 3 biennia. We are requesting a 4% rate increase to these provider agencies effective 1/1/2016. 4% is less than the combined COLAs for the previous three biennia but will allow these agencies to increase direct staff wages and/or benefits for those that serve our I/DD individuals.

	General Fund	Other Funds	Federal Funds	Total Funds
Policy Option Package Pricing:	$8,537,069	$0	$18,163,987	$26,701,056

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP would increase existing provider rates for the 24 Hour Group Home and Supported Living provider agencies. Providers would then be able to increase salaries and/or benefits for their direct care staff. We would propose to implement these rate increases effective 1/1/2016. These increases could be implemented via the eXPRS system.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

DHS relies upon community providers to support individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. These supports allow people to be integrated into their local community with the supports that they need to live full lives. Intellectual and Developmental Disability (I/DD) providers have not received a Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA) in the past three biennia. They are finding it difficult to maintain staff due to the ability of staff to obtain higher paying jobs with benefits in other settings. Staff that remain at these agencies are not able to make a living wage. These agencies are crucial to the delivery of services to the I/DD population.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY'S MISSION OR GOALS?

By allowing providers to increase the wages and/or benefits to their direct care staff they will be better able to maintain long term staff which leads to a more stable living environment for the individuals we serve.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

No

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

If we do increase provider rates they will continue to lose staff to the Personal Support Worker side which does not provide services to the group homes or supported living agencies. This will decrease our seasoned workforce for those that cannot live on their own.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

If we do increase provider rates they will continue to lose staff to the Personal Support Worker side which does not provide services to the group homes or supported living agencies. This will decrease our seasoned workforce for those that cannot live on their own.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

None.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

I/DD stakeholders were involved in the development of this POP. A stakeholder group was developed to advise DHS on priorities for the 2015-17 budget and this concept was one of the highest priorities the group identified.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

Further work on an equity analysis is required. DHS will be working with the Office of Equity and Multicultural Services to advance this conversation.

Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: SS – backfill empty OF & restoration of pos.
Policy Option Package Number: 070/113
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: Economy and Jobs

Summary Statement:

This combination of policy option packages eliminates all the empty other fund limitation in virtually all Self Sufficiency positions and replacing it with a combination of General and Federal Funds. The empty other fund limitation issue is primarily the result of actions taken prior to the 2003-05 session to hit a GF target at the time, where all positions were provided some other fund limitation. In addition the loss of provider and hospital tax funding for Self Sufficiency positions, to free up GF in 2011-13 and 2013-15, was not permanently backfilled. DHS has been managing to the budget for several biennia through vacancy savings. The Federal Fund backfill is from the TANF flexibility in design POP 101. The remaining backfill is General Funds. In addition, 17 Case Manager Positions have been added to take the total GF investment to $10M as agreed upon in the TANF Re-Design.

Summary
Statement:

The policy option package is requesting position authority to clear all of the double filled positions within the Vocational Rehabilitation program. These positions currently have the necessary funding to support them. These positions were hired to serve the ever expanding need for rehabilitation services by Oregon residents, as well as meeting required over site of program based on federal reviews and reporting requirements. Vocational Rehabilitation has been able to fund these by reducing contract costs and managing spending related to client services.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This Policy Option Package would create position authority for the double filled positions within the Vocational Rehabilitation program and move the dollars out of the special payments portion of the budget to the personal services and service and supplies lines where they are being spent.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

To better align the budget and provide the appropriate funding related to employee cost.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY'S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

This allows the program and the agency to reflect and manage the actual expenditures in the appropriate categories.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

No. Proper classification of budgeted and actual expenditures will allow the agency and program to properly manage within the budgeted authority as well as analyze any need to active the Order of Selection based on available funding.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Continuing as currently funded with manual tracking and continued impact of the federal funds used to support personnel.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

The program would continue to fund the positions with all of the state increases each biennium using federal funds that do not increase thereby reducing the amount of money available for client services.

Summary
Statement:

Understanding data and information from across state Agencies is a need that is being identified by many Agencies and multiple conversations are currently occurring. Analysis of integrated client/customer service information across state services would be a powerful tool to assist in identifying costs, risks, outcomes, and future need level at the state, community, family and individual level. It would also provide an understanding of our state services from client/customer perspective. Several efforts to do this are currently underway. Coordination and consolidation of these efforts, development of governance for data access and use, and resource for maintenance, expansion and analysis are needed for Oregon.

Policy Option Package Pricing:	$946,393	$1,889,626	$943,233	$3,779,252

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

Oregon state agencies continue to operate with fewer resources and diminished capacity while simultaneously planning, developing and implementing new ways of doing business. A key component of agency transformation is the ability to leverage advancements in technology and data analysis to support the organization's business objectives towards achieving shared outcomes. Our main enterprise issue is the lack of sufficient data analytic, which involves the collection, synthesis, and analysis of data that can lead to improved decision-making as a result of understanding underlying patterns and trends.

State agencies collect a substantial amount of data about clients/customers and the services they receive. However, they generally do this in isolation from each other, many times using antiquated IT systems. A few states and cities have, or are in the process of, developed integrated systems or data warehouses to support analysis which inform internal and external decision-making. Examples of these include the state of Washington (see <http://www.dshs.wa.gov/rda/mission.shtm>) and the city of New York. This work is being accomplished through a sustained vision and long-term commitment. Oregon has several similar efforts underway including:

- the DHS/OHA Integrated Client Services (ICS) database and DHS Office of Business Intelligence and OHA Office of Health Analytics,
- the DOC data warehouse and the Office of Research and Projects, and
- the Education longitudinal data warehouse and research analysts

This work could be leveraged and expanded to provide a wider wealth of information needed for policy decision-making.

This POP would create and resource an Oregon Enterprise Data Analytics (OEDA) group for program research and evaluation purposes. Analysis would focus on costs, services and clients/customers receiving social, health, educational, correctional and employment services. Social services would include welfare, food, cash assistance, housing, etc.

Data Analytic staff would be added to make broader use of the data that is being collected. The OEDA group would focus on enhancing analytic capabilities to support agency, system and legislative questions and build risk models and other tools for policy/practice decision-making. They would be able to analyze population-based outcome information and results across programs and systems.

From a data perspective, the current ICS database already brings together client and service information from DHS and OHA as well as information from Vital Statistics, Employment and DOC. The focus over the first biennium would be to expand this data to include Education/Early Learning and OYA. Certain service cost data and health risk/outcome data could also be added.

The OEDA group would be managed out of DHS/OHA shared services and would focus on the following foundational components:

- The creation of an inclusive enterprise governance structure over access and use of the data, to include representation from all areas whose data is included in the data warehouse. This governance would prioritize the analysis and model development performed by the OEDA staff.
- Research and data analytic staff to develop predictive/risk models and use advanced analytical capabilities to do program, policy and cost analysis. (see section 2 for more detail on the proposed focus of the analytic work).
- Completion of new data sharing agreements which adhere to agency, state and federal policies.
- Maintenance, expansion, and enhancement of data sets in the data warehouse, including:
 - development of matching and other business rules for new data,
 - collection/transmission of additional identified program data,
 - any incremental hardware and software costs,

This work would be done in collaboration with Agencies and programs and would not replace the need to have some agency specific data and analysis resources in support of their agency operations.

The vision for accomplishing this work would include having a researcher with expertise in specific services areas [such as health, economics, social services, etc.] that would be partnered with one or more “big data” analytic specialists. For example, WA currently has over 20 research/data analysts working on various projects. They also have 5 staff devoted to performance measurement. This does not include the staff that maintain their various databases or develop their online tools for workers.

As a starting point for this work in Oregon, an additional staff of at least 11 would be needed. This would be composed of:

- 1 manager[PEME]
- 8 research/data analysts [6 RA4, 2 Econ3] to perform data analysis/evaluation and developing risk models and other tools. In addition, they would provide guidance on how the data needs to be organized in the database to support efficient analysis
- 1 database administrator [ISS8],
- 1 database maintenance staff [ISS6],
- Part-time Information Architect (approx. 0.1 FTE)
- Part-time Information Security and Privacy analyst (approx. 0.1 FTE)
- Approximately 60 hours of AAG time to consult on the development of data sharing agreements

In addition to performing analysis and building models, analysts would work with each agency to understand their data and business requirements and to monitor for IT/data system changes that impact the data being pulled into the OEDA.

Also using the approach developed in Washington, opportunities would be actively sought to add staff over time through funding by agencies and/or grants for research.

2. WHY DOES (DHS/OHA) PROPOSE THIS POP?

This POP is being proposed in order to create enterprise analytics capacity to look more broadly and holistically at our clients/customers in order to more effectively serve them and improve their outcomes. For many years agencies and programs worked in silos, not recognizing that individuals and families were interacting and being affected by multiple programs and services at the same time and/or throughout their lives. The largest area of learning that is needed by policy makers today actually occurs outside of the silos. This POP would enhance the infrastructure for better decision-making around the effectiveness of interventions and help improve the efficient allocation of scarce resources. It also would provide better response to the real-time needs of citizens. It would help identify how to bring the right resources at the right time to the right families. It could also provide greater transparency and accountability – allowing for the creation of integrated, cross-system performance and outcome measurement.

Integrating data allows for longitudinal analysis of client/customer experience and needs which helps inform policy, practice and funding decisions. These analyses can help us identify ways to push resources earlier in client/customer's lives to address issues found to put them at risk of escalation of needs, preventing the need for more costly interventions later.

Having large data sets of integrated information and dedicated data analytic staff make it possible to identify complex patterns in the data that may or may not be otherwise expected. This then allows for models and tools to be built to help identify risk levels and strategically target services. For example, complicated relationships such as those discovered in the Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE) study could be uncovered by analysis of big longitudinal integrated data sets. The ACE Study found that as the number of adverse childhood experiences (such as abuse/neglect, DV, parental substance abuse, mental illness, divorce, or incarceration) increased, the risk for a number of health problems later in life also increased (health problems included alcoholism, smoking, heart disease to name a few).

In Washington, they have been able to leverage program evaluation and risk modeling work completed by their analytics group to create a Predictive Risk Intelligence System (PRISM) application which is now used to help triage high-risk Medicaid clients for eligibility to intensive, higher cost services. This has reduced inpatient and mortality risks for clients.

The initial focus of the OEDA work this biennium could include:

- Support of Early Learning and Education related questions- Having cross-agency integrated data will assist us with the need to understand early learning in the context of a complex ecosystem, including the system layers and actors that affect the five domains of whole child development. The following are examples of analysis that would be undertaken:
 - describing the relationship between social and behavioral risk factors and educational disabilities for K-12 students using linked DHS/OHA data and educational administrative data
 - determining Risk factors of late high school graduation or drop-out for children in 9th grade and receiving services from DHS/OHA – to focus additional intervention
 - developing child success risk calculations at various educational stages (i.e., kindergarten readiness, 3rd grade, 9th grade) using child and family service and risk factors
- Support of Additional “Feeder System” Analysis, similar to what has been started by DOC, which would provide a better understanding of the way and reasons that Oregonians move through the various state Agencies programs. This information is important in order to develop or target service interventions to where they can be most effective and can assist in better estimating future need for services. Better understanding factors that increase risk of entry to the child welfare system would be the first focus.
- Creation of de-identified data sets available for public research and analysis, as well as some aggregate data reporting for basic information.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

Better information is key to better decision-making. Bringing data together and analyzing it in meaningful ways leads to the expansion of information. Therefore this POP to build structure is an investment in growing the information we need today and in the future to innovate.

Governor Kitzhaber stated, "We can't move Oregon forward if we're operating in silos. We can only move Oregon forward if we can make connections and leverage opportunities." Bringing together and analyzing the vast amount of data we as a state have, is vital to making new kinds of connections.

It will help provide the information needed to address Oregon’s top priorities of:

- Education: Delivering better results for students, more resources for teachers and more accountability for taxpayers.
- Health Care: Working with local communities, health care providers, legislators, and federal partners to deliver better care and improved health at lower costs.
- Jobs and Innovation: Getting Oregonians back to work.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A (DHS/OHA) PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS/OHA MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

The success of this POP will be measured by the analysis and models produced and by the availability of the de-identified data set.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Several alternatives to this proposal were considered. One alternative was to partner with University researchers to develop the needed analysis. In speaking with staff in Washington, they emphasized that a direct connection to policy makers and implementers had been key to the success of their analytics office. Having that close connection, rather than a more theoretical or academic perspective, was necessary to having meaningful and directly applicable findings. Similarly, having the staff connected to a direct client service agency, rather than an administrative entity like DAS, is seen as preferable and a benefit because of the understanding of implementation and service delivery. The final alternative was to continue the multiple efforts underway and the relatively slow progress that agencies are making by trying to do this work on top of other data and analytic tasks for their programs. With the focus we have today on outcomes for our clients/customers and effectiveness of our services, especially in relation to the significant size of program budgets involved, this was not seen as a prudent alternative.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

Continued policy decision-making without all the relevant information.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

Education, Early Learning and OYA would be affected. They would need to participate in the development of data sharing agreements and data transfer, understanding of their program data, and review and approval of analysis done using their data. They would also have the ability to access, with appropriate approval, additional analysis using other agencies' data also. The governance structure, which would include representation from all participating agencies, would prioritize the analysis and models developed by the data analytics staff.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

In addition to DHS and OHA, the other agencies collaborating on this POP are Education, Early Learning, DOC and OYA.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

This POP will allow for better analysis of service equity through the collection of demographic data for analysis around access, risks and outcomes.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Implementation Date(s): 10/1/2015

End Date (if applicable): N/A

- a. Will there be new responsibilities for (DHS/OHA)? Specify which Program Area(s) and describe their new responsibilities.

None identified.

- b. Will there be new Shared Services impacts sufficient to require additional funding? Specify which office(s) (i.e., facilities, computer services, etc.) and describe how it will be affected.

Yes, a new unit would be created in Shared Services for the OEDA under the Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis. Services which are required whenever incremental employees are hired will also be needed (e.g. HR, Payroll, Facilities, IT, etc.); OIS maintenance and potential expansion of the ICS database; Information Security & Privacy Office role in review of data sharing and security considerations.

- c. Will there be changes to client caseloads or services provided to population groups? Specify how many in each relevant program.

No.

- d. Will it take new staff or will existing positions be modified? For each classification, list the number of positions and the number of months the positions will work in each biennium. Specify if the positions are permanent, limited duration or temporary.

Yes, see section 1. Staff would be for 21 months. It is assumed that development will be ongoing and never reach a true maintenance phase, due to the ever-changing dynamic of state, federal and local policies around program domains and their data and data systems. As a result, the proposed staffing levels will likely need to be maintained in perpetuity.

- e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

Additional server space may be needed as well as potential modifications to the current ICS data base.

- f. What are the ongoing costs?

Maintenance costs for the data warehouse, software license renewals, permanent staffing, Enterprise Technology Services (such as increased storage costs).

- g. What are the potential savings?

None identified.

- h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

2015-17 Policy Option Package

Agency Name:	Department of Human Services
Program Area Name:	Shared Services
Program Name:	Office of Payment Accuracy and Recovery (OPAR) Fraud Investigation Unit (FIU)
Policy Option Package Initiative:	N/A
Policy Option Package Title:	TANF Investigator POP
Policy Option Package Number:	123
Related Legislation:	N/A
Program Funding Team:	Improving Government

Summary Statement:

Currently, OPAR's client fraud investigators have caseloads in excess of 300 cases each. This is excessive and additional resources are needed to properly dispose of the backlogged workload. Further, an investigator's work often happens in client homes and in adversarial situations where safety is a concern.

These new staff (7 FTE, Investigator 3 classification; 10 FTE, Investigator 2 classification; 2 FTE, Office Specialist 2; 2 FTE, Administrative Specialist 2; 1 FTE, Program Manager C) would provide the additional investigative horsepower needed to right-size the investigations unit, reduce existing safety concerns, as well as expand capacity for utilizing new data mining and GIS fraud identification techniques. This POP has been repriced at the Governor's Budget to reflect a delay of 9 months for implementation.

	General Fund	Other Funds	Federal Funds	Total Funds
Policy Option Package Pricing:	$884,248	$1,314,776	$763,687	$2,962,711

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This package would right-size the Fraud Investigation Unit for both the traditional number of fraud referrals needing investigation and to provide back-up and safety-oriented support for investigators as they go about their hazardous day-to-day activities. This staffing level would also allow the team to steadily reduce their backlog and provide the capability needed to work the new leads generated by the enhanced data analytics capabilities this package would also fund.

Data analytics is proving to be a valuable tool to many states. The capabilities afforded by even the ability to analyze a simple match of recipients to store locations provide many investigative opportunities that would go unnoticed without such capability. A recent pilot project undertaken in concert with the Oregon Audits Division, Food and Nutrition Service – Office of Inspector General (FNS OIG), FBI, DHS SNAP program staff, and our office highlights these capabilities. We are pursuing an FNS grant for specific data analytic capabilities funding, but the resources to work the leads and complete the investigations will need to come from our regular staffing. This package should allow us to ramp up this capability while we simultaneously reduce and eventually eliminate the backlog.

These additional investigative resources would also generate overpayments, cost avoidance, and recoveries. As a total funds investment, these new revenues and cost avoidance opportunities would cover the cost of adding the new staff and capabilities. The package return on investment (ROI) includes several positions that are not revenue / cost avoidance generating per se, which would be lower than an office and program level

ROI. If you consider just the expenses for investigators against recovery / cost avoidance, or with the entire package resources added at the office level, the ROI would be positive.

Program investments will allow FIU the opportunity to improve their effectiveness and efficiency through GIS, significantly improve investigator safety, and expand the deterrent effect that comes with more investigators. Further, these costs will be offset to a great extent by the new recovery and cost avoidance opportunities resulting from more investigators in the field and enhanced analytical capabilities.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

For the work referred to the Fraud Investigations Unit, and the type of work they do, increasing staffing to both handle the workload and to help mitigate the hazardous nature of the work is warranted. This POP would do these things as well as the benefits listed in response to question #1.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY'S MISSION OR GOALS?

It clearly supports the integrity mission by providing resources for reducing fraud attacks.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

It is tied to the OPAR performance measures and will be monitored accordingly.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

It does not.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Alternatives are limited because of lack of personnel resources. The alternatives considered would only create service delivery gaps in other areas.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

The long range effect would be fraud attacks would continue to increase to the point we would not be able to significantly impact and counter the trend. We would also be missing the opportunity to effectively utilize technology that could have a greater impact on fraud detection.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

None.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

DHS Self Sufficiency is collaborating on this POP.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

None.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Positions would start at level 1 or 2 of the classification depending on work history.

Implementation Date(s): 10/1/2016 – 7/1/2016

- e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

Graphic Information System software licenses (3).

- f. What are the ongoing costs?

Biennial funding of new positions, facilities increases, vehicles, and GIS licensing.

- g. What are the potential savings?

Historically, this number of investigators would generate approximately $5 million in additional Total Fund revenue and cost avoidance per biennium.

- h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

Note: the original calculation for this package assumed some costs to OHA, but due to time constraints, the entire budget has been put into DHS at 2015-17 GB. Should this POP be approved in the Legislatively Adopted Budget, a technical adjustment to move Shared Services Funding into OHA will need to occur at the first 2015-17 Rebalance.*

What are the sources of funding and the funding split for each one?

The final amounts of funding by grant will be determined at the Legislatively Adopted Budget once the final value and determination of start time of staff is approved.

Agency Name: Department of Human Services
Program Area Name: Office of Self Sufficiency Programs
Program Name: Child Care Program
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Early Learning ERDC Investment
Policy Option Package Number: POP 129
Related Legislation: N/A Program Funding Team: Education

Summary
Statement:

Increase the Employment Related Day Care (ERDC) caseload from 7,700 to 10,700 allowing more low-income working families access to safe, stable, quality child care. Families need ERDC to help pay for the child care necessary to maintain employment. Children in care need continuous quality educational experiences which support positive child development. This prepares children for kindergarten and beyond. Research shows having a subsidy affects parental choice. Families can select high quality child care programs, such as those offered through ERDC contracts with Head Start and providers that have achieved the Oregon Program of Quality designation. ERDC funds are paid directly to child care providers who are contributing members to local economies throughout the state.

Policy Option Package Title: Transfer Food Assistance Programs from OHCS
Policy Option Package Number: POP 301
Related Legislation: N/A Program Funding Team: Jobs

Summary Statement:

Transferring the administration of the Oregon Hunger Response Fund (OHRF), The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP), and the Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) to DHS from Oregon Housing and Community Services (OHCS) provides for consolidation and streamlining with similar programs. DHS currently administers a variety of programs that help similar populations (e.g., Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), Meals on Wheels, congregate meal sites). The transfer of similarly focused programs avoids duplication of effort and potentially produces better results and increased numbers of Oregonians served.

	General Fund	Other Funds	Federal Funds	Total Funds

Purpose

The legislatively approved OHCS Transition Plan recommends transferring the administration of OHCS food programs to the Department of Human Services (DHS) and the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation (CTUIR).

Transferring the administration of the Oregon Hunger Response Fund (OHRF), The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP), and the Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) to DHS provides for consolidation and streamlining with similar programs. DHS currently administers a variety of programs that help similar populations (e.g., Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), Meals on Wheels, congregate meal sites). The transfer of similarly focused programs avoids duplication of effort and potentially produces better results and increased numbers of Oregonians served.

How Achieved

OHCS has already consulted with the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) and outlined a planning process and the issues to be addressed as learned from another state's similar program transition. OHCS will convene a workgroup that includes DHS and current OHCS food program grantees to develop a transfer timeline and steps to ensure a thoughtful transition that minimizes disruptions to both grantees and the clients they serve.

The strong partnership between DHS and OHCS will still allow for the coordination of food and housing service delivery but take better advantage of each department's expertise and current delivery systems with potential cost savings and increased integration of like services.

While the specific process and timeline for transfer is still being determined, the goal is to have the food programs transitioned to the Department of Human Services by January 1, 2016. This package reflects 18 months of Special Payments needed to administer the program through DHS in 2015-17.

Quantifying Results

OHCS will continue to track performance measures and subgrantee program recipient information for FY 2014-15 and will work with DHS to determine how best to continue data collection. The stakeholder workgroups will advise OHCS and DHS as to whether changes need to be made to the program data that is currently being collected and/or to performance measures. Current performance measures include: acquisition of food based on a standard of two million pounds of nutritious foods (OHRF); distribution of food based on a standard of 900,000 food boxes (TEFAP); 98% caseload rate (CSFP); and 5% increase in number of qualified households served (FDPIR).

2017-19 Fiscal Impact

The additional 6 months of Special Payments funding for food assistance programs will be phased in during the 2017-19 budget build process.

Department of Human Services AFFIRMATIVE ACTION REPORT

This report summarizes the progress the Oregon Department of Human Services (DHS) has made in accomplishing its affirmative action goals for the 2013–2015 biennium, and identifies DHS’s goals for 2015–2017.

July 1, 2013 to June 30, 2015

Accomplishments toward affirmative action goals

DHS continues to work to create a diverse and multicultural organization. The agency will continue to build upon our successes to achieve a more culturally competent work force, create culturally appropriate and effective programs and service delivery systems, develop quality improvement strategies with a focus on diversity and create a welcoming environment for our diverse client base and staff.

The DHS Affirmative Action Plan is a key component of the department’s ongoing diversity development efforts. These serve to enhance the diversity of our work force, provide equal employment opportunities, provide guidelines for organizational change, increase participation by diverse constituencies in agency operations, and guide leadership management by eliminating institutionalized and individual illegal discrimination in the workplace. Our diverse culturally competent work force assists the department to better understand and respond to clients’ and customers’ needs.

The following is updated information highlighting significant strategies and progressive steps being taken to achieve our 2013–2015 goals:

1. Meet and exceed parity in all EEO job categories and subcategories

- DHS sent position recruitments to the Governor’s Affirmative Action Office for distribution through the Diversity listserv.

- OEMS and OHR have added additional events to agency recruitment tools, focusing on events that are for professionals of color, veterans and professionals with disabilities.
 - DHS has updated its ADA procedure, created a full-time ADA manager position and continued to develop forms, tools and training to support accommodation services for employees.
- 2. Increase recruitment and retention of work force representative of Oregon's changing demographics. This includes veterans and people with disabilities.

In addition to the above strategies:

- DHS continued to assess the agency's hiring and retention practices for people of color, veterans and people with disabilities at all salary ranges. Particular attention was placed on high level management positions. OEMS was used as a resource in these recruitments.
- The DHS Employee Resource Group Policy and Procedure has been approved by an initial committee and is pending approval from a second committee. Three ERGs currently exist (two unofficially): Black Employee Support Team, Hispanic Network (HispNet) and LGBTQQ Resource Team.
- OEMS has an intranet site that provides resources to support employees and encourage learning.
- DHS provided training and awareness activities to address workplace environment issues using cultural competency training, policy training on the discrimination and harassment-free workplace and maintaining a professional workplace.
- OEMS with OHR has provided trainings specific to diversity and inclusion information, such as P.A.U.S.E.

3. Increase DHS implementation and practice of equity, diversity and cultural competency in workplace services.

- DHS programs, with the support of the OEMS service equity manager, developed local diversity strategic plans that include initiatives and strategies to support diversification of our work force and culturally appropriate delivery of services.
- OEMS reviewed agency policies and procedures to ensure that elements of cultural competency and cultural appropriateness are embedded throughout such policies.
- OEMS reviewed DHS legislative concepts and budget proposals to include consideration of the impact on specific populations and to provide consultation on cultural appropriateness.
- OEMS and DHS Director's Office have acknowledged through email and website the celebration of cultural events within the state.
- OEMS and DHS programs have cohosted events to develop relationships with different communities. Forums have been held in different locations to develop relationships with Latino, African American and Native American communities.
- Future forums will include other communities such as Asian/Pacific Islander and specific disability communities.
- Some DHS program districts continue to host local diversity conferences for employees, volunteers, community partners, community members and clients.

- DHS continues to bring diversity and inclusion as well as cultural humility to the forefront of the agency's values through the DHS Director's weekly messages or through the OEMS administrator messages to all employees (and public).

4. Increase evaluation, communication and collaboration to achieve affirmative action goals

- On a quarterly basis, OEMS reports out on work force diversity quarterly numbers that include current work force, hiring, promotions and separations.
- DHS hired a work force retention coordinator.
- DHS' affirmative action officer reviews periodic reports.

5. Improve ability to measure and benchmark data to document progress and barriers to achieving affirmative action goals.

- DHS created a work force diversity measure (part of the DHS NOW management system) that it continues to review and develop on a quarterly basis. This has led to a best practices recommendation plan. The plan has been designed as a rapid implementation plan. It focuses on recruitment and retention of people of color and people with disabilities.
- DHS continues to participate in the Governor's Marketplace, providing information to various vendor communities on contracting. This annual conference is targeted toward women and minority-owned businesses and provides information to the communities on how to do business with the state.

DHS EEO-4 job group utilization¹

The following chart reflects the DHS/OHA work force makeup between June 30, 2012, and the most current available department totals on June 30, 2014. The total includes parity figures; parity is defined as a condition achieved in an organization when the protected class composition of its work force is equal to that in the relevant available labor force. The Governor's Affirmative Action Office establishes parity goals for each agency.

Analysis of EEO-4 Job Group Utilization Summary Chart

The following information identifies areas where DHS is under parity in EEO job categories as of June 30, 2014, and reflects our determination to increase the diversity of our work force with affirmative action initiatives:

A. Officials and administrators (SR 24-44)

Women: 0 under parity in this category.

B. Professionals (SR 21-33):

Women: 0 under parity.

People of color: 5 under parity.

People with disabilities: 10 under parity.

B.1 Social service professionals:

Women: 0 under parity.

People of color: 0 under parity.

C. Technicians (SR 12-26):

Women: 1 under parity.

People of color: 0 under parity.

People with disabilities: 2 under parity.

D. Protective service workers: (There are no DHS employees in this EEO job category.)

E. Paraprofessionals (SR 14-21):

Women: 0 under parity.

People of color: 0 under parity.

People with disabilities: 69 under parity.

F. Administrative support (SR 07-23):

Women: 0 under parity.

People of color: 0 under parity.

People with disabilities: 5 under parity.

G. Skilled craft (SR 12-26):

Women: 0 under parity.

People of color: 1 under parity.

People with disabilities: 1 under parity.

H. Service maintenance workers (SR 09-20):

Women: 3 under parity.

People of color: 2 under parity.

People with disabilities: 1 under parity.

Progress made or lost since the previous biennium

Overall DHS continues to meet or exceed parity in almost all job categories in employing people of color and women. DHS has experienced a small underutilization in the skilled craft workers' job category of women. DHS also has a small underutilization of people of color and women in the service maintenance worker job category.

DHS has worked to improve hiring and retention of people with disabilities. We are underutilized in each job group, according to the new 7% utilization rate the federal government suggests.⁴ It is important to note that statistical data for people with disabilities are dependent on voluntary self-identification. There is currently a barrier to collection of some information regarding employees with disabilities because Oregon state law prohibits inquiring about job applicants' disabilities.⁵ DHS has experienced a statistically significant adverse impact in the involuntary separations of Black/African American employees in the job categories of professional and paraprofessional. DHS also has a statistically significant adverse impact in the involuntary separations of employees that identify as two or more races and American Indian in the same job category of paraprofessionals.

Goals, strategies and timelines for DHS Affirmative Action Plan

DHS will continue to emphasize focused initiatives to:

- Provide management and non-management staff with training and development opportunities to support career development, organizational growth and effective and inclusive client services. A department-wide cultural competency training initiative started in August 2007 will provide training to all employees by 2018.
- Continue to support statewide affirmative action efforts, which include encouraging DHS/OHA staff to promote/transfer to other state agencies, i.e., recognize that DHS is and can be more of a resource for diversity across the state work force.

⁵ ORS 659A.133S

- Continue to increase the number of qualified women, people of color and people with disabilities on our applicant lists for job openings by working with the OHR Recruitment Unit to maximize the E-Recruit system. This system is a tool for monitoring and ensuring equal employment opportunity by identifying adverse effect or unnecessary barriers to entry.
- Continue making proactive use of existing targeted recruitment programs, particularly those designed to assist individuals with disabilities.
- Expand partnerships with local, state and regional community-based organizations, particularly those with ties to people with disabilities.
- Improve communication of our commitment to affirmative action and equal employment opportunity through continual program, policy and practice review and the dissemination of this information both internally and externally throughout the department.
- Encourage and support the development of employee resource groups (ERG) throughout the agency.

Department of Human Services AUDIT RESPONSE REPORT

1. DHS and OHA: Statewide Single Audit Including Selected Financial Accounts and Federal Awards for the Year Ended June 30, 2011, audit # 2012- 08, (dated March 2012)

- We recommend department management develop controls to ensure all Supplemental Nutritional Assistance Program federal revenues are recorded and year-end financial statement adjustments to expenditures are appropriate.

DHS uses a third-party service provider to administer the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). This service provider draws revenue directly from the federal government as benefits are issued to clients. Each month the Office of Financial Services (OFS) receives a report from the service provider and records the federal revenue drawn in the state accounting system. At the end of the year the Statewide Financial Reporting unit adjusts expenditures to match the revenue drawn for financial reporting.

The January 2011 revenue recording from the service provider in the amount of $94,357,598 was missed. At the end of the fiscal year, the expenditures were reduced by an equivalent amount. Since the discovery of this error, cross training has been provided to OFS staff and an additional review has been established by the OFS Reconciliation unit to ensure each month's revenue transaction is posted. Additionally, the Statewide Financial Reporting unit reviews the SNAP program trial balances for reasonableness during the reporting year to identify anomalies and to implement needed corrections prior to year-end close.

The implemented cross training has been followed since implemented and has provided results. The OFS Reconciliations unit identified an error with an entry made for June 2012 and immediately notified the appropriate staff allowing it to be corrected and properly recorded.

- We recommend department management develop procedures to ensure that balance transfers pertaining to prior fiscal years are properly recorded and do not misstate current year fund balances.

In January 2010 Medicaid and CHIP Federal rules changed related to client citizenship documentation requirements. This change allowed the department to reclassify expenditures from GAAP General Fund to GAAP Health & Social Services Fund for current and prior fiscal years.

These types of adjustments are often large and require complex analysis to determine the appropriate accounting in current and prior periods. OFS will continue to provide training opportunities to program and internal staff on the importance of thorough documentation and understanding correct period recognition of balance transfers that relate to prior periods. The Statewide Financial Reporting unit has updated the year-end task list to include a review of balance transfers that were entered during the accrual period that affect prior periods.

On June 27, 2013, the State Financial Reporting unit sent a year-end task list to all Shared Services staff that included a training section on prior period adjustments. Additional prior period adjustment training was sent on June 10, 2013, to all staff in the Office of Financial Services newsletter that included a training section on prior period adjustments. The State Financial Reporting unit provided prior period adjustment training on March 19, 2013, during a Receipting Unit continuous improvement meeting. The Grant Accounting manager now requires staff to submit balance transfer documents that affect prior periods to State Financial Reporting unit for prior period adjustment consideration.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure documentation is maintained in the case files sufficient to demonstrate compliance with federal requirements.

One of the missing applications was for an Adoption Assistance case that began in 2002. Due to prior audit findings for Title IV-E in late 2009, the department instituted a process where the Adoptions Assistance Unit reviews the applications to ensure all documentation which supports the eligibility determination (Title XIX or Title IV-E) is attached. Although this process was not administered retroactively due to the volume of cases and the lack of resources, cases moving forward should have appropriate documentation. The eligibility for this case was retroactively reviewed and found Title IV-E eligible, thus categorically eligible for Medicaid.

The second missing application was used to apply for Self-Sufficiency program benefits. The application was initially processed by a case worker who determined Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) eligibility. The same application was used, by a different case worker, to determine Medicaid eligibility; however; the application did not get returned to be filed in the case record. The case record was subsequently transferred to a different branch office, and the application could not be located. It has since been located. The DHS Family Services Manual provides procedures and outlines the steps for transferring case files between branch offices. In addition, DHS Imaging and Records Management Services (IRMS) provides services including imaging of documents and “open archiving” of case records to reduce the volume of applications and case file documents retained in branch offices. DHS sent staff an Informational Transmittal reminding staff of the case file transferring procedures and providing a link to IRMS services information. In addition, DHS published an article in the “On-Target” newsletter for Self-Sufficiency staff about ensuring case files are complete prior to transferring to a different case worker or branch. DHS also added information to the Family Services Manual and Business Procedures manual regarding case file transfer processes internally within a branch. DHS will also research the questioned costs for the Adoption Assistance case and reimburse the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) the appropriate federal funds. The department hopes to complete this adjustment by June 30, 2012.

DHS will review the case with undocumented income verification and reimburse CMS any federal funds as appropriate based on this review. The department will also address documentation requirements at the next Area Agencies on Aging (AAA) / Seniors and People with Disabilities (SPD) Field Managers meeting and in the newsletter to field staff by June 30, 2012.

To reduce barriers to access and eligibility, the OHA Medical Programs (formerly DHS Medical Programs) have implemented policies that allow a medical program eligibility determination using a previously submitted application, whether or not the prior application was for medical benefits. During this time (the period under review), it was the case worker's responsibility to remember and obtain any additional information, such as private health insurance, needed to determine medical program eligibility.

The department continues to proactively strengthen controls over the eligibility determination process. Within the past 17 months, updates have been made to the Legacy computer systems to revise a field in the Client Maintenance (CM) system. This is now a mandatory field, requiring data entry by the case worker when setting up the medical case. The purpose of this field is to identify whether or not an individual has third-party insurance. Training for this systems' change, along with other medical policy changes, was delivered statewide to field staff beginning in the fall of 2010. In addition, the training material is posted on the Self-Sufficiency Program, Medical Program Staff Tools website.

Medical program eligibility worker training includes guidance on how to process eligibility decisions. In addition, instruction is given to participants on how to "interview" to ask questions to ascertain eligibility information not captured on the current application in the case file, including whether or not individuals have private health insurance. The new data field and purpose is also explained in detail during the trainings.

DHS also researched the questioned costs for both of the cases missing the private health care information and determined no reimbursement to CMS was necessary.

DHS reviewed the case with the private dental insurance and found that no reimbursement of CMS was required. The department also addressed reviewing applications for insurance policy disclosure and the requirement to send the information to HIG in a newsletter to field staff and addressed these issues at an AAA/APD Field Managers meeting in September 2012. All actions on this recommendation were completed in August 2013.

- We recommend department management use the standardized contract language and ensure contractors include the standardized contract language with subcontractors to ensure compliance with federal regulations.

Beginning in May 2011, the contract used in the renewal process for Child and Adult Foster Home providers was replaced by the Foster Home Medicaid Provider Enrollment Agreement (SDS0738). This agreement includes the federal and state disclosure requirements. These new agreements are now in place for all Foster Home Providers (child and adult).

The department's contract and Intergovernmental Agreements (IGA) include standardized language with regard to compliance with federal regulations (exhibit G for the 2009-2011 contract period and exhibit F for the 2011-2013 contract period). The IGA or contract requires that exhibit F is attached to any sub-contract. The department will include review for this attachment with sub-contracts during field reviews with Community Developmental Disabilities Programs and Adult Support Services Brokerages. This updated process will begin with the field reviews scheduled in September 2013.

- We recommend department management ensure the review for suspension and debarment is documented in accordance with department policy.

The Office of Contracts and Procurement (OC&P) reviewed the internal procedure, "Federal Debarment and Suspension Confirmation" and the "OC&P File Checklist" to ensure they comply with the federal debarment requirements. The procedure is in compliance with these requirements. The importance of checking debarment was discussed at the OC&P Unit meeting February 22, 2012. An individual conference was held with staff that had a file without debarment documentation to discuss and document the issue. OC&P management staff enhanced the training regarding debarment for new OC&P staff. Debarment is listed on the OC&P File Checklist, included in the Contract Processing Standards and a link is included on the OC&P intranet site.

- We recommend department management ensure adequate review of the various calculations of the cost pool statistics is performed.

The Office of Financial Services implemented a new cost allocation model in July 2011. The manual intervention of the remaining spreadsheet is to be eliminated by September 2012. The current model in use has eliminated the possibility of this human error happening again.

The implementation of the portal for the "grant-phase look-up" (the last major excel spreadsheet) was implemented February 1, 2013. The cost allocation system no longer relies on any spreadsheet maintenance and is updated by a user interface.

- We recommend the Department remove conflicting access rights where it can. In those instances where the conflict remains, the Department should develop and implement a detective control to specifically address those instances.

DHS management believes that most of this recommendation has been resolved through the following actions:

- Continued reinforcement by management of the importance of internal controls
- Limiting system access to that required to perform the duties of the position
- Monthly review of the RACF report by sub-administrators, managers or assigned personnel
- Regular business reviews in each of the field offices, ensuring that appropriate internal controls are followed, and
- Distribution of the conflicting access report; if there is an actual conflict on the report there is an expectation of immediate action/response.

The DHS Data Collection and Reporting Unit (DCRU) has been providing a quarterly report to APD and SSP Field Administration showing if staff have conflicting access to a case over a span of several months. If a staff person had conflicting access at any time during the period, even if not in the same month, a record is returned that conflicting access might exist.

However, during the last audit review a data timing issue was identified in our existing potential conflicting access report. When data was reprocessed for Calendar Year (CY) 2013, additional potential conflicting issuances were identified. To resolve this issue the report has been changed to report data through the most recent month available, but notes that the final three months of any period is preliminary for three months past when the month is originally reported. Corrected data reporting the possible conflicts was shared with both APD and SSP Field Administration.

The Conflicting Access Report has been regularly produced by the Data Collection and Reporting Unit in 2014. The data timing issue was resolved and coding changes implemented in the first report produced in March 2014, for the time period January 2014. Over the course of the year this report was produced quarterly, with each report showing any conflicting access by the month the conflict occurred, thereby giving a monthly report. As of December 29, 2014, all months for CY 2014 are represented, with the exception of December, which will be run in late January. For the 11 months represented, with over 929,000 cases records reviewed, there was one person meeting the conflicting access criteria. Each report was sent to representatives from Self-Sufficiency and Aging and People with Disabilities for any required follow-up or action.

2. DHS and OHA: Strategies to Better Address Federal Level of Effort Requirements, audit # 2012- 11, (dated April 2012)
 - To maximize state resources, allocate General Funds strategically, and ensure continued compliance with Level of Effort requirements, we recommend management from Oregon agencies subject to federal Level of Effort requirements:

- encourage program staff to work with their federal agency contact to understand possible financial sources available to meet Level of Effort requirements, including funds outside of those directly budgeted for that program;
- work with the Legislative Fiscal Office to make information available to Oregon Legislative members explaining Level of Effort requirements and consequences for lack of compliance;
- conduct regular communications among program, financial, and budget staff within each agency to discuss Level of Effort compliance and cross-program expenditure possibilities; and
- strengthen certification procedures across programs to allow more cross-program expenditures while ensuring compliance with federal mandates.

While OHA and DHS generally agree that the recommendations are reasonable expectations, we are concerned that the report contains no specific analysis explaining if the additional efforts it recommends will generate benefits in excess of their anticipated additional costs. It is also unclear to OHA and DHS management how these recommendations should be prioritized amongst the other activities available to the agencies to improve efficiency and effectiveness. With that said, we do see opportunities to make improvements to our communication and coordination processes within the two agencies and with our other state and federal partners.

As can be seen in the report, Level of Effort is a very complex subject due to all the different grants and specific rules each grant requires. As such it can be difficult to apply general statements and recommendations regarding Level of Effort (LOE) requirements to all of the grants listed in the audit. For some of the grants administered by OHA and DHS some of the specific details of the above recommendation do not apply. For the Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program, the LOE requirements are eligibility based and not expenditure level based. Another grant, the Senior Community Services Employment Program, only requires that placement of an enrollee not supplant normally budgeted positions or contract work at the host agency. There are also grants, such as the Block Grants for the Prevention and Treatment of Substance Abuse, that have historically only allowed expenditures from the recipient agency in determining compliance with the LOE requirement.

OHA and DHS agree that Oregon agency management (including program, fiscal and budget staff) need to understand their grant requirements. We also agree, and do, actively work with the Legislative Fiscal Office (LFO), and the Department of Administrative Services, Chief Financial Office (CFO) to communicate, maintain and ensure compliance with these grant requirements. While we also feel for many of the grants administered by OHA and DHS, we are currently engaged in these discussions at the level necessary, there may be some efforts that could be improved.

Both agencies will review our current communication and coordination efforts related to the individual grants identified in the report to determine if improvements are needed. This will include consideration of a more formalized internal and external meeting structure to discuss ongoing LOE issues and possible changes in other agency programs that may impact LOE (both opportunities and challenges when programs are reduced).

DHS and OHA are consistently looking for ways to increase MOE in some grants and ensure the legislature is aware of impacts to MOE on others. DHS and OHA strive to understand all grant Matching and MOE requirements and look for innovative ways to maximize both.

Management of LOE and Maintenance of Effort (MOE) is an ongoing focus within the agencies as part of successfully managing our federal grants. As MOE and Matching requirements do change with new grants this is never truly complete. In addition staff turnover requires “white” papers and other trainings, including self-directed training, on LOE requirements in both DHS and OHA. In addition at times other agency grants are needed to be researched. This is an ongoing part of what DHS and OHA do to manage grants.

For some grants, such as TANF, we spend significant time analyzing funding opportunities and have put in place a "certification process" as a way to both have routine communications with partner agencies and document other agency LOE related expenditures. We continue to partner with non-traditional MOE programs such as the food banks to explore possible additional opportunities. We also agree there may be additional funding opportunities available and will work with CFO and LFO as necessary to resolve cross-agency issues as they arise.

In fiscal year 2013, OHA leveraged an additional $230 million in federal funds as part of the five-year Medicaid waiver with Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) known as DSHP (Designated State Health Programs.) Investments by CMS in DSHP are a strong partnership between OHA and the federal government deemed necessary to implement the health system transformation.

We will continue to review our programs to determine if there is funding that is in excess of current grant requirements that could help other programs or grants meet their LOE needs. We will continue to work with LFO and CFO to help facilitate the communication of new opportunities as they arise, keeping in mind sufficient analysis is always necessary prior to using any new LOE source to meet specific grant expenditure level requirements.

Both agencies recently made changes to internal grant application processes which enhanced the communication between program and fiscal staff prior to the grant applications being submitted. Both agencies have also continued to actively work with the LFO, and DAS-CFO to communicate, maintain and ensure compliance with these grant requirements. This includes recent detailed history and estimates for the Governor's Budget Process to allow BAM to account for MOE issues as much as possible in the 2013-15 budget process. The agencies have communicated to LFO and CFO any LOE/MOE requirements that are directly tied to all reduction options that might be considered to meet statewide revenue shortfalls. In addition, the agencies continue to work with other internal programs, agencies or private entities to maximize MOE.

3. DHS: Child Welfare Program: Strategies to Help Caseworkers Reunite More Families, audit # 2012- 12, (dated April 2012)

- We recommend that Child Welfare district offices and branches share locally-developed practices or systems that support caseworkers, create efficiencies, and develop caseworker skills.
- We recommend the Department of Human Services Child Welfare Program:
 - Evaluate and set priorities among the expected caseworker duties contained in their Child Welfare procedures manual.
 - Routinely gather and share potential best practices among districts.
 - Consider assigning a program manager dedicated to returning children home at the central office to provide better direction and support to enhance caseworker practices. The manager's responsibilities could also include working with other Child Welfare Managers to evaluate and set priorities among current return home practices and ensure best practices are distributed among districts.
 - Continue with efforts to implement a policy of annual employee performance evaluations to encourage professional development, improve working environments and better achieve the program's mission.
 - Evaluate whether support staff could help alleviate caseworkers' workload burden by providing more assistance on administrative tasks. This should include determining if support staff need additional, but adequately controlled access to the program's OR-Kids system.
- We recommend federal reconsideration of current funding practices to determine whether alignment with the federal goal of returning children to their families would produce better outcomes.

As stated in the draft audit report, there are a number of competing demands on child welfare caseworkers as they navigate their day-to-day work with families. Other groups and agencies are involved in the decision making process that must be coordinated, and there has been an increase in the expected activities of a caseworker without adequate increases in resources. At the time of the audit, Child Welfare was staffed at approximately 67% of the need given the current workload. In 2013, the legislature allocated additional positions to Child Welfare, resulting in a staffing ration of approximately 85% of the workload. This increase in staff has resulted in a significant increase in face to face contracts with children, both in foster care and in home.

As also stated in the draft audit report, child welfare work is complex. Each family is unique and requires the expertise of the caseworker and supervisory support to craft the plan that will afford the best chance of success and reunification of the family. Despite this, Oregon returns children to their parents at a rate higher than the national average.

While Oregon has a state administered system, there is a differentiation of roles and duties between the Central Office child welfare staff and the field child welfare staff. The promulgation of rules and procedures, and the consultation that helps maintain fidelity in application of those rules and procedures, is work done by staff in Central Office. The actual work with families occurs through state employees in 16 Districts around the state.

The department is in agreement with the recommendation that priorities need to be set among the expected duties contained in the Child Welfare procedures manual. Given the demands and expectations of the work and the current staffing levels, prioritization is critical. The decisions regarding which tasks will be left undone must occur close to where the work with families is being done in order to take into consideration the uniqueness of the situations in each case. Caseworkers are required to have specific training to do their work, and their expertise combined with the clinical supervision of their direct supervisor are needed to provide the case management that is required for families to be successful. It is in this relationship between a caseworker and their supervisor that the prioritization of work is done. A static list of priorities issued from Central Office will not serve families well and could leave children in unsafe settings. Each month at the District and Program Managers meetings, workload is an agenda item and there are a number of suggested areas where some changes in rule and procedure could result in workload reduction. Some have already been implemented and some will take longer to evaluate and implement. These meetings also provide a forum for the discussion between field managers and Central Office managers on practice innovations, efficiencies and caseworker skills assessments.

The following is a list of some of the workload reduction efforts which have been implemented in the last couple of years, or are in the process of being implemented statewide:

- Changes to face-to-face requirements to come into alignment with Federal expectations.
- Elimination of certain redundant letters.
- Development of templates for certain legal notices and actions.
- Elimination of a six-page report previously required for guardianship reviews.
- Changes to CRB operations, leading to a reduction in duplicate reviews on cases.
- Elimination of CRB reviews for children who are on Trial Reunification placement.
- Increased access to SpeakWrite for caseworkers to allow for dictation of notes.
- Increased investment in technology solutions (tablets, laptops, netbooks, GPS devices, Digital Voice Recorders etc.) to assist workers in being more efficient while in the field.

Potential best practices are also discussed at both the District and Program Manager meetings; however, there has not been a schedule for these conversations. In order to ensure a regular and timely discussion of innovations to practice, this topic was added to the monthly meetings where District Managers and Child Welfare Program Managers meet jointly.

The Child Welfare Program managers have designated time in their monthly agenda to discuss best practices and hot topics. Child Welfare supervisors have also been discussing local best practices during their round table conversations at quarterlies. For caseworkers, we have re-initiated Child Protective Services quarterlies across the state, to allow for practice forums and case-specific dialogue in an effort to improve consistency and expertise. These quarterlies are also attended by Central Office staff responsible for working with branches and they are able to reinforce the sharing subsequent to the quarterly when they visit the branches.

The department implemented a change in the organizational structure of Central Office and focused all child welfare programs in one program area, the Office of Child Welfare Programs. This office realigned its resources to better match the flow of a case in the field, strengthening resources to support reunification practice.

These re-organization efforts also allowed for better focus on child safety with their family. The Permanency team moved from an adoption focus to a focus of permanency for children which includes the responsibility of reunification, adoption and guardianship. The reunification focus is reinforced through consultation to the field by safety consultants if the case is early on in the Child Protective Services (CPS) process, or the permanency consultants if the case has been open for services for an extended period of time.

In addition, the department has been engaged in a number of efforts to safely and equitably reduce the number of children in the foster care system. The legislature provided an initial investment in the state's plan to move toward a child welfare system of Differential Response. This initiative focuses on engaging families differently with a focus on maintaining children at home, decreasing the number of children that will experience foster care. In addition, legislation was passed in the 2011-13 session which created Strengthening, Preserving and Reunifying Families Programs. These programs are a collaboration of a broad array of services, which are the primary method of service delivery to families involved in the child welfare system. The combination of Differential Response and the expanded service array will significantly increase the number of families that are able to safely parent their children while addressing the issues that brought them to the attention of the child welfare program. Implementation of the service array was completed in 2014. Staged implementation of Differential Response began in three counties (Lane, Klamath, and Lake Counties) in May, 2014. The next counties (Washington, Linn, Benton and Lincoln Counties) are preparing for implementation in April 2015, and a statewide schedule has been developed that will complete implementation in 2017. Finally, in preparation for Differential Response, the department conducted refresher training for all line supervisors in the elements of the Oregon Safety Model. Intensive coaching has been provided the supervisors to assist them when they return to their units and begin assisting line workers in the application of the model. This refresher has in part focused on how to safely maintain a child at home while working with the parents, as well as, what conditions must be met for a child who was placed could be returned to their home.

The department is engaged in other initiatives as well, which are focused on returning and maintaining children at home. Specifically, we have invested in In-Home Safety and Reunification Services, and continue to work with a select number of counties in collaboration with Casey Family Programs and the courts, to look innovatively at strategies to safely and equitably reduce the number of children in foster care. The number of counties involved in this collaboration has increased over time. We are in the process of expanding the collaboration statewide.

As stated in the draft audit report, the department has begun the implementation of the Performance Feedback Model. The implementation and evaluation of that model is an outcome measure on the department's Fundamentals Map as well as the Child Welfare Fundamentals Map, and a topic of the department's and program's Quarterly Business Reviews. Since implementing this practice, Child Welfare has demonstrated steady improvement in the number of workers who have an Employee Development Plan. Work continues with the districts to increase this measure with a goal of 100% within the next year.

In the development of OR-Kids, the technology system that supports child welfare, the documentation of activities done by the various staff that work with families was required to be entered by the individual that did the work. This resulted in an increase in the documentation activities of the caseworker that in the prior system may have been entered by support staff. Because the OR-Kids system is a role based access system, support staff cannot enter material on behalf of the case worker. Since the implementation of OR-Kids, the department has been evaluating the design and actively looking for opportunities to improve on the design. One of these areas is the further evaluation of the role based assignments for entry of data. The department believes there are data entry activities that can be shifted back to support staff and is working to implement those changes.

As a pilot, District 3 Child Welfare (Marion County) worked with Central Office and Lean Leaders to create a series of lean processes and branch protocols which have been expanded statewide. Forty-two business processes which were impacted by the implementation of the OR-Kids system were mapped, and redesigned to the leanest business process flow in an effort to more closely align the work processes to the newly designed system, and create as much efficiency as possible in the processes. When combined, these individual processes comprise systems which identify positions responsible for specific parts of each process, and allow branches to make decisions about how to best maximize support staff, freeing caseworker time to work with families.

Many of those processes (like Legal and Financial), once designed for the first 30 days, are also replicable for the entirety of the case. The exercise of deliberately going through this process will also produce branch protocol manuals, which can be used for local training. The six process areas which will be implemented for each office are:

- Legal,*
- Person Management,*
- Financial,*
- Service Entry,*
- Meetings, and*
- Provider Management.*

Finally, the department is in agreement with the recommendation that the federal government align the funding for child welfare with the national priorities of safely reducing the number of children in the foster care system. Oregon has been involved in providing feedback on several proposals for federal finance reform for the child welfare system. As opportunity arises, the department will continue to participate in this national conversation.

While progress has been made, efforts to fully implement the recommendations in this audit will continue with a goal of increasing the number of children who can safely return to their home and families.

4. DHS/OHA: Health and Human Service Caseload Forecasting: Ways to Increase Confidence, audit # 2013-03, (dated February 2013)

DHS and OHA agree that accurate caseload forecasts are critical for agency budgeting and legislative allocation of limited state funds. Since both agencies are required to report to the Emergency Board and would prefer to avoid unnecessary rebalances, both agencies have a strong incentive to support forecasts which are neither too high, nor too low.

As documented in the report, the DHS and OHA Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis (OFRA) has knowledgeable staff, uses reasonable methodologies, and produces forecasts that are generally accurate, have improved over time, and have no indication of overall bias. It was also determined that OFRA's forecasts are only marginally less accurate than those produced by Washington State's independent Caseload Forecasting Council. OFRA performs an array of supplemental research, analysis, and consulting services for DHS and OHA that would still be needed if the unit was moved out of the agencies.

The report also notes that forecasts are inherently uncertain for a variety of reasons. However, DHS and OHA believe that federal and state policy and procedures have the largest impact, with economic and demographic impacts secondary. While the forecasting unit strives for accuracy, subsequent adjustments and corrections are to be expected. The realistic expectation of inaccuracy is one of the primary reasons the forecast is updated twice each year and incorporated into the budget adjustment requests submitted to the Emergency Board.

The report describes how the forecasted 2011-13 caseload for Aid to the Blind and Disabled program (ABAD) varied over the course of seven forecast cycles. DHS and OHA generally agree with the basic facts as presented, but not with the view expressed in the report that the error was due to a lack of independence or that more than half of the error was not justified by the information available at that time. The majority of the caseload increase which ultimately proved to be wrong was discussed and approved in the fall 2010 forecast by the Medical Assistance Program Caseload Advisory Committee, which included staff from both the Department of Administrative Services (DAS), Budget and Management Division (BAM) and the Legislative Fiscal Office (LFO). While not noted in the Fall 2010 DHS and OHA Caseload Forecast report, one of the factors that contributed to the inaccuracy was the fact that Social Security had experienced a steep increase in disability applications since the Great Recession began. This had been widely reported in the national press, so forecasting unit staff considered it reasonable to anticipate some increase to the rate of growth for the ABAD caseload.

DAS Budget Policy Analysts and LFO staff have participated in the caseload forecasting process for many years. In addition, since DHS and OHA split into separate agencies in July 2011, formalized governance processes have been created to oversee all shared services units, including forecasting. As mentioned in the report, the forecast unit administrator reports to the DHS Chief Financial Officer and the OHA Budget Director, and the unit itself operates under authority of the DHS and OHA Joint Operations Steering Committee (JOSC). JOSC has authorized two governance documents that pertain to the forecasting unit: a Service Level Agreement which lays out the unit's key responsibilities and deliverables, and a Caseload Forecast Advisory Committee Charter which specifies the authority, roles, and responsibilities of the committees, their members, and the forecast unit.

The forecasting unit has also documented key processes and established performance metrics. Documentation includes monthly forecast accuracy reports, methodology(s) used to create the forecast for each caseload area, key process flow charts, an annual calendar for scheduled work, and a unit performance scorecard.

DHS and OHA strive to be transparent. To that end, an internet website has been created that is expected to go live within the next two weeks. It will be easily accessible from both the DHS and OHA home sites. The new website will include work products (e.g. caseload forecasts and monthly variance reports), administrative documents (e.g. materials on governance and methodology, names of advisory committee members, etc.), and links to other forecasting units. DHS and OHA have been routinely posting forecasts online and the bi-annual forecasts going back to 2006 are currently available.

- To improve the independence, oversight, and transparency of the forecast unit, we recommend the Department of Human Services and the Oregon Health Authority:
 - Consider creating a policy oversight committee responsible for review and adoption of caseload forecast policies and procedures, and to help ensure forecaster independence.

A technical oversight committee was created to:

- 1) Review and make recommendations to the DHS/OHA Joint Operations Steering Committee (JOSC) concerning the forecast unit's policies, procedures, governance, methodologies, etc.*
- 2) Serve as an independent channel for forecasters (or anyone else) to raise issues they perceive as jeopardizing or affecting forecast quality or forecaster independence.*

A charter for the committee was drafted and reviewed by DHS COO, OHA COO, DAS CFO and LFO. The charter was submitted to JOSC and received final approval on November 21, 2013. Committee members were recruited, with recommendations solicited from Senator Devlin, John Mullin (HSCO), DHS/OHA executive and program leadership, DAS and LFO.

- Continue using the eight caseload forecast advisory committees as the arena to debate forecast risks, assumptions and methodology, and to advise the forecasters on the caseload forecast numbers.

The forecasting unit continues to use Caseload Forecast Advisory Committees to provide information on factors that impact program utilization, and to provide input on the proposed forecasts. Occasionally committees are added or discontinued when the forecasting need changes.

- Consider adding additional external representation to the eight advisory committees from the public, academic, non-profit, and/or private sectors.

Solicitations for volunteer committee members were sent to Senator Devlin, John Mullin (HSCO), DHS/OHA executive and program leadership, DAS and LFO. We identified one or two additional participants for most of the committees – in time to participate in our summer 2013 mid-cycle meetings. We will continue to seek external participants to bring into the process.

In addition, the forecasting unit will continue to periodically survey external stakeholders who are not on the committees to get their input on the factors driving caseload changes.

- Record meeting minutes of the eight advisory committees that at a minimum include the key information or issues discussed and the advisory committee’s advice on the forecast numbers.

In early 2013 templates were created to capture meeting notes during both forecast development and mid-cycle meetings. The forecast meeting template was used and refined in spring 2013 and will be used on a regular basis going forward. The mid-cycle meeting template will be used and refined during the summer of 2013.

- Regularly evaluate the forecasts and publish an annual accuracy tracking report. Include in the tracking report an analysis of both the accuracy and statistical bias of the forecasts. Use the results to identify improvements in assumptions and methodologies.

DHS and OHA understand the importance of tracking and reporting forecast accuracy and using that information to identify possible improvements. The forecasting unit has tracked and reported forecast accuracy (by program area) for many years through Monthly Caseload Variance Reports which were shared routinely with all caseload forecast committee members. Starting in March 2013, these monthly reports have been posted to the new Forecasting website.

Starting in fall 2013, the forecasting unit will produce a new annual report which will provide a more summarized, but comprehensive view on the accuracy of the caseload forecasts across program areas and over time.

- Continue efforts to create a public web page dedicated to the forecast unit, and post its methodologies, advisory committee membership, advisory committee meeting minutes, forecast accuracy tracking reports, and the semiannual caseload forecast reports.

In February 2013, the forecasting unit launched a public web page:

<http://www.oregon.gov/dhs/ofra/Pages/index.aspx>

The forecasting page can be accessed directly (single click) from both the DHS and OHA home pages, and contains work products (e.g. caseload forecasts, client overlap charts, ad hoc research reports), accuracy reports, administrative documents (e.g. governance materials, committee membership, process flowcharts, forecasting methodology), etc.

- Include in the published semiannual caseload forecast reports additional detail on risks, assumptions, uncertainties, and how these factors could affect caseload estimates.

When the Spring 2013 forecast was published, the sections describing risks, assumptions and uncertainties were expanded. Going forward, the forecasting unit will strive to further expand this content.

5. DHS and OHA: Statewide Single Audit Including Selected Financial Accounts and Federal Awards for the Year Ended June 30, 2012, audit # 2013- 07, (dated March 2013)
 - We recommend DHS and OHA management implement procedures for reviewing and evaluating program changes to identify any necessary revisions in financial reporting to ensure compliance with GAAP. We also recommend management consider the need to revise the billing process or prepare year-end adjustments to ensure transactions involving shared services are reported in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

The Department of Human Services and Oregon Health Authority became separate accounting entities in fiscal year 2012. In order to maximize operational efficiency, these agencies retained shared administrative service functions. In the short timeline that was provided, the agency developed a shared service model and a new cost allocation and billing process that ensured the appropriate costs were billed to each agency. The agency did not consider the impact this model would have on the consolidated financial statements and that the materiality threshold would necessitate setting up an Internal Service Fund. The agency had Department of Administrative Services, Statewide Accounting and Reporting Services, set up a new GAAP fund (5006- Health Service Fund) that will be used to report the 2013 fiscal year-end adjustments for shared services in both agencies. DHS and OHA are preparing for the 2013 - 2015 biennium by setting up a new D23 fund pointing to this new Internal Service fund to properly record the accounting transaction during the normal course of business, rather than as a continual year-end adjustment.

GAAP Fund (5006- Health Services Fund) was created by SARS on February 15, 2013, with a July 1, 2012, effective start date. For Fiscal Year 2013, SARS will make an adjusting entry at year-end supplied by the DHS/OHA State Financial Reporting unit to properly record the activity of the Internal Service Fund. The new D23 fund (fund 3470) has been set up in DHS/OHA that points to GAAP Fund 5006 to properly record the daily operations of the shared services units for the AY2015 activities. All necessary structure has been updated using this new D23 fund beginning with July 1, 2013, activities.

- We recommend DHS management establish a process to better ensure all year-end adjustments are properly posted to the accounting records in order to facilitate accurate financial reporting.

During fiscal year 2012, the Department of Human Services implemented a new Child Welfare Case Management System (OR-KIDS). At the end of the fiscal year a balance of $5.3 million remained in unreconciled manual payment advances to providers that overstated accounts receivable and understated expenditures on the financial statements. We will add a review of the OR-Kids advance balance to our year-end task list to verify if there are outstanding balances and if a balance exists, make an adjusting entry on the financial statements.

During reporting year 2013, Shared Services added a review of the OR-Kids advance balance to its year-end reporting task list. As a result the advance was reclassified to the expenditure account by Fiscal Year 2013 end.

- We recommend department management fully capture all PEBB funds as part of the statewide cost allocation plan.

DHS and OHA Office of Financial Services Shared Services became responsible for the PEBB A-87 reporting in FY2012. During that reporting period, staff was trained on the correct method for reporting the PEBB operations fund, stabilization fund, and the insurance fund. DHS and OHA Office of Financial Services Shared Services has implemented this procedure and has continued it with the Fiscal Year 2013 reporting period.

The 2012 A-87 report was prepared by the Oregon Health Authority and included the PEBB Operations, PEBB Stabilization and PEBB Self Insurance Funds. Corrections for years 2010 and 2011 were calculated by the Department of Administrative Services and resulted in remaining excess fund balances. This resulted in additional Federal payback calculation of $124,824.00 that was paid to the Department of Health and Human Services via Department of Administrative Services. Detail on the 2010 and 2011 remaining excess fund balance calculations can be obtained from the Department of Administrative Services.

DHS and OHA Office of Financial Services Shared Services will work with DAS Shared Financial Services to determine if any additional corrections for calendar year 2010 and fiscal year 2011 are necessary.

- We recommend the department maintain sufficient accounting records and other documentation as appropriate to support the federal and nonfederal expenditures reported for each quarterly report. Further, we recommend department management consider whether increased staff training is necessary. Finally, department management should submit corrected quarterly reports and reimburse the federal agency for any amounts owed due to insufficient matching funds.

After department review, the match required by the federal agency, Administration for Children and Family (ACF), was met with State funds along with non-State funds. The non-State funds came from the Division of Child Support, Citizens Review Board, Tribes and/or Portland State University. Documentation to support matching funds from the Tribes is kept with the program. The other entities receiving Federal funds supplied match documentation with the invoices they sent in to be paid. We have met the federal standard of submitting quarterly reports that have sufficient supporting documentation. There is no requirement for this information to be kept with the quarterly report. There is no need to reimburse ACF for any amounts owed due to insufficient unmatched funds since adequate match was achieved.

Child support is reported to ACF by both the Department of Justice (DOJ) and DHS. DOJ sends an email to DHS to confirm the amount of child support reported that is in lieu of spending Title IV-E funds as both reports must match. DHS confirmed from DOJ in March 2013 the amount filed for both federal and state funds to ensure both reports matched. The process to which DHS files the Title IV-E report for child support was then authorized by ACF. The report includes both Federal funds and State funds and then backs out the Federal funds leaving a balance for State funds. This balance is supported match by child support.

Prior period adjustments totaling $570,000 were inadvertently included with the report submitted on June 30, 2012. This overinflated the match requirement for the report. The report was re-created to determine the appropriate amounts to be reported for each line. The adjustments will be made to the report for quarter ending March 31, 2013.

Additional research is still being conducted to ensure the accuracy of the quarterly federal report. Some of the prior period increasing adjustments included in the total referenced in the finding may be offset with prior period decreasing adjustments, therefore reducing the amount needing to be returned to Administration for Children and Family (ACF). Any adjustment needed is expected to be completed for the period ended December 31, 2014.

- We recommend department management continue to work toward developing a stable system that meets business needs, has accurate and complete reporting, and helps ensure compliance with the Foster Care Title IV-E state and federal regulations.

The State of Oregon did not accept OR-Kids; however, Oregon and the SACWIS vendor reached a Mutual Termination Agreement that ended vendor responsibility for the system on January 3, 2013. Oregon assumed responsibility for all operations and maintenance of OR- Kids. The department recognized the need to make substantial changes to OR-Kids, to address existing defects and identified design/functionality gaps. We initially organized and set goals to complete this work over the course of a 24 month period from the initial audit date. These changes will include increased system stability, remediation of inaccurately converted data, improved financial auditing, streamlined payment processing and ensured system compliance with State and Federal regulations.

As outlined above, since January 3, 2013, the State of Oregon has been responsible for the maintenance of our Statewide Automated Child Welfare Information System (SACWIS). Due to the size, complexity and instability of the system, the learning curve has proven to be a slow process. The department recognizes the original timelines given to remediate the Foster Care IV-E 2012 findings was ambitious and the fixes are progressing slower than originally anticipated.

The department has incorporated monthly system downtime to work on system stability. This has helped with unexpected system downtime. The department continues to perform manual clean-up of placement, financial data and ongoing user error data fixes. The OR-Kids technical staff implemented and continues to work on stage 2 fixes and change requests, required to be implemented into production by our Federal partners.

The department continues to improve the system in ways that are gradually moving us toward achieving the recommendations from the audit. However, the complexity of the system and challenges in fully staffing the OR-Kids Technical Team has proven to be barriers to timely completion of the identified recommendations.

Focused efforts and great strides have been made to increase the stability of OR-Kids. These efforts have included:

- Smaller and more thoughtful build schedules.*
- More focused and thorough testing prior to the release of builds into production.*
- Increased resources and efforts around the operation and maintenance of servers.*
- Upgrades to the existing infrastructure of the system to support the system.*

Significant progress has also been made in regards to the data remediation efforts. This includes:

- The completion of a manual fix applied to the financial records that will prevent further inaccurate federal refinancing.*
- Completion of the analysis of eligibility remediation and the approval to use manual correction instead of any automatic remediation.*
- Completion of the analysis and approval of the strategic approach to remediate the adoption data.*
- Initial analysis and collaborative planning around strategic approaches to the remediation of the CPS and eligibility data is in progress.*

As much as this effort has progressed, competing efforts and limited technical understanding of the system and limited trained resources have delayed the progress. The original projected date of March 15, 2015 is now changed to December 31, 2015.

The issue around streamlined payment and process has been the focus of a current workgroup that has made significant progress. The following efforts have been completed or continue:

- A new remittance advice has been deployed in OR-Kids, giving providers a detailed account of their payments.*
 - A new contract payment invoice is in a pilot over three counties and four providers.*
 - A Computer-Based Training is in development to assist contracted providers in accurately submitting their billings.*
 - Standards have been developed for validating and authorizing payment for contracted services*
 - Systems have been created for submission and processing payments.*
 - Training is in development for agency staff that is expected to be deployed during the fall of 2014.*
- We recommend the department ensure all required documentation is completed, reviewed and maintained prior to certifying providers or determining children eligible for Foster Care IV-E reimbursement.

The Federal Compliance Unit trained IV-E specialists on the requirement of ensuring proper documentation for verifying child's age and the need to have the documentation maintained in the electronic case file. The IV-E specialists were also reminded of the importance of not claiming Title IV-E on an Expedited Certificate. Training occurred March 20 - 21, 2013. This was a mandatory training approved by management. The Federal Compliance Unit has bi-weekly conference calls with the IV-E specialists where specific eligibility requirements are discussed. After each conference call meeting minutes are shared (in the form of Questions & Answers) with all IV-E specialists and their supervisors as a reference tool. This will be an on-going technical assistance.

In Child Welfare, completion of a home study is one of the elements of the provider certification process. In one of the cases identified as having a home study issue, the eligibility worker made an error by identifying a provisional certification as a final certification. While the provider was subsequently certified, the department will adjust our Title IV-E claiming to reflect the two months of costs claimed in error. The second case identified as having a home study issue involved a case that was certified through a Licensed Child Placing Agency. Licensed Child Placing Agencies are responsible for the certification of their own substitute care providers. We agree that the certification of one of these providers was not completed prior to child placement. We will further research this case and adjust our Title IV-E claiming accordingly. We will also review our licensing process for the Licensed Child Placing Agencies and make any necessary adjustments identified through this review.

An $824 adjustment for one of the identified providers was made on March 20, 2013. Based on further research, a home study was located that had been completed by June 14, 2011. The child was not placed into this home until September 7, 2011, therefore the child met all Title IV-E eligibility criteria and no adjustment is necessary.

The audit findings were discussed at the Child Welfare Program Manager's meeting. The Licensed Child Placing Agencies certification requirements were review in conjunction with a review of all Title IV-E foster care eligibility (which includes certification and licensing) in preparation for a Federal Title IV-E Foster Care review held in July 2014.

All steps were taken for this corrective action plan however, based on the findings in the Federal Review; Oregon was found not to be in substantial compliance. Six out of 80 cases did not pass the federal requirements due to the same type of issues found in the Annual Statewide audit. Oregon will be required to submit a Program Improvement Plan to the Administration for Children and Families (ACF). Once submitted, the department will have one year to implement the Program Improvement Plan.

- We recommend department management prioritize the completion of the development of a report to alert eligibility staff when a client is nearing or exceeding the $25,350 threshold, or when re-determinations are due. In addition, department management should determine the total amount of TANF funds paid on behalf of ineligible clients and ensure it is properly credited back to the federal program.

Federal Compliance Unit, Office of Business Intelligence, Office of Information Support and the Office of Financial Services continue to work on developing reports that Federal Revenue Specialists and the Federal Compliance Unit can use to monitor workload and compliance with TANF-EA eligibility rules.

The Federal Revenue Specialists (FRS) uses two methods to monitor when initial TANF determinations are required.

- 1. For children placed in foster care, the Office Manager's in every branch have developed an email communication process to notify when there is a new placement and a change in placement for every child in foster care. The FRS rely on these emails to complete the initial TANF determination and then use a combination of the OR-Kids Tickler system and review of the case when changes in placement occur. Unfortunately, the OR-Kids Tickler system is not reliable and the Eligibility Report which would allow the FRS to monitor their workload is not yet available.*
- 2. A new "EL-3010-D FRS Determination Notification" report was created to provide consistency in identifying the in-home cases that need a TANF determination completed. OR-Kids currently creates a Tickler for the FRS to complete a TANF determination when a case is opened. A majority of the cases that are opened on OR-Kids are closed at referral, which means DHS did not find any safety threats and no services are provided to the family. It is not appropriate to complete a TANF determination on these cases; therefore we had to develop a different mechanism to notify the FRS. A TANF determination should be completed when the DHS caseworker makes the decision that DHS will provide services to the family to mitigate safety threats to the child. This is covered in the "Business Process Guide" that was provided to the FRS at training provided March 20 & 21, 2013.*

The not-to-exceed $25,350 monitoring report is still being developed. The Federal Compliance Unit continues to work with the Office of Financial Services and OR-Kids Business Analysts and the Data Collection and Reporting Unit. Estimated completion date of the new monitoring report is August 31, 2014. Based on the work to date, DHS continues to find inconsistency in how the financial data is processed in OR-Kids and then reported to the Statewide Financial Management System.

Annual redetermination notification continues to be an issue. The “Ticklers” created in OR-Kids are difficult to manage. Without a monthly report for the FRS’s to be able to use, we may continue to miss annual redeterminations.

The Department is still trying to finalize the data remediation plan, which should correct most of the conversion issues identified. Based on the latest estimates, eligibility and financial data remediation is not going to be completed until late 2014. Office of Information System resources who are assigned to the data remediation efforts are the same employees who are assigned to developing reports and other system fixes.

The five cases identified in the audit have been corrected and adjustments made within the accounting system to adjust the federal funds. These adjustments were reflected in the TANF Federal Financial Reports for the quarter ending September 30, 2013.

The report to notify staff of instances where the $23,500 TANF reimbursement limit has been met, has been completed. This report was available in a User Acceptance Testing environment for several months and was moved to production in November 2014. This report is the EL-3008-S TANF $20K Summary Report. This report lists any client whose reimbursement of services paid for by TANF funds is greater than or equal to $20,000 over the past 365 days. In addition, a detail report was added so that a user can get all the transaction records that make up the noted amount for the client.

A second set of reports were developed that will help staff determine when a redetermination is due. This set of reports is grouped by the population served and for that population (foster care and in home) each eligibility type and status will be represented. The reports are:

EL-3015-S Foster Care TANF & XIX Eligibility Status Summary

EL-3015-D Foster Care TANF & XIX Eligibility Status Detail

EL-3016-S Foster Care IV-E Eligibility Status Detail

EL-3018-D In Home Eligibility Status Detail

It was determined that similar reports were not needed for the Adoption Assistance and Guardianship Assistance populations, as redeterminations are not required for these groups. Further, the complexity of the IV-E eligibility determination criteria led to a decision to have a separate set of reports for this area for the foster care population.

Four of the six reports (EL-3015-S, EL-3015-D, EL-3018-S and EL-3018-D) are in production. EL-3016-S and EL-3016-D are in User Acceptance Testing. This report was ready for Production as of early November, but it requires User Documentation before it can be moved. User Documentation is being drafted by the Federal Compliance Unit.

- We recommend department management complete their corrective action plan to ensure that verification of IEVS required screens is documented when determining client eligibility.

The TANF program, in partnership with the Office of Program Integrity Quality Control, and the Training unit has taken steps to improve the usage and appropriate narration of IEVS screens. The following actions have taken place with efforts continuing beyond June 2013.

In October 2012, the Quality Control (QC) unit began randomly reviewing a small sample of TANF cases each month statewide. The purpose of these reviews is to ensure TANF eligibility was correctly determined. The QC reviewer verifies financial information using the same IEVS screens that workers use to determine eligibility. The cases determined in error by the QC reviewer are reviewed with Policy staff at bi-monthly Error Staffing meetings and discussed with field staff at Statewide Monthly QC Panel meetings by video conference. In addition, the TANF analyst sends electronic mail reminders to field staff and their lead workers on the importance of narrating how income and other information was verified. The analyst includes a link to the Family Service Manual Worker Program Guide on narration.

In April of 2013, the Office of Program Integrity and the TANF program issued a special edition in the “On-Target” newsletter. The newsletter included an article on the QC reviews most common findings as well as articles on appropriate narration of verified income and other information. The TANF program also contributed to the June 2013 “On-Target” article on narration and use of Social Security Numbers.

The TANF program and QC reviewer meet monthly to discuss means in which to improve accuracy and narration of financial information.

Beginning in September 2013 the Office of Program Integrity Quality Assurance, in partnership with the TANF program, began to pilot a Quality Assurance (QA) review tool for TANF eligibility. QA reviews are continuing in 2014 on a limited basis. While the QA reviews are broader than the QC reviews, QA continues to review financial eligibility and use of IEVS screens.

In the summer of 2014, the Training unit reviewed and revised the TANF training curriculum relative to checking IEVS screens. The Training unit continues to train on use and narration of IEVS screens to verify income and eligibility. In October and December 2014 communication transmittals were sent to all staff determining eligibility reinforcing the need to narrate that the appropriate IEVS screens were reviewed.

- We recommend department management ensure that hours of work are verified before being reported, as outlined in the state’s HHS-approved Work Verification Plan.

The department continues to perform annual quality control audits for the JOBS Work Verification Plan to ensure data being reported in calculating work participation rates is accurate. The threshold set forth in the State's approved Work Verification Plan is 90% or above. As a state we have consistently scored above the 90% threshold.

Although the audit results shows an accuracy rate of 95%, which exceeds the approved target, the department is committed to correcting and avoiding any identified errors. The TANF program identified and created a list of JOBS Work Verification branch and district point staff in the spring of 2013. The TANF unit has been relaying information through the point staff list whenever important updates need to be communicated. The TANF program continues to partner with the Office of Information Services and Self-Sufficiency business analysts to make improvements to the databases in order to ensure accuracy of information being transmitted to Administration for Children and Families (ACF).

The TANF program completed the 2013 Work Verification JOBS Audits and the performance was 90.3% accurate. Some areas of the State with lower accuracy received an additional review and coaching. Local leadership and staff were convened to walk through the review process using another random case selection. This allowed them to see first-hand the information required to remain in compliance with the Oregon Work Verification Plan. In addition, training was provided to these areas on how to use the JOBS Activity Guidelines as an ongoing resource document for best practices.

The TANF program completed the 2014 annual JOBS Audits and the performance was 93.2% accurate. There were 1,987 participation cases reviewed. The site reviews continued to include staff, leadership, and partner meetings to debrief the review findings, as well as to address other common questions and policy clarifications.

- We recommend that department management strengthen controls to ensure that all documentation to support a provider's eligibility determination is retained and verify that providers with missing documentation are eligible to provide services.

Through the avenue of agenda items at Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, articles in the newsletter, "In the Loop", and a training module at the 2013 Regional meetings APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation required to support a provider's eligibility and forms that must be retained within the provider files. The APD offices have obtained the missing documentation for all of the providers listed except for one. The department is in the process of making adjustment to the federal claiming for those questioned costs. APD is also working to implement scanned files for field offices. The first step of this project will be on-line client files. After this is completed, APD is exploring the possibility of having provider files scanned and on-line as well.

- We recommend that department management document the procedures for completing the annual reviews of nursing facilities and establish controls to ensure reviews are completed in accordance with these procedures.

The department had initially planned on contracting with a CPA firm to complete future Nursing Facility Cost Reviews, however the department reconsidered this approach. Department management has made significant changes to the Nursing Facility Cost Review process. The department hired a Program Analyst 4 (PA4) to assist on these reviews. The PA4 and an Operations and Policy Analyst 3 are working on the process. In addition, the department has implemented and documented management review of this process. Draft procedures were completed in early 2014 to document the process and finalized in June 2014. These procedures are reviewed periodically to make necessary revisions.

- We recommend department management implement procedures to ensure the department uses the federal financial participation rate in effect at the time a transaction is recorded and reimburses the federal agency for the overdrawn ARRA funds.

In March 2013, the agency completed an in-depth review of all expenditures receiving ARRA funds that occurred July 1, 2011 and later to ensure the proper federal financial participation rate was used. An entry was completed in the Statewide Financial Management System (SFMA) to adjust the excess ARRA funds and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) will be refunded for the overdrawn funds. The adjustment was completed March 19, 2013. The PCA's associated with current period activity have been disabled. All prior period activity is reviewed each quarter to ensure compliance.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure documentation is maintained in the case files sufficient to demonstrate compliance with federal requirements.

Upon subsequent review, the department found all of the four self-sufficiency cases referenced above as missing information on private health insurance were not in error. We believed that the applications used to determine medical eligibility were completed and included answers to the private health insurance information questions. In the four instances the applications we reviewed indicated that the individual did not have private health insurance. Unfortunately, this information was not communicated prior to the issuance of the management letter. In an effort to provide continuing guidance on policies and procedures to eligibility staff, an article appeared in the self-sufficiency newsletter addressing the requirement to obtain private health insurance information at each eligibility determination.

Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) will send reminders and provide an informational/training module on the importance of documenting private health insurance, as well as what needs to be retained in a client's case file and for how long.

Through the avenue of agenda items at APD Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, articles in the newsletter, "In the Loop", and a training module at the 2013 Regional meetings APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation required to support a client's eligibility and forms that must be retained within the client files. The APD offices have obtained the missing documentation and are working to have the improper payments billed back to clients. If necessary, the department will make adjustment to the federal claiming for those questioned costs. APD is also working to implement scanned client files for field offices so that all documentation will be readily available.

- We recommend management implement and follow internal controls to ensure the review for suspension and debarment is performed and documented for all contracts, including price agreements.

The Office of Contracts and Procurement (OC&P) contacted the Oregon Department of Administrative Services (DAS) Procurement Services and requested contractor self-certification language relating to suspension and debarment be added to DAS statewide price agreements. DAS reports this amendment is being made to their statewide agreements as they come up for review.

The Office of Contracts and Procurement also added debarment and suspension vendor self-certification language to all DHS and OHA purchase orders processed effective March 18, 2013.

- We recommend the department update the cost allocation plans to reflect current practices and ensure future changes are communicated timely.

Historically the agency submitted biennial updates to the cost allocation plan, and submitted changes to the plan annually when significant changes were made. There were not significant modifications to the plan during the last audit year, so an update was not submitted to the Division of Cost Allocation.

The agency agrees that updates to the plan should be submitted annually, even if no changes are made. Further, the agency communicated with the Division of Cost Allocation seeking guidance on their process for the submission of amendments to the public assistance cost allocation plans regarding mid-year modifications.

Amendments to the DHS and OHA Cost Allocation Plans were submitted to the Division of Cost Allocation on June 6, 2013, for review. These amendments were to take effect with the start of Fiscal Year 2014.

6. DHS/OHA: Public Assistance: Improve Eligibility Procedures and Consider Approaches of Other States audit # 2013- 10, (dated May 2013)

This audit compared five data sets to records of people receiving benefits under three federal programs: Medicaid, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), and Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF).

These programs weave together to form Oregon's safety net. During the recent recession and over the past several years, the Legislature and two governors have made strategic policy choices designed to strengthen that net and keep families stable until they can get back on their feet.

The periods covered in the audit varied but most were for the fiscal years 2011 and 2012. Over those two years, the combined benefits administered were $11.7 billion. The three programs served 1.4 million Oregonians for those two years. The audit initially questioned benefits totaling about $2.8 million, approximately 0.02 percent of the combined costs of the program over the two years.

For the purposes of this audit, the Secretary of State used five data sets to compare records of people receiving benefits under Medicaid, SNAP and TANF.

- Social Security death records;
- Oregon Lottery winners;
- State prisoners;
- PERS retirees; and
- DHS/OHA employees.

The audit found 5,018 record matches across the five categories. A matched record does not mean an incorrect benefit. DHS/OHA review determined that the information presented in the audit would not have changed the benefits for about 3,200 matches based on current law and policy. Another 600 of the death record matches found the person on the record and the actual benefit recipient were not the same person, and subsequent analysis would not have changed the benefits. Miscoding of the Social Security number (SSN) in the computer system was the most common reason for this occurrence.

In about 1,200 of the 5,018 matches, the people initially appeared ineligible and may have received a benefit they should not have received. This is about 0.09 percent of the combined enrollment of the three programs.

The agencies continue to strive for the greatest accuracy. This audit pointed out a few areas where changes in policy or practice could enhance accuracy even further.

The audit also looked at policies developed by the Legislature and Governor's office to provide public services to Oregonians living in poverty and protect our most vulnerable citizens. Under statute and through policy, DHS and OHA have streamlined the eligibility processes and reduced unnecessary bureaucratic barriers that slow critical services to people in need and create waste and inefficiency in the system.

This has been a successful strategy as evidenced by how low-income Oregonians fared during the recent recession compared to other states. Since 2008, the number of people receiving SNAP has increased substantially. Despite the record-level caseloads, Oregon made process improvements that reduces the wait time for food benefits from more than one week to same day or next day service for most participants. Since 2008, the number of people receiving Medicaid has also increased substantially and overall accuracy rates have held steady or improved.

During the recession, the children's uninsurance rate dropped from 12.3 percent to 7.2 percent, providing financial stability to the families of more than 100,000 children. From 2009-2011, Oregon was one of the top two states for reducing the number of children without coverage. Also during the recession, SNAP was a key factor in holding the state's food insecurity rate steady. Now that these policies are in place and have proven to be effective, it is time to close the large lumpsum loopholes in a way that allows Oregon to continue providing services to our state's most vulnerable people effectively and efficiently without letting people who can support themselves slip through.

The audit raised questions of both accuracy and policy. DHS and OHA continue to believe that there is an appropriate trade-off between these goals.

More complex eligibility criteria impose higher administrative costs, often result in more inaccurate eligibility determinations, and restrict access to the program -- even among those who are eligible under the more complex requirements. Since 2002, Oregon has made strategic choices to streamline policies and reduce unnecessary red tape – while keeping adequate oversight – to help our state’s people with very low incomes receive the services they need so they can get back on their feet. As a result, the hunger rate has stayed stable in our state as it has increased in others. And our rate of uninsured children has plummeted.

The key is to balance the need for benefits with policies that make sure only qualified people receive them. That is the course both agencies have pursued for more than a decade.

DHS and OHA have taken numerous actions related to the original audit recommendations. These actions, and those that are still in process, are outlined below. In summary, the two agencies have reviewed the 5,018 cases originally identified as having a match to one of the databases used by the Secretary of State auditors. DHS and OHA have, or are in the process of writing overpayments, further researching or recovering about $1.8 million in benefits identified during this review. In addition, hundreds of staff from both agencies have been trained on improved verification processes and tools. DHS has asked for approval of waivers that allow changes in SNAP client change reporting requirements. The new centralized EBT card replacement unit has been expanded and now provides card replacement services statewide. Analysis of the effectiveness of identified federal databases have been tested and others continue to be reviewed. Various other internal processes have been reviewed and improved.

Below is a listing of the original recommendation and the specific actions that have been taken to address the findings in the report.

- Work with the Governor and the Legislature to consider changes to Oregon’s public assistance eligibility and reporting options, balancing the neediest with the most prudent use of public resources.

DHS and OHA continue to improve public assistance eligibility systems to ensure accuracy and reduce administrative costs. DHS and OHA continue to be committed to working with the Legislature, the federal government, and our partners to adjust policies to help the neediest Oregonians in ways that are productive, minimize administrative costs and avoid using resources where they are not needed. DHS and OHA have also continued to support Congressional efforts to end SNAP benefits for substantial lottery and gambling winners.

A waiver allowing DHS to act on returned mail was approved for implementation September 2013. An informational memorandum transmittal was provided to our field staff on August 15, 2013, to provide guidance on the new policy.

The SNAP program also reviewed policy options with partners regarding resource limits on the TANF funded resource information pamphlet, which qualifies many SNAP clients to be categorically eligible. The program adopted a state option to put an asset test on this program. DHS developed policy and training for this change and began implementation in January 2014. The resource limit is $25,000 in liquid assets. SNAP also submitted a waiver request that would allow clients in the Simplified Reporting System (SRS) to report resource changes mid-certification period when this liquid asset resource limit is met. DHS submitted this request to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) on October 18, 2013. However, with the passage of the Farm Bill, states are allowed to end SNAP benefits for substantial lottery or gambling winners. In Oregon we have defined substantial as $25,000. The bill also encouraged data exchanges with state lottery and gaming departments. We are currently working on setting up such an agreement with the Oregon Lottery.

At the time of the audit, adults covered by the Oregon Health Plan (OHP) Standard benefit package and children on OHP Plus had 12-month continuous eligibility. In general, continuous eligibility means that once an individual is determined eligible for Medicaid, the state may provide up to 12 months of eligibility, without a redetermination, regardless of changes in income or most other circumstances which otherwise would render the individual ineligible for Medicaid. OHA had intended to submit a request for an amendment to the state's 1115 Medicaid Demonstration, to become effective with implementation of the Affordable Care Act provisions in January 2014 that would have authorized expanding 12-month continuous eligibility for all adults on OHP. In response to the audit, DMAP was discussing including in its amendment request exceptions to the continuous eligibility policy that would require OHP recipients to report large lump sums, such as lottery winnings, and have them count for eligibility.

However, in May 2013, prior to the state's submission of such a request, the federal Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) issued clarification about what a 12-month continuous eligibility waiver for all adults might involve in 2014, including a potential reduction to a state's Medicaid match rate.

In February 2014, the federal Department of Health and Human Services Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) offered states the opportunity to apply for an opportunity to implement 12-month eligibility for adults, with an adjusted FMAP rate. The State has elected not to pursue this option at this time due to the reduction of available federal matching funds and the impact on the state budget of such an implementation. Oregon continues to implement 12-month continuous eligibility for children.

- Work with the Governor and the Legislature to reconsider the state's Medicaid waiver provision that exempts new income and assets from review during a 12-month medical certification.

Under the regulations for the Affordable Care Act (ACA) at 42 CFR § 435.916, periodic redeterminations of Medicaid eligibility, the federal government requires that the agency must re-determine the eligibility of Medicaid recipients, with respect to circumstances that may change, at least every 12 months, must have procedures designed to ensure that recipients make timely and accurate reports of any change in circumstances that may affect their eligibility during the 12-month certification period and must promptly re-determine eligibility when it receives information about changes in a recipient's circumstances that may affect eligibility. Also, if the agency has information about anticipated changes in a recipient's circumstances, it must re-determine eligibility at the appropriate time based on those changes.

Under OAR 410-200-0235, Oregon Administrative Rules drafted to comply with the ACA, OHP enrollees are required to report changes in circumstances affecting eligibility for beneficiaries within 30 calendar days of their occurrence. This includes:

- (A) A change in source of income.*
- (B) A change in employment status.*
 - 1) For a new job, the change occurs the first day of the new job.*
 - 2) For a job separation, the change occurs on the last day of employment.*
- (C) A change in earned income more than $100. The change occurs upon the receipt by the beneficiary of the first paycheck from a new job or the first paycheck reflecting a new rate of pay.*
- (D) A change in unearned income more than $50. The change occurs the day the beneficiary receives the new or changed payment.*
 - 1) A change is considered reported on the date the beneficiary or authorized representative reports the information to the Agency.*
 - 2) A change reported by the beneficiary or authorized representative for one program is considered reported for all programs administered by the Agency in which the beneficiary participates.*

This administrative rule became effective October 1, 2013.

- Take the necessary steps to gain access to the SSA's real time, online verification system and implement its use statewide.

Culminating an effort that had been underway prior to the beginning of the audit, DHS and OHA have been certified by the Social Security Administration (SSA) to receive the real-time online verification system data. DHS and OHA made the new application available to field staff in August 2013 and sent a transmittal explaining the new screens to the field on September 4, 2013. DHS Central Office also reviews SSA-related error reports.

- Require initial verification and continual monitoring procedures for categorically eligible recipients. Promptly notify SSA of any information that may disqualify an individual from receiving SSI benefits.

The department contacted the SSA's Regional Office in Seattle to confirm whether or not the local offices should be accepting information about potential additional income being received by SSI recipients. The SSA Regional Office confirmed that their local offices should be accepting this information and looking into it. Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) re-established procedures for all staff to follow, wherein they will report to SSA when they learn of additional income that was not previously known.

A note was added to the Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Oregon Supplemental Income Program (OSIP) Manual in July 2013 instructing workers to complete and send SSA a SDS 538A form when assets are identified that would result in the ineligibility for Oregon Supplemental Income Program Medical (OSIPM) if an individual were not assumed eligible. This process is now reinforced in training provided to staff.

- Provide caseworkers with clear policies, procedures and guidance on eligibility verification processes that comply with federal regulations.

Please see below.

- Provide caseworkers with regular training on verification processes and provide them with appropriate guidance.

Please see below.

- Ensure program managers are provided adequate training on federal requirements for their programs.

DHS and OHA continue efforts to improve training and guidance on eligibility policies and procedures. We are developing better analysis of error trends that allow us to target education around specific areas of eligibility and to monitor improvement. We will continue to incorporate information from this audit into the targeting process. In addition, we have developed new tools, including quick reference guides, regional training events and special newsletters to improve results.

Some of the specific efforts include a policy transmittal sent to all Oregon Department of Human Services Self Sufficiency and Aging and People with Disabilities field staff on April 15, 2013, regarding the use of Social Security Numbers and T-numbers for the SNAP program and a special edition “On Target/In the Loop” newsletter that was sent to staff in June 2013 in response to the findings from the audit. This was in addition to the article that had already been included in the May 2013 “In the Loop” newsletter. A documentation matrix was also developed and distributed to staff as a quick reference guide.

In addition, the department has developed information for branches to place in their lobbies discussing the need for clients to secure their cards, and Communications has incorporated card safety and security into the Oregon Trail Card web page and client notices. This is one of our highest traffic sites.

DHS has completed 27 meetings throughout the state where we shared information regarding the audit, with tips, tricks and tools (including the documentation matrix mentioned above) to avoid the types of errors that were found in the audit. In total, more than 400 field staff representing APD, Self Sufficiency and Child Welfare staff attended the trainings. Staff members attending the trainings take materials back to their offices to share with co-workers who were unable to attend. All training materials were also posted to the Regional Meetings website.

Affordable Care Act (ACA) trainings given to the OHA Statewide Processing Center in September and October 2013 incorporated some of the issues noted in the recommendations from the audit report. Items addressed in these trainings include identifying and addressing SSN mismatches and using information obtained from the federal hub to verify information provided by applicants. Additional training materials have been developed which focus entirely on issues identified through the audit.

Information regarding verifying SSN's via the legacy system has been included in training material that began to be presented to staff in late May 2014. Also included in the training material is information about how the SSN is verified via the federal hub when the request for health coverage has been approved by the Siebel system. OHA Statewide Processing Center also has material available to staff outlining the procedure for verifying the SSN of individuals newly added to the legacy system.

- We recommend that DHS/OHA Office of Payment Accuracy and Recovery obtain access to and use the SSA Death Master File as the primary data source for matching to death records.

This recommendation is partially implemented. The Office of Payment Accuracy and Recovery (OPAR) agreed to explore the use of the SSA Death Master File. OPAR currently uses Oregon's Vital Records data as its primary data source. We do this because it is the most accurate source of date of death data for our client population. The SSA file would give us access to out-of-state deaths, and this could have value as a primary source for this specific information.

OPAR ordered the most recent quarterly SSA Death Master File. Upon receipt we evaluated the usefulness of the out-of-state information provided by SSA as a pilot project. The OPAR Data Match Unit (DMU) completed a cost benefit analysis of using the SSA Death Master File and found a potential savings in year one of $3,000. Subsequent years could potentially show a savings of approximately $7,000 a year. To realize this savings, DMU staff would have to be taken off other assignments such as the Incarceration project. This would result in a loss of cost avoidance of $27,000 in the first year and $23,000 in successive years.

As a result, OPAR will put this match concept on indefinite hold until full staffing of the Data Match Unit can be achieved at which point installation of this match would be reconsidered.

- We recommend that DHS/OHA Office of Payment Accuracy and Recovery use the SSA Prisoner Verification System the agency has access to as part of its information exchange agreement with SSA.

This recommendation is partially implemented. OPAR is in the process of addressing the technical issues that accompany accessing the SSA Prisoner Verification System data, however this process is on hold until additional staff resources can be provided. Once these issues are addressed and overcome, OPAR will look to include use of this data as a part of its Corrections Match process.

- We recommend that DHS/OHA Office of Payment Accuracy and Recovery work with Oregon State Lottery and other state agencies to obtain access to client information that can affect eligibility, such as earned income through winnings and retirement payments.

This recommendation is partially implemented. DHS is currently working with the Oregon State Lottery (OSL) on processes to help with the identification and intervention of prize payments to assist with resource identification of eligibility and recovery of monies owed. Currently, DHS has Legislative support for a concept requiring information sharing between OSL and DHS. If all goes well, a concept will be introduced in the 2015 legislative session.

We continue to work with the Oregon State Lottery as we attempt to determine the best way to accomplish effective information sharing as recommended by the audit. Work on regular access to PERS information is on hold until the work on Lottery data is completed, though the process established for ad hoc PERS access will continue as needed.

- Continue work to identify recipients with large numbers of reportedly lost or stolen cards and implement a process for follow-up and possible investigation.

DHS initially created a central unit to replace lost or stolen cards in 2012 and to take actions to reduce the number of replacement cards and prevent misuse. As noted in our original response, the new process has reduced the issuance of replacement cards.

Statewide rollout of the centralized electronic benefit transfer (EBT) card replacement unit process was implemented January 15, 2014. This unit is now the primary replacer of all lost or stolen cards, except for specific exceptions outlined in the Field Business Procedures Manual. DHS sends a letter to households with four or more cards replaced in the last twelve months to reinforce that clients need to secure their card. The process is statewide and has reduced the number of replacement cards by 19% since the Replacement Line started.

- We recommend that DHS/OHA Office of Payment Accuracy and Recovery review remaining matches and take necessary action to recover overpayment through collection efforts up to and including prosecution.

This recommendation has been implemented. As discussed in detail below, all of the potential overpayments identified and forwarded to OPAR are in various stages of investigation, overpayment writing, and recovery. Those warranting additional investigation for fraud have been forwarded by DHS and OHA to OPAR's Fraud Investigation Unit as appropriate. In addition, DHS and OHA have followed up with health plans and providers to recover inappropriate Medicaid payments.

The audit report identified 5,018 case matches involving about $34.5 million in benefits. As we mentioned in our original response, most of these matches did not indicate inappropriate payments. In 3,183 cases (involving $24.2 million in benefits) the match information provided during the audit would not have changed the benefits these clients received under state policy and federal law. In addition, 609 matches (involving $7.5 million in benefits) were death match cases in which the deceased person in the SSA file was not the same as the person receiving benefits. The most common cause of these mismatches was incorrect entry of an individual's Social Security Number in the program's system.

This left 1,226 cases involving about $2.8 million in benefits as possibly issued in error. Since our original response we have further analyzed the 1,226 possible error cases.

- We have recovered about $500,000 in Medicaid capitation payments from managed care plans for 289 deceased persons and 159 persons who had some period of incarceration. These figures include some costs incurred outside of the original audit period. We are also pursuing an additional approximately $483,000 in capitation payments for deceased or incarcerated Medicaid clients from terminated health plans. We may not recover some of these payments if the provider is no longer operating.*
- We have recovered about $33,000 in fee-for-service Medicaid costs from providers who billed for services after the clients date of death. We are continuing our review of another approximately $7,000 in fee-for-service Medicaid payments.*
- We recaptured approximately $54,000 in unspent SNAP benefits remaining in 184 deceased client accounts.*
- We forwarded 21 PERS Medicaid matches for deceased client cases involving about $406,000 in benefits to our Estates Administration Unit. In total, 15 of these cases (those without a living spouse) involving about $297,000 have been worked. This resulted in about $8,000 in collections from estates. While there were additional questionable SNAP cases involving deceased persons, we do not collect SNAP benefits from estates.*
- We did not attempt to collect overpayments on 54 SNAP cases involving about $18,000 in benefits used after the client died, largely because identification of the user and collection is difficult for the amounts involved.*
- Based on federal guidance and state policy, we did not pursue overpayments on 219 incarcerated SNAP cases involving about $101,000 in issued benefits.*
- In 55 cases involving about $181,000, we did not pursue overpayments from providers for services provided clients due to our error.*
- We have written 102 client overpayments involving about $558,000 in total benefits. Included in this total are 88 PERS recipient related overpayments involving over $514,000 in SNAP, Medicaid and* TANF benefits. In many cases, the overpayment amounts were different than the amount of benefits originally questioned in the audit.

- After our review, we were able to determine that about $613,000 in SNAP, Medicaid and TANF benefits provided to PERS recipients were appropriate. We also found appropriate approximately $72,000 in Medicaid benefits provided to lottery winners.
- We are still reviewing three cases for possible SNAP and Medicaid overpayments involving about $1,000 in payments.
- We determined that some of the remaining questioned payments were appropriate or partially appropriate, we lacked critical information, or the amount was too small to justify the cost of collection.

7. DHS and OHA: Statewide Single Audit Including Selected Financial Accounts and Federal Awards for the Year Ended June 30, 2013, audit # 2014- 09, (dated April 2014)

- We recommend department management improve controls in the Receipting Unit to ensure all checks are safeguarded, properly tracked and accounted for in the financial records.

The agency appropriately segregates the duties of handling checks in its Salem facility. Under the current system, checks received by mail are sorted by category, recorded by count and delivered to the staff member that is responsible for that category. The item count can be reconciled from the online deposit system reports to an excel spreadsheet created by the unit.

The count and amount of checks received through this process is a small portion of the total revenue recorded by the Receipting unit.

We have strengthened internal controls on the handoff of checks by including, in addition to a count of checks, the dollar amount, reconciliation, and a check redistribution log. We continue to look for opportunities to reduce the risk by reducing the number of checks received in the agency.

- We recommend department management align policies and procedures with governmental accounting standards to record expenditures in the proper period and we recommend management provide training to staff to ensure that prior period adjustments are utilized when appropriate.

Each year the agency records regular, routine transactions to refinance revenue and expenditures related to lagged receipt of various revenue sources. As mentioned in the audit finding, these are normal transactions that occur as part of our regular business process.

In 2009, due to the large dollar amount of these transactions, the agency asked for advice from the Department of Administrative Services, Statewide Accounting and Reporting Services (SARS) on the proper use of prior period adjustments for these transactions. In response, SARS stated, “it’s not appropriate to incorporate a prior period adjustment into a routine practice. Prior period adjustments should be reserved for (those infrequent) corrections of errors.” This advice was consistent with both the Oregon Accounting Manual (OAM) 15.85.00.PO and related governmental accounting standards outlined in Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) circulars.

During the 2013 statewide financial audit, auditors again recommended prior period adjustments for routine transactions. On December 3, 2013, the agency, Secretary of State Auditors and SARS met again to discuss the issue. At the meeting, SARS leadership agreed with the auditors that these transactions could, most likely, require prior period adjustments. The agency stated their belief that use of prior period adjustments for routine transactions was contrary to the OAM and GASB.

To ensure that the agency was not in violation of OAM, the agency stated that it would change the practice of recording prior period adjustments (to include material routine transactions) if the OAM were updated to reflect the change.

On December 5, 2013, SARS updated OAM 15.85.00 to include new language on when to record a prior period adjustment for these types of transactions.

Since the change in language in the OAM, the unit has started reviewing all adjustments that occurred during fiscal year 2014 to see if prior period adjustments needed to be done. Clarification to staff of the change in the OAM occurred through the use of Office of Financial Services newsletter, training information shared with Grant Accounting unit, and a process update to improve ability to capture data that would need prior period adjustments.

- We recommend department management review and revise accrual methodologies for revenues and expenditures, as necessary, and perform periodic retrospective comparisons of accruals to actual amounts to ensure the accrual methodologies are reasonable.

Due to an error during year-end reporting the healthcare provider tax (HPT) revenue, drug rebate revenue and Medicaid Management Information Systems, expenditure accrual estimates were based on a 60-day rather than a 90-day availability period. This accounted for three of the four audit comments in this finding.

As a corrective action, beginning in fiscal year 2014, the Statewide Financial Reporting unit will modify its processes to ensure all governmental fund accrual calculations are based on the 90-day availability period. If actual HPT revenues are not known during month 13 financial adjustment periods, the agency will use estimates such as trends and projections that are based on Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP). The estimates will be compared to actuals for reasonableness.

Statewide financial reporting timelines require agencies to record accrual estimates within approximately 30 days after the end of the fiscal year even though the accrual period doesn't end until 90 days after the end of the fiscal year. This timeframe produces variances between the estimates and actuals. The fiscal year 2013 variances were partially due to the inherent nature of using estimates. The $17.4 million and the $7.5 million variances seem high, but only make up 6.4% and 2.8% of the total accrual of $270 million.

Although variances of actuals and estimates are expected, the agency agrees that accrual amounts should be compared to actuals, and future accrual modifications should be implemented as needed. Therefore, as a corrective action, beginning in 2014 the Statewide Financial Reporting unit will implement a yearly review of its operating statements to document variances and adjust accruals if needed.

The Statewide Financial Reporting unit has reviewed and updated accrual methodologies as appropriate.

- We recommend department management timely estimate and properly record liabilities in the department's financial records. We also recommend department management implement adequate internal controls to ensure all liabilities are appropriately reported in the financial statements.

We agree that the existing year-end review process for liabilities can be improved.

The estimate cited in the finding from August 2013 was from a rough range estimate by an IT project staff person and was not based on a clear, appropriate methodology and was not detailed enough to estimate the impact by fund. The complexity of the analysis resulted in an actual estimate that was provided to leadership and validated by financial staff in January 2014, after the close of the financial reporting period. It is not the normal practice of the agency to place estimates of liability on the financial statements that do not meet GAAP standards.

When the agency had an adequate remediation estimate, it followed the appropriate process and provided the Department of Administrative Services, Statewide Accounting and Reporting Services the following subsequent event disclosure:

The Department of Human Services has initiated a data remediation project to correct data conversion issues in ORKIDS related to eligibility and payment records. Subsequent to completion of the financial statements the agency developed a methodology to estimate the potential financial impact of the remediation. A rough estimate of the magnitude is $20 million refinancing from state general fund to various federal grants. The remediation methodology was approved on January 15, 2014. The estimate of specific state and federal grant level impact is expected in February 2014. It is expected that actual data remediation efforts will begin later in calendar year 2014.

As part of the year-end process, the Statewide Financial Reporting unit has strengthened its review of potential liabilities for financial reporting purposes.

- We recommend department management review user access to OR-Kids, ensure services are coded correctly in OR-Kids, review Adoption Assistance and Foster Care cases to verify eligibility is correct in OR-Kids, and ensure overpayment adjustments process correctly. We also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for unallowable costs.

The Child Welfare Systems Innovations Manager is managing an effort to review and improve the partner access agreements, determine appropriate level of access, specific user roles and procedures to ensure compliance. The Federal Compliance Unit will continue to work with Office of Business Intelligence (OBI), Office of Financial Services (OFS), Office of Information Services (OIS) and OR-Kids System Analysts to mitigate eligibility conversion issues whether through Data Remediation or manual clean-up. The Post Adoption Services Manager will work with OFS, OIS and OR-Kids System Analysts to correct the technical issues causing incorrect closure of Title IV-E eligibility on the Adoption Assistance cases, to identify all cases affected, and to correct the eligibility on the affected cases. The non-recurring services will be corrected and any inappropriate claims will be resubmitted to correct the claim on the CB-496 report.

The service coding corrections and reimbursement adjustments will be completed by June 1, 2014. A change request has been submitted to address the incorrect processing of overpayments that involved an Enhanced Supervision rate. The completion date of this request will be based on availability of programmers and the prioritization of work to be completed by OIS.

The department has made several efforts to improve the access controls around OR-Kids. The primary efforts include:

- Completion of the shift to a Role-Based access strategy for all staff.*
- Development of a partner Access Assessment Tool.*
- Piloting of Access Assessment Tool.*
- Development of an Access Oversight Committee which includes representation of Program, Field, Business, and Internal Audits to consider federal and state regulations around access and approval or denial of requests.*

The Federal Compliance Unit (FCU) made the decision to not move forward with any automatic eligibility data remediation in April of 2014. This decision was made after two months of intensive data remediation meetings and the discovery that the work FCU had been doing with Office of Business Intelligence to design a data mart was meeting our needs. Since the decision was made FCU and OBI have been able to concentrate on the data and the reports needed to complete any final manual clean-up. FCU believes the completion of the manual clean-up will be December 31, 2014.

The non-recurring services were corrected and the inappropriate claims were adjusted on the CB-496 report, report period ending June 30, 2014.

- We recommend department management identify and correct data conversion issues and repay the federal government for the duplicate claims.

On January 30, 2014, the Office of Financial Services posted a remediation estimate in the accounting system in the amount of $23.3 million, thereby refunding payment amounts due to the federal government. The Office of Financial Services, Office of Information Systems, OR-Kids System Unit and the Federal Compliance Unit analyzed the conversion issues and determined the most appropriate action to take to remediate the financial conversion issues.

The department has applied the data fix necessary to address the data conversion issues that caused the duplicate claims. In addition, the Department has made accounting adjustments related to the refinancing issues. Steps are currently underway to produce detailed reports that support the accounting adjustments. The department believes that this issue will be complete by the anticipated completed date of December 31, 2014.

- We recommend department management make appropriate corrections and adjustments to the accounting records to prevent the department from requesting federal reimbursement for expenditures incurred outside the period of availability.

The federal draws are being reconciled at the end of each quarter to the total federal expenditures reported to ACF. Not all required adjustments have been completed as we are waiting for the OR-Kids remediation to be completed which is projected to be by December 2014. All adjustments for prior quarters based on actual claims will be completed at that time.

- We recommend department management ensure CB-496 reports are complete, accurate, and adequately supported.

The Office of Financial Services (OFS) has modified its query process to ensure that all costs for the entire grant are reported on the correct line in the 496 report. OFS will also ensure all documentation used to support the federal report will be kept with the report.

Corrective action was taken so that all documentation is retained with the report. OR-Kids remediation is projected to be by December 2014, all adjustments for prior quarters based on actual claims will be completed at that time.

- We recommend department management ensure all required documentation is completed, reviewed and maintained, and that certification dates in OR-Kids are supported by corroborating documentation. We also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for costs paid to providers who were not certified at the time of payment.

The department is issuing an Informational Memorandum providing clarification on the documentation of the certification dates to record for a Certificate of Approval issued. The Informational Memorandum covers the initial and any subsequent Certificate of Approval. The department has also updated the OR-Kids Business Process Guides to clarify the documentation of certification dates in OR-Kids and filing of the Certificate of Approval in the OR-Kids online file cabinet. The department researched the two cases referenced in the finding and make the adjustments necessary to our accounting record and CB-496 federal reporting for the quarter ending March 31, 2014. The Informational Memorandum was completed on April 1, 2014.

- We recommend department management ensure CB-496 reports are complete, accurate, and adequately supported. We also recommend management implement processes to ensure the numbers reported for the average number of children assisted are accurate.

For line items on the report which have no expenditures, OFS will confirm with program this information is correct. Adjustments will be completed as necessary to ensure all expenditures are reported on the correct line.

The counts of children with non-recurring Adoption Assistance administrative expenses are calculated using OR-Kids expenditure data for those Adoption Assistance services with “non-recurring” in their title. An error was made when the service types were set up in OR-Kids, such that one service that should have been designated as “non-recurring” was not. On March 12, 2014, that service type title was corrected in OR-Kids. Counts for children receiving this service will be included in the Title IV-E Non-Recurring Administrative Cost Expenses line in future CB-496 reports.

- We recommend department management ensure verification of income with IEVS screens is clearly documented in client case files when determining client eligibility.

TANF program policy requires Self-Sufficiency workers to verify and document eligibility. Staff are also required to use the information from the IEVS screens, as well as other documentary evidence (oral or written), in determining and verifying financial and non-financial eligibility. This is consistent with federal guidance.

While the department agrees that verification of financial and non-financial requirements must be adequately documented when determining client eligibility, the department disagrees that the use of IEVS-related screens must be independently and specifically documented for every client. In fact, some partners such as the Social Security Administration that provide information used in screening applications, require in our state agreement with them that we do not document that we obtained specific information from their screens.

However, the department agrees with the need to reinforce the importance of narrating that relevant information on income was verified using the IEVS screens. The department will continue to reinforce the importance of narrating when issues with narrating this factor are identified through the current Quality Assurance and Quality Control reviews.

Training materials were reviewed and updated in the summer of 2014. In October and December 2014 communication transmittals were sent to all staff determining eligibility reinforcing the need to narrate that the appropriate IEVS screens were reviewed and to note the outcome if information is located. This review of screens and narration was also reviewed at the Accuracy Summits held across the state in August, September and October of 2014.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure projected hours of participation appropriately reflect the client's employment status, reported activity participation reflects actual hours, and data entered into the automated data processing system is accurate and complete.

The department identified that one of the reasons for the work hour inaccuracies is due to how the weeks are programmed in the TRACS system. The department has already begun to make programming changes to correct the automated week calendar so that it aligns with the federal report.

With respect to the errors in projected hours and client employment status, the department plans to strengthen controls and build upon current efforts to maximize accuracy in the reporting of data. Work Verification Plan reviews are currently conducted annually. This internal control process reviews for compliance with the federal participation requirements for the TANF and SSP-MOE data reports, validating accuracy of data and documentation. In addition to statewide communication on best practices as well as error trends, the department has identified point persons in each district who will help communicate to staff the correct coding of participation related information.

Quality Assurance reviews have recently begun on TANF cases across the state as a means to strengthen controls for TANF case management accuracy in the Self Sufficiency programs. These reviews will continue as resources allow, providing a review of participation practices. The elements of acting on reported changes to update projected hours accurately, as well as ensuring documented hours are input into TRACS accurately, will be specifically called out and added to the review tool. In addition, case management training materials will be reviewed to provide clear expectations for coding the employment status, projecting hours and accurately reporting the participation hours related to employment on Self Sufficiency TANF cases.

In April 2014, the department made programming changes to correct the automated week calendar so that it aligns with the federal report. This change affected federal data transmissions from May 2014 forward.

In the spring 2013 the TANF program identified point persons in each district who help communicate to staff the correct coding of participation related information.

Work verification JOBS audits are conducted every year. In January 2014 a summary of audit results was shared statewide. The results included acting on reported changes to update projected hours accurately, and ensuring documented hours are input into TRACS accurately. In the spring of 2014 some areas of the State with lower accuracy received an additional review, training and coaching. Lead staff from many field branches were included so that they could help disseminate the information associated with best practices and error trends.

In February 2014, case management training materials and staff tools were reviewed and revised. Other on-line guides were revised in June 2014 and posted in the “staff tools” website. These tools provide expectations for coding the employment status, projecting hours, and accurately reporting the participation hours related to unsubsidized work on Self Sufficiency TANF cases.

In the summer of 2014, the TANF program created a TANF Federal Participation Toolkit and made it available to all staff. The toolkit was shared at statewide program manager and line manager meetings. It includes several guides to help improve upon the accuracy of work participation data and to maximize federal participation hours for the State. Several districts began conducting case reviews for the purpose of engaging families in JOBS or other activities and to check to ensure that those families are still eligible for TANF. These reviews include ensuring the case plan activities are accurately coded in the TRACS system. In addition, TANF program staff visited a few areas of the state in the fall of 2014 to provide training and consultation on the JOBS Activity Guidelines.

- We recommend department management prioritize the correction of OR-Kids coding errors and completion of monitoring reports to ensure the benefit threshold of $25,350 is not exceeded and re-determinations are completed timely.

The corrections to the seven clients who exceeded the $25,350 limit were corrected and adjustments completed to TANF in February 2014. A total of $470,530.40 was refinanced to another funding source from TANF.

Analysis determined the five clients where re-determinations were not completed timely had the re-determinations completed prior to when the sample was pulled. For these clients, their TANF eligibility ended because their re-determinations were not completed. However, the last of these client re-determinations was completed July 9, 2013. This resulted in the need to make funding adjustments in the quarters in which re-determinations were made. The current report workarounds are helping identify TANF clients that need a re-determination and they are being completed. The Federal Compliance Unit has been completing internal audits and providing findings to the Federal Revenue Specialist and Supervisor for corrective action. Information from audit findings and daily technical assistance is used to develop topics for bi-weekly conference calls between the Federal Compliance Unit and Federal Revenue Specialists. The Federal Compliance Unit also provides quarterly one-day trainings to the Federal Revenue Specialists and Supervisors to review policy and procedure.

The Federal Compliance Unit continues to work with the Office of Business Intelligence, Office of Information Services and OR-Kids to prioritize critical reports to ensure Federal Revenue Specialists have the tools they need to manage their workload and complete TANF re-determinations timely and accurately.

The report to notify staff of instances where the $25,350 TANF reimbursement limit has been met, has been completed. This report was available in a User Acceptance Testing environment for several months and was moved to production in November 2014. This report is the EL-3008-S TANF $20K Summary Report. This report lists any client whose reimbursement of services paid for by TANF funds is greater than or equal to $20,000 over the past 365 days. In addition, a detail report was added so that a user can get all the transaction records that make up the noted amount for the client.

- We recommend department management ensure complete and accurate client information is used to compile the quarterly data reports.

The department agrees that the data populating the ACF-199 and ACF-209 reports need to be as accurate and complete as possible. Currently, a team of Office of Information Services (OIS), Office of Business Intelligence (OBI), Self-Sufficiency Business Analysts, and Self-Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff meets weekly to address known or presenting data quality issues for these federal reports. Significant progress has been achieved over the past year to increase the data accuracy and completeness of these reports. This includes resolving several of the items listed in this audit findings report. DHS recognizes that a continued effort is still necessary in order to resolve known data quality and data completeness issues.

The inaccurate reporting of Maintenance of Effort (MOE) clients in the FTANF report was corrected in May 2013 with a change to the selection criteria for each federal report. In addition, an alert report process was implanted to notify financial staff of clients needing to have their funding source changed. Unfortunately, the updated data was not incorporated in time for the Federal Fiscal Year (FFY) 2012 file resubmissions. This data will be correctly reported for the FFY 2013 quarters.

The department started correctly reporting cases exempted from the federal time limit due to living in “Indian country” to the Administration for Children and Families (ACF) federal reports in FFY 2013. The department implemented these changes in April 2013. Unfortunately, the updated data was not incorporated in time for the FFY 2012 file resubmissions. For FFY 2013 and forward this data will be correctly reported.

The specifics for the reported hour inaccuracies issue was investigated in early 2014. The error that was identified was that the TRACS application had a week that started counting hours from Saturday through Friday, while the data extraction coding had an alternate start day, resulting in a mismatch of hours reported for a week. This system issue was corrected in February 2014. This fix will be reported in the rerun for the first quarter 2014 and in all subsequent files.

TANF-funded child welfare cases continue to be excluded from the ACF-199 report due to the child welfare system coding issues. A corrective action to this known issue is being actively worked. There is a team consisting of a Child Welfare Business Analyst, OBI, and Self-Sufficiency Business Analyst staff who are working to refine the requirements and data extraction coding for the data needed from the Child Welfare case management system. Progress has been made to correctly identify the population needed in the federal reports from the child welfare system, though complete data accuracy has not yet been achieved.

The TANF Policy Unit and other team members continue to work with the OBI, OIS, the Self-Sufficiency Business Analyst Team to prioritize critical data and coding changes needed to ensure accurate and complete reporting in the ACF-199 and ACF-209 federal reports.

Oregon is still working to include the Child Welfare data into the federal report. Additional code modifications have been identified since the last update. The reprogramming means that there has been an additional delay in the inclusion of the Child Welfare TANF expenditure data for the TANF federal report. As of mid-December, new requirements are almost fully reprogrammed. A test file will be sent to the Self-Sufficiency staff working on the federal report in early February 2015. It is anticipated that monthly data from Child Welfare Data will be sent to Self-Sufficiency OIS staff for inclusion in the TANF federal reports shortly thereafter. Estimated date of code moving to production for ongoing monthly data to be sent to Self-Sufficiency OIS staff is March 2015.

- We recommend department management coordinate resources to better maintain and more readily provide sufficient application documentation.

The department has developed a business case for an electronic case document storage system. We believe that a coordinated and consistent process for electronic case document storage will provide more readily accessible application documentation. This effort will involve training, archiving and transfer agreements, business process development, communication plans, and technology installs. The anticipated completion date for all Self Sufficiency offices was originally expected to be December 31, 2014, however due to resource constraints associated with other statewide priorities, the new anticipated completion date for all Self Sufficiency offices to be fully functioning with electronic case document storage is predicted to be June 30, 2015.

- We recommend the department seek additional guidance from the federal government to ensure five-year time limit monthly exemptions are being appropriately applied in accordance with federal regulations.

The department is currently interpreting the “Indian Country” provisions of time limits according to the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) designation of “service area”. The TANF program, in coordination with the department’s Tribal Affairs Director, sent an inquiry on June 2, 2014 to the U.S. Department of the Interior requesting which areas in Oregon constitute “Indian Country”. The Department of the Interior sent a response to DHS on August 1, 2014 which included that the Department of Interior is unable to honor the request of DHS for three main reasons: (1) an undertaking analyzing all lands in Oregon that meet the definition of Indian Country provided in 18 U.S.C. § 1151 would be quite large; (2) the Bureau of Indian Affairs has previously responded indicating they do not use the section 1151 in their administration of social programs, rather, the term Service Area is used; and (3) the Department of Interior’s provision of legal advice is limited to the interests that affect one of their client agencies followed by a request from the agency. The Department of the Interior recommended DHS consult with the Tribes affected by the program.

DHS has consulted with Oregon Tribes. DHS is currently unable to modify the definition of “Indian Country”. To date there is formal opposition from the Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians, the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians, as well as the Klamath Tribes. The department continues to work on resolving the issue.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure all documentation supporting a provider’s eligibility determination is retained. For current providers with missing documentation, we recommend the department verify they are eligible to provide services.

Through the avenue of agenda items at Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, articles in the newsletter, “In the Loop”, and a training module at the 2013 Regional meetings APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation required to support a provider’s eligibility and forms that must be retained within the provider files. Provider Relations Unit will also provide resources and education for the Developmental Disability program providers. The APD offices have obtained the missing documentation for most of the providers listed.

Of the 17 providers who needed data base checks we were able to satisfactorily complete all of the checks.

For three providers the department could not locate the enrollment agreements. Two providers were terminated and we are investigating whether or not there are costs where the federal sharing must be repaid. We were able to locate the enrollment for the third application.

For the provider that did not have a criminal background check, we were able to locate the check was completed.

For the six providers where we were unable to locate provider files, we have since documented the criminal background check and provider enrollment documents.

- We recommend department management document procedures for completing annual reviews and strengthen the process for conducting desk reviews to include reviewing and making adjustments that could affect the annual payment rate. We also recommend department management ensure full reviews are completed and adequately documented and evidence of supervisory review and approval is retained.

Documentation was provided on which facilities were audited and how those facilities were selected for this audit cycle. APD shared the number of facilities reviewed and draft procedures that APD will use for performing future reviews. APD will finalize procedures by the beginning of the next annual review. In addition, APD will make all adjustments that could affect the annual payment rates. APD will also document supervisory review of the process.

Department management has made significant changes to the Nursing Facility Cost Review process. The department hired a Program Analyst 4 (PA4) to assist on these reviews. The PA4 and an Operations and Policy Analyst 3 are working on the process. In addition, the department has implemented and documented management review of this process. Draft procedures were completed in early 2014 to document the process and finalized in June 2014. These procedures are reviewed periodically to make necessary revisions.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure sufficient documentation is maintained to demonstrate compliance with federal requirements, and ensure the client liability is calculated accurately.

Through the avenue of agenda items at Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, articles in the newsletter, "In the Loop", APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation required to support a client's eligibility and forms that must be retained within the client files. APD is also working to implement scanned client files for field offices so that all documentation will be readily available. For the two clients where errors occurred in determining the client's liability, one of the clients is in a nursing facility and another is deceased.

Information was sent to the Estate Recovery Unit to determine if these questioned costs were eligible for estate recovery.

- We recommend department management correct the transactions processed with this incorrect coding. We also recommend department management ensure system coding is appropriately updated to allow only current FMAP rates to be used.

The department has implemented a process change related to Program Cost Account (PCA) structure. The Office of Financial Services (OFS) now enters an 'effective end date' on PCA's to prevent a PCA from being used on a transaction after the grant period has closed.

The four identified transactions have been corrected in the accounting system with balance transfers. Additional research is being done to ensure there are no additional documents that need adjustment. The change in process was implemented March, 2014.

- We recommend management develop a plan based on current resources to ensure the timely completion of provider health and safety standard surveys for nursing facilities.

Oregon has a long history of meeting the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) performance standards related to surveying facilities in fewer than 15.9 months. The Nursing Facility Licensing Unit is dedicated to bringing our CMS performance standard back into compliance and we are anticipating reaching compliance in early 2016. Over the past four years various staffing resource issues, such as the position freeze and mandatory furloughs, have significantly affected our ability to complete our work timely. In fact, our vacancy rate for surveyors reached 34% by the end of the freeze. Implementation of the Quality Indicator Survey (QIS) also contributed to our failure to meet the CMS performance standards. In addition to the general difficulties inherent of a new process and system, this new federally mandated survey process has increased our required survey team size (particularly for small facilities), increased training requirements, and lengthened total survey time.

Over the past four years we have implemented several continuous improvement activities that have resulted in efficiency gains to the survey process, in turn reducing the amount of time it takes to survey a provider. Those efficiencies have resulted in a 33% reduction in new surveyor training time. We have made efforts to minimize survey related travel and made a 10% reduction in report writing time. We have implemented an Electronic document workflow process, streamlined our report review process to facilitate a faster turnaround time between surveys, and provided provider training on how they can prepare for the new QIS process. Additionally, since July 2013 we have hired a significant number of new surveyors. This has been offset by a number of retirements and staff resignations.

Over the coming two years, we will take a number of steps to bring the department into compliance. By February 2015, we plan to make job offers on all current surveyor vacancies. By September 30, 2015, all new surveyors will be trained, Surveyor Minimum Qualifications Test (SMQT) certified and QIS registered. During this time we will also assess the survey and training teams to optimize production, optimize survey and surveyor turnaround time, evaluate utilization of CMS approved survey contractor to help us complete surveys and evaluate our surveyor recruitment process to enable us to reach better and more qualified applicants. We have also begun bringing retired and resigned surveyors back on a temporary basis to perform surveys.

Our goal is to achieve compliance, and to have no facility with a survey interval over 12.9 months (which is well below the required 15.9 months). We estimate this will be achieved in early 2016.

- We recommend authority management develop a security plan that addresses all federally required components, develop and implement a formalized risk analysis program, and ensure system security reviews are conducted timely for all applicable systems involved in the administration of the Medicaid program.

We agree the Department of Human Services and Oregon Health Authority have not completed all the elements of a formal ADP risk analysis and security review of the Medicaid systems. However, as we have previously communicated, the agencies have traditionally relied on third-party assessments (such as the SOCI report from TKW), audits from Office of Inspector General, Secretary of State, and the Enterprise Security Office's Annual Information Systems Business Risk Assessment report to provide this information. Security control assessment is included in these assessments. Vulnerability assessment scans of the MMIS system software are periodically performed at least every three years or whenever major changes are made to the system. The last assessment took place in August 2012. The next assessment is scheduled for later in 2014. We use these audits and reports, as well as leveraging reports from the Privacy and Incident Response section, to assist in that determination. While not strictly a formal risk assessment per se, it does provide an analysis of controls from both a system as well as program perspective. In addition, Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) staff have conducted security walk-throughs of the State Data Center on a number of occasions as required by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). The agencies also have the Change Activity Board (CAB) and the Architectural Review Board which gives/requires the Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) the opportunity to review proposals for security issues and impact on the IT security environment.

We also agree that we need to develop a formal risk assessment and security review program based in industry standards and best practices that assesses risks for programs as a whole and not on a system-by-system basis. ISPO has hired a position for this activity and expects to have it in operation by June 30, 2014. It is envisioned that this program will be policy based. The program will use tools and techniques based on National Institute of Technology and Standards (NIST) principles and standards. The overarching goal is to ensure that security risk analysis is conducted when appropriate on a regularly scheduled basis. It is expected that the program will work closely with the Internal Audits and Consulting Unit to ensure that peer review of findings is included as an integral part of the ongoing risk assessment program.

The Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) is currently in the process of performing a Risk Assessment (RA) on the MMIS System and anticipates the RA will be completed by March 2015. ISPO is also on track to perform vulnerability assessments on MMIS in the Summer of 2015. We anticipate that a number of subsystems that "feed" into or use output from MMIS may also be candidates for evaluation. This is dependent on ensuring that the evaluations will not disrupt the transition from the Cover Oregon (CO) Health Insurance Exchange or the contingency support efforts for CO during the Magi/Medicaid and Qualified Health Plan Transition project. We anticipate that evaluation of those systems will occur during the 3rd and 4th quarter of 2015. ISPO's RA program is in the operational pilot stage. Staff have undergone formal training by ISACA and have successfully conducted two pilot assessments to fine tune the tool selection and processes. The overarching policy is in development as part of a revised security policy set due to go forward for approval February 2015.

- We recommend department management ensure branch offices are aware of and follow the established procedures for securing EBT cards.

DHS is developing a Financial Desk Training for Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Self Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff, whose duties involve financial business process, and field managers. The Financial Desk Training will include a section on the established procedures for Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card security. The Field Business Procedures Manual and the Business Review Tools are used as a basis for the training curriculum. SSP Office and Business Managers received the financial desk Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) Card Security section of the training prior to June 2014, along with expectations for complying with EBT card security and inventory procedures. In addition, a communication was sent to office leadership in June 2014, regarding the importance of securing EBT cards and following the policy outlined in the Field Business Procedures Manual for monthly inventory.

A Financial Manager Training webinar, including a section on established procedures for EBT card security, was held on December 23, 2014. We are continuing to fine tune this training based on participant suggestions. We also plan to record a session and post it to the Learning Center by the first week of February 2015. Training covering this content for Financial Clerks will be developed and piloted in February 2015. A recorded version of the Financial Clerk training will be posted to the Learning Center by the end of March, 2015.

As with other findings, APD has also addressed this topic through agenda items at APD Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, and articles in the newsletter, “In the Loop”. Through these efforts APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation needed in effective management of the EBT card security.

8. Temporary Assistance for Needy Families: High Expectations, Stronger Partnerships, and Better Data Could Help More Parents Find Work, audit #2014-08 (dated April 2014)
 - We recommend the Department of Human Services:
 - Improve case management
 - Use additional case managers to increase the amount of client contact and set an expectation that each client will progress toward self-sufficiency;
 - Prioritize additional work supports as funds become available, particularly subsidized child care that allows more parents to participate in work activities;
 - Develop procedures for self-sufficiency offices to better assess new and returning clients and connect clients to needed medical care;
 - Create detailed case plans that include strengths and interests, progress milestones, and meaningful activities;
 - Track progress, build time limits into case planning, and conduct intensive reviews at key intervals, such as 24 and 48 months;
 - Work with case managers and supervisors to address their concerns about the sanctions process and ensure they consistently hold clients accountable;
 - Increase discussion of client progress during recertifications and routine client contacts;
 - Improve services to clients with barriers by including work-related activities in case plans when appropriate, monitoring progress made in treatment, and following through on disability analyst recommendations;

- Require some level of participation before fully sanctioned clients are allowed to reinstate their TANF benefits;
- Develop a process to identify top performing TANF workers and share best practices among case managers and regional offices.

Expand partnerships

- Build connections with Coordinated Care Organizations so clients can receive thorough assessments, referrals, and appropriate medical treatment;
- Increase collaboration with other organizations that provide crucial services to TANF clients, including GED instruction, rehabilitation, apprenticeships, community support and employment services;
- Work with university researchers to help assess program effectiveness, as other states have done.

Use data to drive improvements

- Assess which client interventions work best and direct limited resources to proven programs;
- Continue developing data capabilities to track client progress, assist case management and improve agency wide operations.

Ensure compliance with federal requirements

- Work with the federal government to determine if time-limit extensions for economic hardship were appropriate and if the Indian Country exemption is too broad.

We recommend that DHS management work with the Legislature and Governor to:

- Consider revisiting budget and program decisions made during the recession that decreased client services and increased the number of TANF clients, using improved data on program performance and client needs;
- Study the costs and benefits of raising the income limit for TANF clients who find work;

- Consider allowing case managers more flexibility when re-engaging clients and administering sanctions;
- Consider authorizing extended benefit holds as an initial step when clients fail to participate, reducing the use of the cumbersome and punitive disqualification process;
- Explore alternatives to Oregon’s state clock policy that could be less administratively burdensome.
- Consider adding small-scale participation incentives.

We recommend that Congress and the Department of Health and Human Services consider modifying federal regulations to:

- Allow clients more time and credit for pursuing GED certificates and higher education while working or looking for work;
- Allow clients with barriers to employment to receive more participation credit for documented progress in activities, such as health care, addiction treatment and vocational rehabilitation, that help them address their barriers;
- Give credit for partial participation in work-related activities, such as unpaid work experience and community service, particularly for clients with documented barriers.

We recommend that federal auditors further review federal TANF regulations that limit participation credit for clients who pursue education, health care, addiction treatment and other activities that help them address their barriers to work.

The Secretary of State’s Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) audit largely confirms weakness in program structure that the Department has been actively discussing with policy makers and stakeholders since the recession began in 2008. Third party validation by qualified auditors is always welcome and valuable.

We appreciate the accurate portrayal of the challenging economic circumstances in Oregon and the many consequences for the state TANF program as described in the audit report. Additionally, the agency agrees with the findings that improvements can and should be made in terms of employment outcomes and client engagement in the TANF program.

While the audit points out that Oregon's TANF program does not lack for vision or ambition, it is regrettable that it largely ignores the dual purpose of the program: Safe and stable families, as well as employed parents.

In 2007, through House Bill 2469, the Oregon Legislature codified and funded a comprehensive TANF program designed to achieve the dual purposes of the TANF program. Data shows that in the first year of implementing the HB 2469 model, the program was starting to achieve the expected results. Unfortunately, the recession forced even more families out of work and into the TANF program. It also forced difficult decisions about resources for the TANF program. Because jobs were in short supply for even the most qualified job-seekers, the Legislature chose to prioritize TANF's family stability side. It left the cash assistance side of the program in place as part of a safety net for children and drastically reduced employment supports and services for adults in the program.

The report recognizes that the TANF program during the audit period was not structured to prepare people for jobs that did not exist during the recession. Still, the audit spends considerable time on the issue of accountability, both with respect to DHS staff holding individuals accountable, and individuals on TANF taking responsibility to get back to work. That discussion perpetuates the traditional conversation about this program and the people it serves, rather than recognizing the structural challenge of the disincentives for work that are part of Oregon's safety-net.

Compounding those structural issues -- specific to poverty and the TANF program itself during the audit period -- were the overarching challenges for all job seekers during the recession. Those challenges are underscored by the fact that the Unemployment Insurance program (which, like TANF is also intended to be temporary) has been extended multiple times since the recession began (and, at the time of this audit report release, six years later, the U.S. Congress is considering another extension).

That being understood, the agency agrees that best practice involves engaging clients fully in case planning, supporting those plans with the appropriate services, and holding clients accountable for full participation in plans and services. The TANF program already has begun seeing improvements in these areas as the result of the Legislature supporting the redeployment of staff and a small expansion of the JOBS program budget for employment services in the 2013-15 Legislatively Adopted Budget (LAB).

Next Steps:

The Department takes the results of the TANF audit seriously, particularly in the spirit of improving outcomes for Oregon's children and families. Following is a summary of the audit recommendations DHS can implement under its current authority and within existing resources:

Improving Case Management

- Continue prioritizing additional work supports as funds become available, particularly subsidized childcare that allows more parents to participate in work activities. The prioritization process must take into account the need to balance employment training opportunities with the support services that enable clients to participate in them.
- Work with case managers and supervisors to improve the sanctions process and ensure they consistently hold clients accountable.
- Develop a process to identify top performing TANF workers and share best practices among case managers and regional offices.

Expanding Partnerships

- Continue building connections with Coordinated Care Organizations so clients can receive thorough assessments, referrals and appropriate medical treatment. Implementation planning must recognize that CCOs across the state are in different stages of development and that coordination with each CCO happens at the local level.

- Continue increasing collaboration with other organizations that provide crucial services to TANF clients, including GED instruction, rehabilitation, apprenticeships, community support and employment services.
- Continue partnerships with the Early Learning Council. Local leadership is participating in the hubs and will identify alignment opportunities.

Using Data to Drive Improvements

- Continue assessing which client interventions work best and direct limited resources to promising programs.
- Continue developing data capabilities to track client progress, assist case management, and improve agency-wide operations as capacity and funding allows. Major information technology system improvements would require additional funding.

Although the audit recognizes that the agency is operating the current TANF program within legislatively established policy and budget parameters, many of the recommendations will require the Legislature to make additional policy and budget decisions surrounding the program.

Currently, Oregon's workforce redesign effort is one of the most promising policy initiatives for TANF client employment. The Governor's re-chartering of workforce boards through Executive Order 13-08 and the Legislature's adoption of SB 1566 (2014), are critical elements in addressing re-employment of TANF recipients. Without a stronger economy, including a workforce system focused on meeting businesses needs and moving people out of poverty and up the economic ladder, we cannot be successful in the long-term.

With those considerations in mind, and recognizing the need for policy and budget decisions at the state and/or federal levels in order to implement recommendations, the Department agrees to continue to engage in discussions with the appropriate organizations on all remaining recommendations, with the exception of the time limit exemption for economic hardship mentioned in the report. DHS believes it was in compliance based on the understanding of regulations at the time of implementation. In addition, the temporary exemptions for economic hardship are not current policy.

Conclusion:

DHS looks forward to partnering with the Governor and the Legislature to improve outcomes for children and families who are TANF recipients.

Ultimately, the best answer to the challenges identified in the audit is Oregon's economic recovery. Oregon's workforce redesign, along with the efforts of Governor Kitzhaber and the Legislature to comprehensively approach poverty through investments in education, health care, human services, economic development and job creation, are the best long-term opportunities to reduce the need for TANF.

Since our original response, DHS has convened two workgroups for the purpose of crafting a TANF re-design proposal for the 2015-17 legislative session. The workgroup composed of DHS staff and stakeholders focused its work to:

- Include policy and investment recommendations, as well as recommendations for ways partners can help DHS achieve better outcomes for TANF participants.
- Include recommendations that streamline policy.
- Provide recommendations for further leveraging opportunities in state-level systems such as: education, health and workforce that do or should touch TANF.

In the fall 2014, DHS convened a series of work-stream groups to focus on further defining the proposal content.

In addition to the workgroups mentioned above DHS has accomplished the following:

- Improved outcome data available to field staff by finalizing a family case progression report that shows the percent of families with monthly progress towards family stability, work readiness, or employment. The report will soon include family case detail for staff to be able to do additional follow-up.

- Consulted with Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, other states and convened a workgroup to modify the up-front assessment form to better allow families and case managers to identify strengths and needs to assist in case planning . This form is currently being vetted with stakeholders before implementing.
- With regard to time limits:
 - Mailing notifications were implemented in May 2014 that inform individuals in the TANF program when they have reached 48 out of 60 months of TANF receipt. Case managers have been provided a tool to use at the 48 month accrual mark that helps them in conducting an assessment with the individual. The assessment includes resource referrals, long term financial planning and prioritization of JOBS services.
 - TANF approval notices were updated to inform individuals in the TANF program the number of months they have accrued while on TANF.
 - Multiple staff tools have been created to assist staff in better understanding the TANF time limit, identifying potential exemptions for families and coding.
 - A more robust statewide report is being created to assist field managers and staff in identifying families who are close to meeting the 60 month time limit by month.
- Best practices that increase engagement of participants and help meet federal participation requirements were collected and shared statewide. Statewide protocols for participation were developed and are being implemented.
- Case management positions were hired in alignment with the legislative approval received in 2013.
- Re-distributed JOBS funding to DHS districts to ensure more funds are allocated to support services so that more families are able to participate in case plan activities and receive child care and transportation support.

9. Child Care in Oregon: Difficult to Afford; New Regulations May Improve Safety but Further Raise Costs, audit #2014-25 (dated December 2014)

- Determine if an administrative rule or statutory change is required to allow ODE licensing staff to monitor unlicensed providers who serve children receiving subsidy and initiate the change process.

The ELD and DHS are pursuing both statutory and administrative rule changes to allow for onsite monitoring of license-exempt providers who care for children on the subsidy program. Federal law requires that enforcement for monitoring begin no later than December 2016. Statutory authority in the form of a legislative concept will be submitted by ELD to the Oregon State Legislature in the 2016 session.

- Monitor and inform the HB 3330 committee of changes in the demand for fingerprinting services among providers to determine whether enough Fieldprint sites are available to meet the demand.

Both ELD and DHS will continue working with the Department of Administrative Services and the fingerprinting contractor to minimize the impact of the new statewide requirement for electronic fingerprints and the related federal rules taking effect in the next two to three years. DHS has representation on the HB 3330 committee and will provide updates.

- Determine costs associated with the comprehensive background checks, inspections, and posting inspection reports online and develop strategies to minimize the burden on providers and families.

ELD and DHS will continue leading a Child Care Policy Reform Implementation Planning team to comprehensively evaluate and plan for the new rules. This will include determining costs as well as leveraging current efforts underway, such as the overhaul of the child care regulatory information system. This system will include license-exempt providers and the public will be able to access monitoring and compliance history and consumer education. Changes that create a fiscal impact are subject to collective bargaining through the two child care provider unions.

- Consider tracking parents who stop receiving assistance and providers who stop providing care and the movement of providers between different types of regulated care, including those who migrate between licensed and unlicensed care, including those who migrate between licensed and unlicensed care settings.

DHS will consider implementation of a survey system to ascertain whether families stop receiving assistance due to the new regulations.

10. Department of Human Services: OR-Kids Financial System Problems, audit #2014-28 (dated December 2014)

This audit focused on one part of the OR-Kids computer system, the financial module, and we wanted to provide some additional context prior to discussing specific issues identified in the audit report.

The OR-Kids project converted data from paper files and seven disconnected systems used by the DHS Child Welfare program into a single Statewide Access Child Welfare Information System (SACWIS). Or-Kids provides important case management and data collection tools to meet Federal reporting requirements, as well as information to inform decision making and support for caseworkers' interaction with children, youth, and families through the life of a Child Welfare case.

This audit report confirmed many of the very issues the agency had been monitoring. In fact, the Oregon legislature, Governor's office and our federal partners were kept fully apprised of status and issues throughout OR-Kids development and rollout.

All complex technology systems have challenges – with data conversion, accuracy, interruptions in service, and other issues (small and large). However, the OR-Kids system itself, especially the child safety and foster care management modules, has allowed caseworkers consistent access to the system since go-live in 2011, with very little downtime – which was not true of the legacy systems it replaced.

Even before the system was launched, the agency was working to identify and prepare for technical and training issues, including those identified in this audit report. As the project rolled out, DHS leadership and project staff continued to closely monitor and adjust to address problems for providers and staff. The agency reallocated resources to address technical and process issues and ensure that corrective action and improvements were put in place.

Today, the OR-Kids system continues to work and provide the important support for child safety and business processes we expected when we launched more than three years ago.

A few of the benefits OR-Kids has delivered are listed below:

- All Child Welfare information is contained in a single state system;
- Workers can better screen reports of child abuse and neglect because more information is linked and can be quickly searched across files;
- OR-Kids has created efficiencies, through automated processes, that allow casework to take less time than in the old systems. Our most recent Workload Survey shows that workers are now spending more time with children and families than doing paperwork and multiple data entry;
- System is generating accurate information for federal and state reporting purposes, as well as for our new public foster care information site;
- More than 43,000 cases are managed each month by 2,000 users; and
- A total of $561 million has been processed and paid to 30,462 providers through the financial module of the OR-Kids system (about 1.5 million payment records).

We accept the recommendations in the audit report, and we have taken (and continue to take) steps to address the issues identified in the recommendations (as discussed below).

- We recommend the Department of Human Services closely review OR-Kids transactions and financial reports to ensure accuracy and appropriateness, and return any amounts owed for federal overcharges.

The agency has made significant progress in addressing this recommendation and returning funds due to our federal partners. It should be noted that most of the funding errors occurred during a single data conversion event in which millions of payment records were converted to incorrect accounting codes.

Once the agency received its first comprehensive grant level remediation document (for transactions from August 2011 through December 2012), we put an estimate on the state accounting system to reimburse the federal government $23.3 million. The following two quarters' remediation estimate resulted in an additional $3.4 million adjustment. The final data conversion reconciliation is expected to be completed in December 2014, resulting in an approximate $500,000 final adjustment.

In June 2014, the agency also implemented a final permanent data fix on the remaining "untouched" converted cases thereby permanently fixing this data conversion issue.

- We recommend the Department of Human Services make changes to the financial module to prevent it from claiming federal funding outside the two year period.

The OR-Kids system was not designed to disallow federal claiming outside the federal two-year limit. Therefore, the agency has been manually reducing these costs to ensure we do not charge the federal government for claims outside the allowable period.

The agency has a documented system change to resolve this issue and this change is in the queue for action. For now, we will continue to manually remove old transactions so that the federal government does not pay costs outside the two-year limit.

- We recommend the Department of Human Services take steps to ensure a more robust supervisory review of transactions takes place.

The agency expects that the supervisory review of OR-Kids transactions will be a check and balance on potential human errors in working with the system, and we have taken several steps to increase the effectiveness of those reviews.

The Child Welfare program has done communications to case workers, as well as to supervisors and managers, about the importance of accuracy in the system. Those communications were followed up by approval and oversight trainings at the agency's Supervisor Quarterly meetings. As a further safeguard, technical staff placed a monetary cap on approved expenditures by service category to ensure that no large errors could be processed. The Office of Financial Services has also implemented a review of large transactions to ensure they are correct.

Since these controls were put in place, transaction errors have been better identified and corrected prior to payments being issued. In addition, the agency will review the cap limit within the next 30 days to determine if the amount should be adjusted to further improve accuracy.

- We recommend the Department of Human Services address the security recommendations included in the confidential management letter.

The agency agrees with the recommendations in the Confidential Management Letter, and we are taking actions as addressed in our confidential response.

Department of Human Services Gender Equity Report

The Department of Human Services (DHS) submits this report as required by ORS 417.270 (HB 3576 Equal Access to Appropriate Services for Girls and Boys) to report on our progress and plans in achieving equal access to appropriate services for males and females under age 18.

The Department of Human Services supports equal access to appropriate services for females and males under 18 years of age.

Budgetary information supporting this program is provided below:

Gender Equity Report
15-17 Child Welfare Budget
	2013 CW Databook			15-17 GB Budget
	Male	Female		Total Fund	Male	Female
Foster Care	50.5%	49.5%		132,797,966	67,062,973	65,734,993
Adoptions Finalized	51.2%	48.8%		151,313,188	77,472,352	73,840,836
Child Abuse/Neglect Safety	48.5%	51.5%		39,220,376	19,021,882	20,198,494
Child Welfare Average	50.1%	49.9%		323,331,530	163,557,207	159,774,323

Over the last biennium, Programs worked to implement the policy by taking the following steps:

- When applicable, including language in contracts and Requests for Proposals (RFP) around gender specific services for children and youth expectations. An example of that in a Family Based Services Contract is: “services shall be based on known effective interventions for changing child abuse and neglect behaviors. All services shall be culturally appropriate and services to a child and youth shall be gender-specific services that effectively meet their needs.”
- Office of Contracts and Procurement (OC&P) Gender equity within DHS Contracts (2013), including, when applicable, DHS requests for proposals:
 - Requests include services to children and youth, with specific guidance surrounding gender specific expectations. Program staff requests continue to include language regarding gender specific service expectations.
 - Proposers are asked to describe their strategies to implement culturally appropriate and gender specific services.
 - RFP template includes language, “Services provided under any Contract awarded as a result of this RFP shall consider equal access for both males and females under 18 years of age. ‘Equal access’ means access to appropriate facilities, services and treatment, to comply with ORS 417.270.”
 - DHS contracts include the condition that: Contractors must provide services to DHS clients without regard to race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation or disability (as defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act). Contracted services must reasonably accommodate the cultural, language and other special needs of clients.
- Working with DOJ to clarify the scope of application and legal implications in the standard language under “Special Provisions” in our contract templates. The standard language in DHS personal services contracts has been updated to read: “Contractor shall provide equal access to covered services for both males and females under 18 years of age, including access to appropriate facilities, services, and treatment, to achieve the policy in ORS 417.270.” (OC&P)

- Providing training to new contracts' staff and updating the rest of the staff on contracts and solicitations into which Gender Specific Services provisions were incorporated. (OC&P)
- Child Welfare (CW) is requiring a description of diversity competency in how the organization program services will be sensitive, responsive and appropriate with gender specific services.
- Including language in RFP/Contract standards for new In-home Safety and Reunification Services.
Examples of complete excerpts are:
 - “Specific cultural adaptation should be described in proposals for services. Proposers will be expected to describe a model for working with minority cultural groups disproportionately represented in the child welfare populations described in 5.4 District Requirements.”
 - “Cultural Competence: is the process by which individuals and systems respond respectfully and effectively to people of all cultures, languages, classes, races, ethnic backgrounds, disabilities, religions, genders, sexual orientation and other characteristics in a manner that recognizes, affirms, and values the worth of individuals, families, and communities, and protects and preserves the dignity of each. Operationally defined, it is the integration and transformation of knowledge about individuals and groups of people into specific standards, policies, practices and attitudes used in appropriate cultural settings to increase the quality of services, thereby producing better outcomes. (Child Welfare Procedural Manual)”
 - “Gender Specific Services: Refers to treatments, interventions, educational programs and approaches that comprehensively address the unique needs, strengths and risk factors of each gender and fosters positive gender identity development.” (CW) Redesigning services and program standards with a Family Based Services Workgroup with the participation of child welfare staff, current contractors, Citizen Review Board representatives and other District participants. (CW)
- Continuing to review and provide feedback to contracted Behavioral Rehabilitation Services (BRS) shelter or residential treatment programs regarding their ability to provide services that are gender specific. (CW)
- Continuing to raise awareness with staff and providers through meetings to discuss and understand what gender specific services mean. (CW)

- Tracking current male/female ratios in all licensed child facilities and encouraging providers to participate in the Licensed Child Placing Agencies program review for assessment and monitoring. (CW)
- Program participation in the National Youth in Transition Database tracking program. (CW)
- Child Welfare continues to be engaged with the Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls by;
 - Having a DHS staff member attend the monthly Coalition meeting for education and information;
 - Refer staff, community programs and inquiries to explore the website for Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls <http://equalaccessforgirls.org>

Child Permanency Program

In compliance with ORS 417.270, the Child Permanency Program in the Office of Child Welfare Programs includes in all service contracts the requirement that the Contractor shall provide equal access to covered services for both males and females under 18 years of age, including access to appropriate facilities, services and treatment. In addition, all contracts include a nondiscrimination clause that states the Contractor must provide services to DHS clients without regard to race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation, or disability. The Child Permanency Program has on occasion denied a contract based on the inability of the Contractor to agree to these terms.

In addition, program staff is committed to providing gender equal services and has especially concentrated of late on how to support LGBTQ youth in foster care or who are entering into adoption or guardianship by identifying and addressing their specific needs with a prospective family. Furthermore, the Child Permanency Program embraces placement of children with prospective adoptive parents regardless of sexual orientation.

A consultant within the Office of Child Welfare Programs presented training on LGBTQ children in care for certification and adoption workers around the state, and an additional consultant has received training by the Human Rights Campaign on systems working with LGBTQ children and adults as our clients.

Post Adoption Services

In compliance with ORS 417.270, the Post Adoption Services Program provides equal access to services and supports for both male and female children and youth. Monthly subsidies and medical coverage are provided on behalf of the children to their adoptive parents and guardians. The purpose is to promote the achievement of permanency for special needs children and the ongoing stability of the children in their adoptive and guardian homes.

The monthly subsidies are individualized and based on the unique needs and expenses of the child and family. Needs and expenses related to gender specific services and supports would be considered when determining the amount of monthly subsidy provided a family.

Additional support services are provided through a private contractor. The services include consultation, referral, and training provided by adoption and guardianship professionals. The current vendor is the Oregon Post Adoption Resource Center (ORPARC). ORPARC employs specialized staff who are knowledgeable of the myriad of mental health, educational, therapeutic, and other support services throughout Oregon that could support the individualized needs of children adopted or in guardianships. ORPARC employees consult in depth with families and professionals to provide advocacy and guidance, and to make referrals to services in order to promote family functioning and prevent dissolution of the adoption and guardianships.

By contract, ORPARC is required to provide equal access to serve both males and females under age 18, including access to appropriate facilities, services, and treatment. ORPARC is also required to abide by a non-discrimination clause regarding race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation, or disability, and must provide reasonable accommodations to meet the cultural, language, and other special needs of clients.

ORPARC also operates a lending library which offers a wealth of literature and resource packets, free of charge, to adoptive parents, guardians, and other professionals serving special needs adopted and guardian children. The materials cover a breadth of topics, and include books specific to gender specific development and identity formation of children and youth. The goal being to ensure children of all genders have informed adults parenting and providing them support to meet their unique needs.

In addition, ORPARC professionals both deliver training, and collaborate with other agencies to offer training opportunities to families and professionals to aid in the ongoing support and development of children and youth, including some trainings in Spanish. The trainings they have offered regarding child development, attachment, collaborative problem solving, openness, life story work, social media, sensory issues, bullying and transracial adoption are relevant to parents and professionals supporting children and youth of all genders.

DHS LGBTQ Statewide Collaborative Team

Over the past year, the following trainings were conducted by the DHS LGBTQ Statewide Collaborative team. The objectives from this training were:

- Gain a basic understanding of sexual orientation, gender identity and gender expression
- Gain an appreciation of the risk factors faced by sexual and gender minority youth
- Learn how to better support sexual and gender minority youth

Additional topics were covered and discussed based on the needs and requests from the specific audience.

Classroom Training: Positively Impacting Child and Youth Well-Being: Sexual Orientation, Gender Identity and Expression

This training has been provided by a DHS Foster Care Consultant. The various audiences were: Foster Care Certifiers, Certification Quarterlies - Metro region of Multnomah County, Oregon City for Western Region, Roseburg for Southern Region, Hood River for Eastern Region. This is 1.5 hour training.

Netlink Training: Working with Sexual and Gender Minority Youth in the Child Welfare System

In October 2013, this NetLink training was offered through our Child Welfare Partnership with Portland State University. Course Description: Invisibility of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning youth and homophobic environments are detrimental to the well-being of all community members. This class will help participants re-examine the harmful assumptions that we all grow up with so we can begin moving beyond hurtful stereotypes. Integrating statistics, best practices and powerful anecdotes, this gentle introductory training will provide you with the information and tools to engage in a culturally competent manner with sexual and gender minority youth as well as the adults who care for them. In addition to being better suited to support LGBTQ youth, the skills earned in this training can be easily adapted to creating safer work environments for all staff.

This netlink was also taught on 8/4/2014 and is scheduled to be taught again in 2015 on 8/6/2015.

Child Well-Being Program

The services provided to children who are in Child Welfare programs remains fairly consistent over time in terms of gender equity. The United States census 2013 for Oregon children under the age of 18 represents 50.5% females. The population of children in out-of-home care during the federal fiscal year 2013:

FFY 2013 Gender of Children Served in Foster Care
Gender	Number	Percent
Boys	6,123	50.5%
Girls	5,990	49.5%
Total	12,113	100%

Of the children who entered foster care between April 1, 2013 through September 30, 2013, females represented 51% of the entries and also represent 51% of the children who exited foster care services during this same period of time.

DHS - Office of Child Welfare Program contracts with several Oregon Licensed Child Placing Agencies for Residential Treatment Services for children. The purposes of these programs are to serve children who have emotional and behavioral needs that cannot be met in their own homes or within the community in a relative or non-relative family foster home, but require a higher level of treatment oriented care and services. During the period of April 1, 2013 through September 30, 2013, there were 1,228 individual placements at this level of care and 45% of these placements occurred with females.

An area of concern is the recent closure of two different private child placing agencies that provided programs for girls to care for this higher level of need. One program closed in August 2013 and a second program has closed in August 2014. This accounts for approximately 25 contracted treatment placements for girls. There are other programs considering opening programs, but as of this writing they are not currently open.

The Child Welfare program also provides an array of services and supports to older youth in foster care to assist them in their successful transition to adulthood. Of the youth who exit after reaching 18 years of age, the ratio between male and females begins to change with 57% of the youth exiting over after age 18 are female. Interestingly these transition levels of services have a much higher participation rate of females than males.

Independent Living Program <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Male: 642 (43%) • Female: 854 (57%) 	Independent Living Subsidy Program Male: 47 (35%) Female: 88 (65%)	Chafee Housing (former foster youth) Male: 13 (25%) Female: 39 (75%)
Driver's Education Courses Male: 17 (29%) Females: 41 (71%)	Other Financial Support/Assistance Male: 195 (42%) Female: 270 (58%)

Strategies in place to continue a focus on gender equity:

- DHS - Office of Child Welfare Program has and will continue to encourage the Residential Services Programs in Oregon to utilize the Gender-Responsive Standards and Assessment Tool for Girls Programs and Services. The G-SAT is a great resource for enhancing a program's gender-responsive approach and by integrating these empirically-based standards; they should improve the outcomes for girls.
- During the fall 2014, the department, in collaboration with the Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls, will be providing educational materials and the G-SAT to agencies in which the department contracts with for services. This will, in part, coincide with the International Day of the Girl on October 11, 2014.
- The department anticipates having some staff attend the upcoming training conference in Oregon during October, which is sponsored by the Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls <http://equalaccessforgirls.org>
- The department will continue to recruit private agencies to develop programs for higher levels of care for girls in Oregon. (A full copy of the department's policy and procedures for gender-specific services for youth is available at:) http://www.dhs.state.or.us/policy/admin/exec/010_004.htm

2015-2017 Intellectual & Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) Community Housing Fund Report

The I/DD Community Housing Program assists persons with developmental disabilities to live successfully in community housing that is affordable and safe and contributes to their independence and quality of life. I/DD Community Housing supports services to persons with developmental disabilities in the following ways:

- Oversees the property management of homes developed for the former Fairview State Training Center residents.
- Develops and manages and funds eligible home modification projects for In-Home and Crisis Services for children and adults with developmental disabilities.
- Coordinates the operation of the Fairview Community Housing Trust that was established with revenue from the sale of Fairview. The Trust funds small grants for home modifications to Oregonians with developmental disabilities living in their own or family home.
- Provides technical assistance to individuals, families, brokerages, and counties regarding housing issues faced by persons with developmental disabilities and best practices to implement solutions.

Funding for the program is maintained in three separate Treasury Fund accounts. Two of those accounts contain the proceeds from the sale of the Fairview State Training Center and the third is for the operating fund for maintenance, development, technical assistance, etc.

Fairview Community Housing Trust Accounts

The two accounts containing proceeds from the sale of the Fairview State Training Center are designated in statute as follows:

 Per ORS 427.340 "The Department of Human Services may expend, for the purposes of ORS 427.330 to 427.345, any earnings credited to the account, including any income from the lease of surplus property and any interest earned on monies deposited in the account, and up to five percent of any sale or transfer proceeds* initially credited to the account by the Oregon Department of Administrative Services. At least 95 percent of all sale or transfer proceeds shall remain in the account in perpetuity."

Historically the funding from the five percent of sale proceeds account as well as the accrued interest on both accounts has been used to provide grant funding to children and adults with developmental disabilities to allow for them to continue living in their own home or family home. There is a Fairview Trust Advisory Committee which oversees the grant awards and other policies governing the operation of the Trust. The committee membership includes former Fairview clients, family member of former Fairview clients, client advocates and others. Clients submit grant applications which are reviewed for eligibility and funding.

As part of the budget development process for 2011-2013 a reduction action was put forward to expend the balances out of the two Fairview Community Housing Trust Accounts. The action that was taken was to leave $6,000,000 in the corpus or 95% sale proceeds account and to use $5,970,375 from that account combined with the projected remaining balance in the 5% Fairview Grant account of $979,759 for a total of $6,950,134. This action was taken in year two of the biennium and the grant fund program suspended.

A Policy Option Package for 2013-15 would have restored the corpus account to pre 2011-2013 balance, adding back $6,950,134 GF; however, the Policy Option package was not selected as part of the Legislatively Adopted Budget. For 2015-17, a Policy Option Package was not proposed to restore the Fairview Trust account. As of December 31, 2014, the corpus account's balance combined with the 5% account's balance totals $5,941,928.

A Reduction action for the 2015-17 Governor's Budget was taken which dissolves the Corpus and 5% account balances.

I/DD Community Housing Operating Account

When Fairview was downsized and eventually closed, the I/DD Community Housing Section in partnership with private non-profit housing developers constructed or remodeled 200 homes to provide housing for those residents and persons misplaced in nursing homes. It was called the Community Integration Project (CIP). The homes were funded by general obligation bonds sold by Oregon Housing and Community Service Department (OHCDSD) and incorporate many specialized features. Per an agreement with OHCDSD a reserve amount of $500,000 is required for this account to assure maintenance of an asset purchased with GO bonds.

The I/DD Community Housing Section allocates funds and provides oversight and technical assistance in order to develop, adapt and maintain safe and appropriate housing for children and adults with developmental disabilities that receive services funded and/or licensed by the Department of Human Services. The persons receiving services in Oregon live in a variety of settings. These include, among others, services to children living in family homes, adults and children in 24-hour licensed out of home services, foster care, and adults in apartments or private homes. Often, providing these services requires that housing be constructed, modified or adapted in order to meet the needs of persons and to assure that homes are safe and adapted to the unique needs of the persons who live there. In carrying out its responsibilities, the I/DD Community Housing Section:

- Manages the maintenance and repair program for 200 bond funded homes that provide housing for persons with developmental disabilities receiving 24 hour support;
- Provides technical assistance to families and support agencies regarding specialized home adaptations;
- Develops homes to meet critical client needs;
- Manages and allocates funding for housing adaptations for adults and children with developmental disabilities receiving funded services;
- Provides fiscal oversight of expenditures from the Housing Fund, and within the Fund, the Fairview Housing Trust Account.

Human Services	DHS/OHA	OAAPI-APD	This is a POP to develop a streamlined and integrated statewide adult abuse and report writing system. Phase I planning was approved by the Eboard in March 2014. This POP assumes the planning is completed and the Phase II development is ready to proceed based on the Phase I business case and solicitation documents. It is also planned to keep close connection between programs, OIS, DAS, and LFO on the gate review processes and progress of this project. The need for a stable, integrated Abuse Data and Report Writing system is critical as Oregon faces an aging population, an annual increase of 5-8% in abuse referrals, and an increased need for services across all demographics. In initial conversations, DHS, working with the Office of Information Services, believes that a transfer system solution serves as the likely best alternative to minimize risk and increase likelihood of successful completion. For transfer systems to be successful, it is important to pick a state that most closely models Oregon's non-MAGI programs in order to minimize the amount of customization that must be made to support DHS's business needs. Because Oregon has been on the leading edge of policy waivers in this area, it is unlikely that any transfer system will be a perfect match. However, it is the desire of DHS to choose a system that has a majority match for functionality, and then to increment the delivery of additional functionality in small phased implementations.

APPENDIX A – HARDWARE REQUIREMENTS

1 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAAPI) was created in 2012 to centralize the oversight of investigations of reported abuse of vulnerable adults in Oregon, including adults over the age of 65; individuals with developmental disabilities, physical disabilities and mental illness; and children in certain licensed settings. In 2013, over 35,000 referrals of abuse of adults and children in licensed settings were received by the state and its representatives, and 16,505 of those resulted in an investigation conducted or overseen by OAAPI.

Prior to the creation of OAAPI, abuse referrals and investigations were overseen by different program areas, each with their own legacy data and report-writing system. OAAPI continues to rely on these outdated and disconnected data systems to store and retrieve abuse-related data and produce reports, even though these systems are unable to provide the critical information currently being asked for by internal and external partners. Without an integrated, real-time Abuse Data and Report-writing System:

- OAAPI is unable to monitor abuse referrals in real-time, or oversee the screening decisions made in the local offices,
- Data and reports to critical internal and external partners are incomplete, unreliable and inconsistent,
- Perpetrators and victims cannot be linked across systems, potentially jeopardizing the safety of vulnerable Oregonians, and
- OAAPI is subject to multiple inefficiencies and “blind spots” that make it nearly impossible to monitor and understand the level and types of abuse occurring in the Oregon, much less respond proactively to prevent future abuse.

The limitations of the current assortment of data and report-writing systems introduce an unacceptable level of risk, which will only increase as Oregon’s population grows and ages in coming years.

OAAPI, through this preliminary business case, recommends the implementation of an integrated, statewide Abuse Data and Report-writing System to address these concerns. Preliminary estimated cost to implement such a system is $2.2 million with estimated ongoing annual costs totaling approximately 10% of the expected implementation costs.

If approved, OAAPI will secure a vendor to provide consulting services to:

- help produce a final business case;
- refine, enhance and validate documented functional and technical requirements;
- identify alternatives and estimated costs, benefits and risks to meet business needs;
- write an assessment and recommendation report for submission as requested to the Legislature by January 2015;
- if approved to move forward by the Legislature, develop an RFP to procure the recommended solution and a system integrator to proceed with implementation.

2 INTRODUCTION & BACKGROUND

2.1 Organizational Background

Created in 2012, the Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAAPI) either conducts or oversees the investigations of reported abuse of vulnerable adults in Oregon, including adults over the age of 65; individuals with developmental disabilities, physical disabilities and mental illness; and children in certain licensed settings. In 2013, over 35,000 referrals of abuse of adults and children in licensed settings were received by the state and its representatives, and nearly 16,505 of these resulted in an investigation conducted or overseen by OAAPI.

Prior to the creation of OAAPI, abuse referrals and investigations for adults and children in licensed settings were overseen by different program areas or the Office of Investigations & Training (OIT). Each had their own legacy abuse data and report-writing system, which had developed over time and with varying levels of investment.

At this time, OAAPI continues to rely on these disconnected data systems to store abuse-related data and produce reports, even though these legacy systems are often unable to provide the critical information currently being asked for by internal and external partners, including accurate metrics for Quarterly Business Reviews, requests for statewide abuse data from media, and sufficiently granulated data reports for the Legislature.

The absence of an integrated, real-time abuse data and report-writing system also makes it impossible for OAAPI to monitor and prevent abuse effectively by seeing and understanding patterns and histories of abuse, as victims – and perpetrators – move from program to program and region to region. This leads to the very real possibility of substantiated perpetrators in one program, for example, working in another. It also makes OAAPI unable to gain a holistic view of abuse victims, who are often consumers of services from different programs and whose experiences of abuse may never be tied together.

As Oregon’s population ages – and lives longer – OAAPI is seeing an increased interweaving of clients in community and facility settings, with clients of one program often placed in facilities licensed by other programs, or clients transitioning from one system to another as their age, health conditions or behavioral needs change. Because of the lack of integration of abuse data across programs, all too often valuable information in one system is left behind, requiring the new program to re-establish baselines and interventions to help keep clients safe without access to a client’s history of abuse.

Finally, the current patchwork of data and report-writing systems lead to multiple inefficiencies and “blind spots,” which confounds quality assurance efforts and leads to timely and expensive re-work. Abuse referrals have “fallen through the cracks” as a result of the current fragmented group of data systems, introducing an unacceptable level of risk.

2.2 Organizational Structure

2.2A Multiple Populations Served

OAAPI is responsible for conducting or overseeing investigations of abuse involving the following groups of Oregonians:

- Adults enrolled in Mental Health (MH) services with a Community Mental Health Program (CMHP) or Coordinated Care Organization (CCO). In 2013, there were a total of 55,127 adults enrolled in MH Services;
- Adults enrolled in Developmental Disability (DD) services with a Community Developmental Disability Program (CDDP). In 2013, there were a total of 16,382 adults enrolled in DD Services;
- Older adults and people with physical disabilities receiving services in licensed APD settings such as nursing homes, residential care facilities, assisted living facilities and adult foster homes. In 2013 nearly 17,000 adults were served in those settings;
- Older adults and people with physical disabilities who may be vulnerable to abuse and neglect in independent community settings. 500,000 Oregonians are over the age of 65, a number expected to exceed 780,000 by 2020;
- Children with developmental disabilities receiving residential services, and children receiving therapeutic treatment services. In 2013, over 3,500 children were served by these program areas.

2.2B Multiple Users and Locations

Abuse referrals are received, screened and investigated by a variety of state and local offices across Oregon, under the general oversight of OAAPI. Providers of abuse screening, investigation and reports include the following:

Community Developmental Disability Programs (CDDPs) are required by Oregon Administrative Rule (OAR) to have at least one dedicated staff person in each of the 36 counties for the investigation of abuse allegations involving individuals enrolled in their services. Some metropolitan offices, such as Multnomah County, have multiple staff members dedicated to this task. These programs are primarily operated by county governments under contract with DHS.

Community Mental Health Programs (CMHPs) are also required to have dedicated staff members in each of the 36 counties to investigate allegations of abuse against individuals enrolled in their programs. These programs are also primarily operated by the county governments under contract with OHA.

Adult Protective Services programs investigating abuse against individuals over the age of 65 or adults with physical disabilities exist in each of 16 APD Districts throughout Oregon. Some Districts have multiple offices. Currently there are approximately 150 protective service and investigative specialists spread throughout these offices. Eleven of the sixteen Districts are operated directly by DHS, while the remaining five Districts are run by Area Agencies on Aging, Local Councils of Government, or by counties themselves under contract with DHS.

OAAPI also has investigators on staff, housed at the OAAPI office in Salem and two satellite locations, to complete a variety of investigations at locations including (but not limited to) the Oregon State Hospital and licensed DD facilities, as well as those involving abuse against children in licensed settings. There are currently 17 such investigators.

Unfortunately, there is currently no single abuse data and report-writing system in place that can be used by OAAPI to monitor the activities of all of these investigators (approximately 240) and ensure an acceptable level of assistance and oversight to those investigators.

3 PROBLEM STATEMENT

In only one year, Oregon has seen an increase of 11% in investigations of abuse and neglect of vulnerable adults – from 14,638 in 2012 to 16,292 in 2013. This growth in the number of abuse referrals and investigations, typical of previous years, is one of the reasons OAAPI was formed, to ensure a coordinated and consistent response to an increasing number of abuse referrals across all vulnerable populations. Abuse is not something that can be undone, and carries with it lifelong impacts to a person's life in regard to health, emotional well-being, and their ability to benefit from available services.

The need for a stable, integrated Abuse Data and Report-writing System becomes ever more critical as Oregon faces an aging population, a significant annual increase in abuse referrals, and an increased need for services across all demographics. In addition, the Department’s recent emphasis on process and outcome measures to ensure customer service and service equity has highlighted the difficulty of gathering accurate data related to Protection and Intervention from existing data systems.

Given the nature of the services provided to vulnerable Oregonians by OAAPI and its partners, we cannot afford to place our trust in a disconnected assortment of legacy data systems that do not give us the information we need to protect victims of abuse effectively and develop prevention efforts proactively.

The following sections provide a higher level of detail and highlight the extensive level of risk the lack of an integrated Abuse Data and Report-writing System creates for OAAPI and the Department.

3.1 Current State – Data Systems in Use

There are nine (9) distinct data systems used today to collect data and generate investigation reports and data reports related to protective services and abuse investigations. These systems, often the result of great creativity and initiative by field and central office staff to improve data collection, run on different hardware and software, collect different data points, and are generally not able to share data. The nine systems currently in use are:

- 1. Oregon ACCESS: (Report-writing, Database)

State, County and AAA workers investigating allegations of abuse of older adults or adults with physical disabilities living in the community use Oregon ACCESS to record information about abuse victims and perpetrators, and to write a report summarizing their investigations. Developed in 2000, the Adult Protect Services module of Oregon ACCESS was always an add-on to the larger case management system and did not fully meet the needs of abuse investigators. It has also not been updated to reflect critical data needs identified since then, such as current abuse definitions. Used for report-writing, it does not include an intake or screening component.

2. Online 723 Complaint Reporting System: (Report-writing, Database)

Local state, county and AAA staff investigating allegations of abuse of residents of APD-licensed care facilities use this system to record information about abuse victims and perpetrators, and to write a report summarizing their investigations. Developed in 2005 to replace a WordPerfect report-writing template, this system was meant to be temporary until something more robust and better able to meet the program and user needs was developed, but has remained in use ever since. It does not include an intake or screening component.

After an APD investigator inputs their information into the online 723 Complaint Reporting System in the field, the data is exported to another data system housed within the DHS Office of Licensing and Regulatory Oversight (OLRO) for the purposes of Corrective Action.

As a result of this transfer, the data is not housed at, or “owned” by, OAAPI, and can be difficult for OAAPI staff to access. In addition, the codes used by the system to categorize substantiated abuse do not correlate with the statutory abuse definitions; as a result, extensive manual searches of the data are necessary to answer simple questions such as “How much sexual abuse is occurring in APD’s licensed facilities.” Limitations such as these have caused OAAPI to focus its quality assurance and other data-related projects on Community-based investigations, leaving the patterns of statutory abuse in APD’s licensed facilities largely un-researched.

3. OAAPI Database: (Database)

County DD, County MH, and OAAPI investigators use a Microsoft Word template to write their investigation reports. Although there is a format recommended by OAAPI, reports vary somewhat from county to county. CDDP and CMHP investigators send their reports to OAAPI via e-mail, where they are reviewed, approved and “data mined” manually by OAAPI staff to populate OAAPI’s Abuse Database. OAAPI investigations are also data-mined manually and entered into this database. The OAAPI database is a Microsoft Access database developed internally in 2001.

Since the local offices only send in written reports for those cases screened in for investigation, there is no centralized repository for information about referrals that were screened out or referred elsewhere.

4. Combined On Call and Intake (COIN): (Screening Tool)

OAAPI staff use the COIN system to document screening and intake decisions for abuse referrals at state institutions and any licensed or community settings where an OAAPI investigation occurs. COIN was developed in 2010 to document screening determinations and better manage OAAPI's internal screening process.

Although COIN, a simple Microsoft Access database, meets the needs for documentation of intake and screening for OAAPI cases, it is only used for a very small segment of the populations served by OAAPI, cannot be used for report writing, and is not capable of being scaled up for statewide use.

5. Client Tracking System (CTS): (Screening Tool, Report-writing, Data Base)

By special arrangement with APD, Lane Council of Governments (LCOG) protective services and investigation specialists use this local system to document their abuse referral screenings and investigations. The system does not interface directly with Oregon ACCESS and has limited interface with the Online 723 Complaint Reporting System. Data is exported approximately daily to state-owned systems, but very few of the data fields match up and most usable data is therefore not available to OAAPI staff. Information has also been lost using this process.

Community APD reports written in this system are completely unavailable to OAAPI staff for viewing and must be obtained from Lane County staff via e-mail, fax or mail. Facility-based investigations are visible, but very difficult to read since all formatting is lost during the transmission process. Designed by LCOG staff for their specific business practices, LCOG's Client Tracking System is not a suitable candidate for scaling up to statewide use.

6. Serious Event Reporting Team (SERT): (Referral Tracking Tool)

County DD staff use this system to notify OAAPI when an allegation is assigned for investigation. At this time, SERT is primarily a notification tool. Data from this system, which was developed in 2003, is manually re-entered into the DD/MH Abuse Database by OAAPI staff. Counties are inconsistent in entering “screened out” allegations in SERT.

7. Serious Event Reporting Form (SERF): (Referral Tracking Tool)

County MH programs use this system to notify OAAPI of recent reports of abuse. This is a paper system – i.e., the CMHP faxes a form to OAAPI with the initial referral and the information is entered manually into the DD/MH Abuse Database for tracking. When the final written investigation report is mailed to OAAPI, the data record in SERF is updated and closed.

8. ASPEN (Data Base)

ASPEN is a suite of applications used by OLRO for their surveys and investigations in Nursing Facilities (NF), Residential Care Facilities, (RCF) and Assisted Living Facilities (ALF). Complaint Investigations conducted by Client Care Monitoring Unit (CCMU) staff are uploaded to ASPEN, along with survey and licensing data. Currently, ASPEN data only available to OAAPI staff on a very limited basis, and is a licensing/regulatory based system rather than an abuse-based system, limiting its usefulness for reporting out on abuse in facilities.

9. OR KIDS (Screening Tool, Data Base)

OR KIDS is used by Child Welfare for screening and assessment of child abuse referrals. When OAAPI investigators conduct child abuse investigations in licensed settings, per agreement with Child Welfare, OAAPI enters the outcome of the investigation into OR KIDS. Relevant data is also gathered from the written report (Word template) and entered manually into OAAPI's DD/MH Abuse Database for use by OAAPI.

OR KIDS is not currently considered a good candidate for the type of modifications that would be needed to accommodate the full range of adult abuse investigation data and reports, in both community and licensed settings.

Due to the lack of utility of these systems, each local office generally develops and maintains additional local databases for internal data tracking. These local databases, developed in a variety of software programs, are unable to share data easily with OAAPI. This includes information of abuse referrals that were screened out by the local office. Without access to a centralized screening database, OAAPI relies on manual data transfer from the local offices to monitor screening practices.

This assortment of limited and disconnected data systems in the current state:

- Prevents OAAPI from following and understanding the abuse of individual clients (and populations) across the lifespan,
- Limits the ability to record and correlate critical information concerning alleged and substantiated perpetrators, for reference across regions and programs,
- Limits the availability and accuracy of metrics, and the efficiency of information-sharing with internal and external partners,
- Limits the ability to analyze and report outcomes and develop preventive strategies,
- Impacts the ability of program to comply with statutory requirements and legislative expectations, and
- Requires extensive ongoing support and maintenance by staff from many different program areas.

These realities have left OAAPI and the Department unable to see the full picture of abuse, in real time, thereby placing more vulnerable adults at risk.

As OAAPI moves forward, it needs a more integrated system for abuse data collection, from the time of screening through report-writing, case closure and referral, in order to better protect the public and to more accurately and efficiently provide meaningful abuse data and outcomes to the Legislature, DHS leadership and the public. To produce this information, the integrated system must be focused on abuse across programs, not simply added on to the various existing, disconnected program databases.

3.2 Current State – Limitations Caused by Existing Data Systems

While the above section illustrates the fragmented nature of the current system, this section summarizes the impact this has on the ability of OAAPI – and the local offices – to perform the functions and duties for which they are responsible.

3.2A INTAKE & SCREENING

Calls, e-mails, letters, faxes and walk-in visits regarding the possible abuse of a vulnerable Oregonian are received daily at field offices around the state. In 2013, over 35,000 such referrals of possible abuse were received. Upon receipt, it is the responsibility of the local office to determine if the referral falls within the jurisdiction of their office, and, if it does, if the reported activity rises to the statutory definition of abuse for the population in which the victim identifies with. (Abuse definitions vary somewhat by population type.)

In 2013, 16,505 referrals were found to meet the definition of abuse and were assigned for investigation. If a concern does not meet the definition of abuse, it is the responsibility of the individual receiving the concern to determine what resources or cross-referrals can be offered to address the concern.

There is currently no standardized or centralized means of documenting the intake process and screening decisions made at local offices. Similarly, protective services offered and/or referrals made are not captured centrally in screened-out cases.

Without an integrated abuse data system for intake and screening data:

- There is no real-time data regarding the number of cases being screened out. Local APD offices are asked to keep this data manually and submit it to OAAPI quarterly, where it is manually compiled and analyzed. Because all offices collect and submit the data somewhat differently, assumptions often need to be made that may compromise the integrity of the data. Without an integrated data system, OAAPI is not able to monitor this data in real-time, or even receive it consistently from CDDP or CMHP offices.
- There is limited ability for OAAPI to perform screening quality assurance or spot checks, to assure the quality of screening decisions that are being made in the field. To do so again requires a request for data from the local office (via Action Request Transmittal); person-hours at the local level to pull, copy and mail the requested screening documents; paper copies of confidential screening materials being sent through the mail and then housed at the OAAPI office; and the assumption that the local offices are fully complying with the request for information.
- There is inconsistency in the screening form used throughout the state. Many do not contain all the data and information that a centralized process would capture, e.g. the assigned triage time for response. Many do not contain enough information about the reported situation, or the rationale for the screening decision, to assess the appropriateness of the decision and follow-up.
- It is difficult if not impossible to consistently connect episodes of abuse and neglect, and identify vulnerable individuals who may be “falling through the cracks.” Likewise, perpetrators can work across regions without detection.
- It is challenging to perform accurate forecasting regarding workload and budgetary needs, since only the referrals assigned for investigation are tracked centrally for workload purposes.
- Local managers lack access to the data needed to monitor and manage their programs.

The ability to monitor referrals and screening decisions in real-time is, therefore, critical to ensuring an adequate protective response to allegations of abuse. In her presentation to the DHS Adult Safety & Protection Team (ASPT) in 2011, national expert Nancy Ray recommended that DHS Central Office (now represented by OAAPI) play a much stronger role in the abuse screening decisions made daily in the local offices, actually recommending that the screening function be transferred completely to a centralized Call Center operated by DHS.

While moving to statewide centralized screening has not been a viable option to date, Dr. Ray also recommended that Central Office “...regularly use its data base to develop mechanisms so it has a better understanding of filed allegations,” due to the critical nature of those screening decisions.” The development of a centralized abuse database would clearly be one tangible step that the Department could take toward the recommended goal of greater monitoring of reported allegations of abuse to ensure that appropriate screening decisions are made, and to provide the data and support to our partners to help them better manage and perform their work at the local level.

3.2B PROTECTIVE SERVICES

When an abuse referral is received, the safety and protection of the reported victim is paramount. Protective services are pursued and put in place immediately (and on an ongoing basis, as needed) by local staff, and documented in the investigative report.

There is currently no standardized format for documenting the protective services provided to victims in investigation reports across populations, or a centralized, electronic means for OAAPI to access all of the written reports and verify the provision of critical protective services.

3.2C INITIATION OF INVESTIGATION

When a report is assigned for investigation, there are differing timelines among programs for the initial response to the alleged victim and/or perpetrator. The response times range from 2 hours to 5 days depending on statute or rule that applies to the individual program. This metric is reported out at DHS Quarterly Business Reviews (QBR) because of its value as an indicator of a robust protective response to the victim and a prompt investigation of the alleged abuse.

There is currently no standard, centralized, electronic means of documenting or collecting response time data.

3.2D REPORT-WRITING

Reports must be completed in a range of 45-120 days depending on the statute that applies to each program. Reports must be completed in a thorough manner that allows them to be used for the purposes of documenting actions taken and holding perpetrators responsible. The investigations themselves must be fair and impartial and reach an accurate and supportable conclusion, as documented in a readable report.

Depending on context, investigative reports are read by state agencies (OLRO, BCU, etc.), law enforcement, the Long Term Care Ombudsman office, service providers, media, the public and others.

The current report-writing system is fragmented, varies by program and does not result in reports that are consistent in appearance, format, or information contained.

The absence of a standardized Abuse Data and Report-writing System leads to the following problems and inefficiencies:

- APD staff (or contractors) investigating allegations of abuse against older adults, people with physical disabilities and residents of APD-licensed facilities must currently write their reports in two different systems and two different formats. In addition, there are some reports, although limited, that are written in neither system. All these formats, in turn, differ from the formats used by OAAPI staff, CDDP investigators and CMHP investigators.

- OAAPI trainers must develop different training curricula for each different report-writing system, and new field staff must be trained on more than one system.
- Outside parties reviewing abuse investigation reports become confused by the differences between the report styles, and question the integrity of the process.
- APD investigators frequently report technical difficulties with the On-Line 723 (Facility) Complaint Reporting system, including losing information that has been entered and having to re-enter it; being unable to access a draft report after it has been started and having to restart it; being unable to locate a provider or facility in the database; or the system being “down,” adversely affecting workload and timeliness of report completion (a QBR measure).
- The APD report-writing system for Community investigations (Oregon ACCESS) does not have a spell-check or grammar function, requiring additional reviewing and editing time and affecting timeliness of report completion.
- Oregon ACCESS also lacks useful search capabilities, making it impossible, for example, to search the abuse records by Perpetrator Name, clearly limiting the system’s usefulness in monitoring abuse patterns.
- The existing report-writing systems do not have fields for critical pieces of information and data needed for analysis, trending, etc. These include but are not limited to: triage time, race and ethnicity, sub-categories of abuse, level/severity of harm, monetary amount of loss (for Financial Exploitation cases), whether the client is on Medicaid or not, etc. All CDDP, CMHP and OAAPI reports are written in Microsoft Word, and for any data to be tracked it must be manually extracted from the reports and re-entered manually into the OAAPI Abuse Database.

- Abuse investigation reports are not readily accessible to the Background Check Unit for their review and use in Fitness Determinations.

3.2E TIMELINESS OF REPORT COMPLETION

Reports must be completed within timeframes for them to be useful in documenting the response to abuse allegations, and for regulatory and law enforcement agencies to be able to hold substantiated perpetrators accountable. This metric is reported out at DHS Quarterly Business Reviews (QBR) because of its value as an indicator of a prompt and effective investigation of, and response to, the abuse.

There is currently no standard, centralized, electronic means of documenting or collecting report completion time data across programs, so it must be collected from individual systems by different program staff, and manually aggregated by OAAPI staff.

3.2F QUALITY ASSURANCE

Given the vulnerable populations OAAPI serves, the serious harm and negative outcomes that result from abuse, and the liability to the Department inherent in the work we perform, regular and proactive quality assurance (QA) activities are a must.

Unfortunately, the current array of incompatible data systems is not useful for proactive quality assurance, either centrally or at the local level, because of its inability to serve effectively as an “early warning system.”

Instead, because of the current arrangement’s structural and functional limitations, QA is largely an after-the-fact affair, with significant problems going unnoticed and unseen for years, because the data is inaccessible and not tracked effectively on any kind of centralized dashboard.

Some examples of this problem:

- OAAPI has recently identified, through a dedicated and time-consuming data-mining process, that over 3,000 uncompleted APD Community abuse investigations have been buried in Oregon ACCESS, some for over three years, with no final report completed. Without the access to data that a centralized abuse database would provide, such problems often remain invisible until there is some reason for a manual audit of cases at the local level.
- Local managers are not able to access the system routinely to track cases, monitor investigator performance, or otherwise oversee the screenings and investigations taking place in their own office. They are reliant upon OAAPI to mine and provide data that often highlights concerning trends or actually expose very high risk situations. (Some additional examples are included in the Risk and Liabilities section below.)
- QA activities take hours and days of staff time that could be accomplished in a fraction of that time, perhaps as little as 10% to 20% of the current time spent, with an integrated database. This would allow for more thorough analysis, more QA activities, and more actual follow-through on findings.

Because of the aforementioned “ownership” and structure of the APD Facility investigation data, it is just as difficult for OAAPI to monitor the field’s activities and compliance in completing APD Facility abuse investigations, leading to many of the same monitoring and “early-detection” problems.

3.3 External Verification of Problem

The problems with the “current state” of Oregon’s abuse data management and report writing methods have been known for an extended period of time – at least as far back as 2005, when a report by DHS consultant Public Knowledge observed that “The computer systems used by APS workers were not designed to support the APS business processes,” and recommended that DHS “...initiate planning for a case management system useful to both workers and to the state central office for case monitoring.”

These issues, and the risks associated with them, have also been identified by individuals and agencies other than Public Knowledge. In 2004, a DHS Information Systems Management (ISM) workgroup developed a proposal to address APD Reporting System needs for abuse but, due to fiscal shortages, the proposal did not result in any enhancement of the existing system or the creation of a new system.

In 2008, the McKinsey Study recommended the Department invest in IT capacity and support access across all APD programs to reduce cycle time, error rates, and employee frustration. While other program areas received much needed technical updates as a result, the existing abuse data systems did not.

An excerpt from an Oregonian article dated March 26, 2011 stated, “DHS administrators say their record-keeping system makes it almost impossible to pull every case of sexual abuse against long term care residents. And so state officials would have great difficulty doing a comprehensive study of sexual abuse against the elderly and disabled in state-monitored facilities – if DHS had the resources and direction to do so.”

An excerpt from the Adult Safety and Protection Team Report dated August 4, 2011, stated “DHS shall be responsible for periodically evaluating the appropriateness of ‘screened out’ and ‘referred out’ cases and preparing a public report (at least annually) of its findings, with recommendations as applicable” and “DHS should regularly use its database to develop mechanisms so it has a better understanding of filed allegations and substantiated abuse reports in an effort to keep vulnerable Oregonians safer.”

An excerpt from the Resident Safety Review Council Report to Legislature dated February 2013 stated, “...the data collection process for the case review presented challenges related to manually collecting data from paper documentation. First, the process was time-intensive, taking approximately 100 person-hours to complete (this does not include employee time to sort and de-identify the documents necessary to prepare for the review). Second, the lack of a standardized information collection system (e.g., no standard selection options for investigators) and the paper process contributed to inconsistencies between the investigation records. The opportunity for documentation error was high, which limited the level of analysis possible.”

The recently-completed DHS Elder Abuse Prevention Audit (12-13) found the following:

The annual risk assessment conducted in September 2013, revealed concern that the Department is unable to respond to abuse requests adequately, translate abuse information to persons and unable to adequately track and report abuse data in real time. The overall prognosis was that the current system is limited, time consuming and inefficient.

We found that the current method used by OAAPI to obtain data for the Quarterly Review (QR) or DHS Fundamental Scorecard is not efficient and expedient to both APS field offices and OAAPI Central office for monitoring and quality check to improve performance.

A more efficient and effective management system to collect data for quality review process than the current one could be developed. We believe an automated, centralized computer system would be useful to APS field offices, OAAPI, and APD Central office for monitoring and quality check and could significantly improve these processes. The study conducted by Public Knowledge Inc. in 2005 identified the lack of a simple computer system usable by APS staff as one of the efficiency constraints in the APS services delivery system.

3.4 Risks and Liabilities

All of the problems and inefficiencies discussed above add to the risks and liabilities associated with continued reliance on the current patchwork of databases and report-writing methods used by staff across programs. As stated previously, significant and avoidable risks are introduced by the current array of abuse data systems because:

- There is no integrated way to track a particular individual’s history of abuse. Records for a single victim may exist in several different data systems, with no single entity able to connect episodes of abuse, neglect or violence in a person’s life. This inability to see the larger picture results in less effective – or even inappropriate – interventions;

- There is no integrated way to document substantiated perpetrators and search by perpetrator name, allowing for abuse in one system to go undetected in another;
- Current systems are not accessible from the field causing delays in reporting and potentially placing vulnerable individuals at risk due to delay;
- The existing systems do not alert local or OAAPI staff to cases that “fall through the cracks.” OAAPI’s Quality Assurance staff has identified up to 2,000 such cases that exist in the current system, and is working to resolve them.

Example 1:

E-mail from local office in response to request from OAAPI for case status update on long overdue case: I’m not sure what to do. When I looked back at the log for that case, it says (worker) went with a case aide, that (client) believes people are taking things from her, is paranoid. (Worker) has retired and isn’t here to do the report. Can it just be deleted?

OAAPI response: I’ve poked around in ACCESS a bit more. As I’m reading it, something generated a SN case in August, 2011. (Worker) went out with a case aide but we don’t know what the outcome of that visit was and definitely services were not initiated. Four months later, in December, 2011 she fell in her home, broke her hip and was hospitalized, rehabbed, and placed in a ALF. Is there any hard file in the office that would indicate what transpired in those four months?

Example 2:

From local office: I believe it was you I was talking about regarding cleaning up some old cases from an investigator who was behind. I have one who has some open cases as far back as 2007. That investigator is on extended leave and one of my very efficient staff members volunteered to help clean up their old case files. In doing so we are finding some files that have had very little done on them and in one case opened in 2007 we found it is a referral for non-payment at a facility and the RV is deceased.

- The success of recent class action suits such as those noted below should also not be ignored, as examples of expensive and far-reaching litigation that may result from the failure to catch and respond to systemic problems early.

Example 1:

In 2012, a class action lawsuit was filed in New York that challenged the City's Adult Protective Services (APS)'s systemic failure to provide mandated services to mentally and physically disabled adults. The New York Legal Assistance Group (NYLAG) and other attorneys representing claimed that agency inadequately administered the APS program, violating the Americans with Disabilities Act, New York Social Services Law and the federal and state constitutions. The Court approved a settlement in January 2012, requiring APS to make changes and to provide information to the plaintiffs to allow them to monitor the agency's compliance on an ongoing basis.

Example 2:

In 2013, after a year and a half year of litigation, Vermont Legal Aid and Disability Rights Vermont reached a settlement to a lawsuit brought against the State of Vermont regarding the substantial backlog in investigations by the State's APS program. The settlement agreement will result in major changes to APS, and provides for significant oversight and monitoring by the public, the plaintiffs, and if necessary, the Court. As part of the settlement agreement, Vermont APS agreed to adopt changes to its policies and practices, including providing quarterly file reviews to determine if APS is meeting performance benchmarks.

3.5 Costs and Inefficiencies

The costs and inefficiencies associated with the current system have been alluded to above. The following section provides a higher level of detail and specific examples.

- OAAPI frequently encounters the need for manual data mining and collection to respond to public or media inquiries, to perform effective oversight of local offices and investigators and to provide even routine quality assurance or monitor statutory compliance.

Example 1:

When CDDP, CMHP and OAAPI investigative reports are completed, they are hand mined for data and the information entered into the OAAPI DD/MH Abuse Data base. An integrated data and report-writing system would eliminate the need for this process, freeing up Research Analysts to focus on trending abuse, detecting patterns and monitoring compliance with performance standards in the field.

Estimated Inefficiency Cost:

Research Analyst 1 @ 20 hours/week ongoing =
 $$59,535/\text{yr} \times 0.5 = $18,462$

Research Analyst 2 @ 30 hours/week ongoing =
 $$69,619/\text{yr} \times 0.75 = $52,214$

Research Analyst 3 @ 10 hours/week =
 $$101,848/\text{yr} \times 0.25 = $25,462$

Annual savings if manual re-work eliminated = $96,138

Example 2:

OAAPI is required by the legislature to report the names of the most serious substantiated perpetrators to the Background Check Unit. Due to the volume of reports generated and current database deficiencies, it has been both costly and difficult to meet this important requirement. OAAPI was in fact cited for this during the recent internal DHS audit.

Estimated Inefficiency Cost:

Investigator 3 @ 15 hours/week ongoing =
 $$80,140/\text{yr} \times 0.375 = $30,053$

Annual savings if manual re-work eliminated = $30,053

Example 3:

The quarterly QBR data measure timeliness of response. Because the current systems do not include information for triage time assigned or time of investigation initiation, a 1% sample is pulled. This is such a small sample that its value in truly measuring the performance in this critical area is questionable, a fact which was noted by internal DHS auditors. However, even this very small data collection effort takes 4 – 6 hours of staff time, at the following estimated cost:

Estimated Inefficiency Cost:

Operations & Policy Analyst 3 @ 6 hrs/year =
 $$116,051/\text{yr} = $57/\text{hr} \times 6 \text{ hrs} \times 4 \text{ quarters}/\text{yr} = $1,368$

Annual cost of pulling 1% data sample manually = $1,368

However, that estimate does not reflect the true cost in accuracy we incur by settling for such a small sample size. The cost of improving the accuracy of our QBR data by pulling a larger, more statistically meaningful sample using the current manual method would be:

Estimated Inefficiency Cost:

Operations & Policy Analyst 3 @ 60 hrs/year =
 $$116,051/\text{yr} = $57/\text{hr} \times 60 \text{ hrs} \times 4 \text{ quarters}/\text{yr} = $13,680$

Annual cost of pulling statistically significant sample manually = $13,680

An effective data system could provide this information for 100% of the cases completed, in a matter of minutes, providing accurate QBR metrics and allowing QA efforts to be focused on responding to problems, rather than pulling data.

Example 4:

CDDP, CMHP, and OAAPI investigators currently generate their reports using a word processing application. However, many of the portions of these reports are consistent from investigation to investigation. With the proposed system, many fields would auto-fill the correct and necessary information.

Estimated Inefficiency Cost:

Investigator 3 @ 0.5 hours/report x 450 reports = 225 hrs
$80,140/yr = $39/hr x 225 hrs = $8,775

Annual savings if manual re-work eliminated = $8,775

Example 5:

When the decision is made to perform a statistically significant and reliable study, hundreds of reports must be read to extract data, and all data must be hand-entered into a spreadsheet for analysis. As an example, the recent OAAPI Financial Exploitation study in 2012 required the reading of 400 reports, taking well over 90 hours, just to collect the required data (no analysis is included in this number). With an adequate data system, this same work could likely have been completed in 8 hours, at a savings of 82 person-hours. With six QA projects per year needed to assess and monitor field activities, the cost due to inefficiencies is significant:

Estimated Inefficiency Cost:

Operations & Policy Analyst 3 @ 82 hrs/project =
$116,051/yr = $57/hr x 82 hr/project x 6 projects/yr = $28,044

Annual cost of pulling data for QA analysis manually = $28,044

The reduction in cost and staff time provided by a searchable database would allow quality assurance staff to spend their time identifying abuse trends and developing targeted prevention efforts, instead of reading hundreds of reports just to extract data.

The use of an integrated Abuse Data and Report-writing System in these five examples alone would lead to the potential annual savings of 4,337 person-hours per year, representing an estimated $176,690 per year.

These savings would multiply as efficiencies were realized for investigators and their managers in the field, as well as for OAAPI and other Department staff. In the current state, the Department loses productivity when workers run semi-automated processes to link data between different databases in order to produce metrics. Many hours are lost during the process of exchanging, checking and interpreting data from the various systems. Unfortunately, this is valuable staff time that could be better put to use performing QA and data analysis in order to identify the causes of abuse (in community and facility settings) and work to mitigate them.

4 OVERVIEW of AVAILABLE OPTIONS

4.1 Continue with Current State

The first option available is to continue using the current assortment of abuse data systems and report-writing methods. Obviously, our current state has led to the serious problems and risks described in Section 3, so we would not expect this option to lead to the desired improvements. In addition, due to the age, decreasing functionality and planned obsolescence of the data systems currently in use, this option will result in a need for ongoing investment by program staff in the future for maintenance, repair and replacement. Furthermore, steps are already being taken to replace at least one of the existing data systems, i.e. Oregon ACCESS, which serves as the report-writing system for over 60% of all APD/APS investigations – over 10,000 reports in 2013.

4.2 Invest in Improving Current Systems

The second option is to invest funds and agency resources in improving the current assortment of abuse data systems and report-writing methods. Like the first option, this option assumes the continued availability and functionality of all existing systems, which is not likely. Choosing this option would require a significant dedication of program staff and resources to evaluate the feasibility of updating all of the existing systems and then reconfiguring them to provide the accessibility and information currently needed by OAAPI and its partners. And even if the utility of each individual system could be maximized, the issue of disconnected systems unable to share information would remain unaddressed.

4.3 Link with Other Ongoing Technology Projects

A third option is to join together with another agency which has an ongoing IT development project. In one such example, OAAPI and APD have explored combining the development of a new abuse data system with other ongoing APD IT development projects. For example, a Case Management data system that APD is planning to develop for APD and DD clients appeared to present opportunities. Adding the abuse data collection, screening and report-writing components to a new APD Case Management system, however, would add significantly to the scope of the project. In addition, since the proposed new Case Management system will be designed primarily for Medicaid clients, it is questionable whether this new system would be able to address the needs of victims of abuse who are not eligible for Medicaid, or the specific needs of other populations such as adults with mental illness receiving services through OHA/AMH or children receiving services in licensed settings.

In another example, OAAPI researched a possible partnership with Oregon State Police (OSP) and their new Records Management System, developed by Niche RMS of Canada. Although the OSP work flow is similar to APD/DD/MH investigations, their system was designed specifically to support dispatch and patrol functions, and under the terms of the OSP contract was not able to be modified to meet OAAPI's needs. As a result, partnering with OSP would require OAAPI to change nomenclature and alter workflow to match the OSP model, and the system would not be allowed to integrate or interface with other systems utilized by DHS. Due to security concerns, even though OAAPI could potentially make the OSP Records Management System functional, it would require many workarounds and would not be able to consolidate all information necessary within DHS systems.

As discussed in Section 3, other systems, such as OLRO's ASPEN database and Lane County's Client-Tracking System, have been explored for possible statewide expansion across all investigation types but found unworkable either due to limitations of the systems themselves or of their support and maintenance structures. Furthermore, creating interfaces between existing DHS and OHA systems to an older system transferred into the IT architecture will be much more difficult and expensive.

4.4 Request Proposals for Development of New Abuse Data & Report-writing System

Finally, OAAPI has the option of requesting proposals from vendors interested in developing a new Abuse Data & Report-writing System.

OAAPI has conducted some initial research and learned that there are vendors currently developing and implementing highly configurable software that is customizable to meet the needs of abuse investigation programs, both in terms of data management and report-writing. These systems have multiple switches that can be turned on or off based upon workflow and needs. Fields can be labeled to match DHS language, which is critical to data importation and report functionality. Almost every field within the database is searchable, allowing different users of the system to search for, link, and research whatever data they need (based on predetermined permissions). This functionality alone would save OAAPI and the Department a tremendous amount of time and person-hours.

This option would require an investment in the development and implementation of a new software system. Based on preliminary market research, OAAPI believes a new Abuse Data & Report-writing System could be developed and implemented for under $2.5 million including services of a systems integrator.

This estimate assumes a relatively simple, stand-alone abuse database with role-based access for data-sharing with partners. A system that is integrated with other existing systems would be expected to cost considerably more; e.g. a new integrated abuse data system being developed in Washington is budgeted at $5.4M.

Estimated Agency Costs

An agency faces many risks and challenges when designing and building a new data system, especially when the new system is intended to replace multiple existing systems and be accessed by many different users with different business needs. Planning, coordination and ongoing evaluation are critical to an IT project's success, from the earliest stages of developing a plan and governance structure, through procurement and thoughtful system design, integration, testing and implementation. Successful completion of these steps depends on strong project management and governance, along with objective and knowledgeable technical oversight.

Under the current proposal, an initial $500,000 investment of funds from the Special Allocation for Seniors funds set aside under HB 5201 would be used to contract an independent Consultant to complete the Legislative request due January 2015.

The cost of the Consultant contract is estimated at $400,000. DHS intends to also secure QA/QC services to provide independent assessment of the quality of the initial consulting deliverables and will utilize a State project manager to coordinate the overall Phase 1 efforts including tracking status against a schedule. Core project artifacts in alignment with the OSCIO Stage Gate's will be developed and maintained

The cost of a Quality Assurance/Quality Control services contract is estimated at $25,000, based on industry standards for a project of this size.

This is expected to be sufficient to address questions around the extent, feasibility and cost of data integration with OAAPI's multiple partners, including the development of integration options, configuration of possible internal and external interfaces and data conversion/ migration issues.

Taken together, these two contracts add up to $425,000, with the remaining $75,000 allocated for the state project manager, internal contracting resources and potential charges from DOJ for contract reviews.

The work performed by the Consultant and state assigned PM through the SPA fund investment will allow for development of a recommended approach and plan for implementation of a technology solution to support OAAPPI for presentation to Legislative Committee in January 2015, as required by HB 4151.

Based on these assumptions, the initial cost is estimated at $500,000 for the first phase of this project.

Once the initial assessment and options are presented to the Legislature and the plan for implementation is approved, an RFP will be issued to procure the recommended solution and Systems Integrator services to implement the solution.

5 RECOMMENDATION

There is a compelling business case to move forward with a review and validation of requirements and completing alternative analysis for the best solution. To that end, OAPPI requests approval of this preliminary business case to support securing the services of a consultant to meet the Phase 1 deliverables: requirements validation; development of a final Business Case, recommendation for a solution and approach for meet the OAAPPI defined problem; development of an RFP to issue for Phase 2 procurement of a solution and systems integrator.

6 STRATEGY & IMPLEMENTATION

Upon approval of this Preliminary Business Case, procurement efforts to secure consultant services will commence immediately, with a targeted start date of 8/1/14. Once onboard, the Consultant will begin the evaluation process and project planning, working as needed with the state team to validate and complete functional and technical requirements, identify alternatives, costs and benefits to meet the business needs defined by the requirements, update the Preliminary Business Case and develop a recommendation report and presentation for the Legislature in January, 2015. The requirements will serve as the foundation for development of an RFP for issuance upon Legislative approval and defined funding.

Meanwhile, OAAPI and partners will seek funding for the larger project of building a new data system. Following legislative review and approval of the design and scope of the project – and assuming the securing of funding via federal match, a Policy Option Package, or a combination thereof – an RFP will be issued for a Systems Integrator and software product for development of the new system with a target start date for this Phase 2 effort of mid-2015. A State Project Manager will continue to be involved throughout the Implementation effort to managing the procurement process, establishing the project governance documents and structure and ensure continued alignment with state best practices and Stage Gate processes.

6.1 Communications and Data Sharing

Understanding and planning for, the sharing and/or integrating of abuse data with OAAPI's partners in order for them to do their work and meet their responsibilities will be an essential part of the requirements definition efforts. This preliminary business case and preliminary cost estimates is built on the assumption that the needs of OAAPI's partners can be met through data sharing, without requiring extensive integration.

Ultimately, the decision of how to share and/or integrate data with each partner will be dependent on the role and responsibility that the partner agency has in the overall DHS/OHA enterprise.

OAAPI's primary partners who have a need for abuse data include:

Background Check Unit (BCU): Read-Only, real-time access is needed, so BCU staff can query the database for certain types of substantiated abuse and read the full investigation report.

DHS Case Management: A new case management system is planned for clients receiving DHS services, and a certain amount of integration of abuse data with the new system has been requested by DHS leadership. Prior to an RFP, OAAPI and DHS staff will 1) outline the data elements needed by case management, 2) develop a plan for how to share and/or integrate the data, and 3) identify data sharing conditions (timelines and contingencies). The requirements generated from this discussion will then be included in the RFP, to ensure systems are capable of communicating with each other; that there is place in the partner system to store data; and that a sound, reliable process for sharing and integrating data is implemented.

Child Welfare (CW): OAAPI investigates allegations of abuse for approximately 150 children per year who receive services through Child Welfare. Currently data generated from these investigations is manually entered into the OR KIDs database by OAAPI investigators. Similar to the adult case management data sharing issue, OAAPI and CW staff will need to explore data sharing requirements during the development of the RFP.

The Office of Licensing and Regulatory Oversight (OLRO): OLRO has regulatory oversight for facility APS investigations as well as investigations for DD licensed settings. In most cases abuse data is currently transmitted electronically to OLRO, using a variety of processes, although in other cases the hardcopy investigation report and related exhibits are sent so that OLRO can manually extract data elements. Discussions about data sharing have been ongoing with OLRO, and the RFP for a new data base would detail the requirements for sharing and/or integrating information with OLRO. Possible solutions include downloading/extracting abuse data into a system of OLRO's choosing, or developing a licensing module to the abuse database.

OHA/AMH Licensing Unit: AMH has licensing oversight for investigations in MH licensed settings. Currently the investigation report is sent to the licensing office. With approval to move forward, further discussion will occur with AMH regarding data sharing and/or integration needs.

Data sharing can be accomplished in a variety of ways depending on the needs of the partner, the required timeliness of obtaining the information, and the confidentiality requirements of the program in question. Development of an RFP to acquire a solution and services for implementing that solution will include detailed information around data sharing; identify hardware/software requirements and security requirements so an IT specific plan for how information will move from the abuse database to the partner agency systems; and address any confidentiality issues can be developed.

6.2 Funding Forecasts

Preliminary market research including discussions with other states indicates that the estimated cost for implementing a system to meet OAAPI needs will be under $2.5 million. More detailed financial analysis will be developed through the Phase 1 efforts.

As noted above, the Campaign for Oregon’s Seniors & People with Disabilities (a broad coalition of advocacy groups) recommended in January 2014 that $1 million of the $26 million set aside under HB 5101 for future distribution to programs benefiting seniors and people with disabilities be used for an Adult Protective Services Technology Investment. The May 2014 Emergency Board in May 2014, approved $500,000 of those funds be put to use immediately in conducting an independent evaluation of the existing data systems and recommendation of a solution. Contracted services will be deliverables based and will be carefully reviewed to ensure that payments are linked to completion of deliverables worked. Independent Quality Assurance/Quality Control will also be used to review the work products developed.

6.3 Possible Risks of Implementation

The development of a new IT project always has inherent risks, especially in the areas of cost and time to develop it. OAAPI is managing risk by phasing work efforts. If the Legislature subsequently approves OAAPI to proceed with Implementation, a dedicated Project Manager and Systems Integrator will be secured to oversee the design and development of the project and develop a realistic implementation plan to help mitigate these risks, by phasing the roll-out of the system and spreading out the testing, data migration and training activities over time, which will also serve to limit the impact of any problems or issues with the roll-out. Independent Quality Assurance and Independent Verification and Validation will be used through any approved Implementation effort to ensure appropriately rigorous project practices are followed and products perform to the state’s functional and technical requirements.

7 ESTIMATED TIMELINE

The new Abuse Data & Report-writing System could be fully implemented by June 2017, dependent on funding, RFP timing, and decisions re: OIS support needed, etc.

Estimated Phased Approach/Timeline:

06-20-14	Preliminary Business Case Review and Approval.
08-15-14	Acquire outside consulting support for Phase 1.
08-15-14 – 12-31-14	Phase 1 activities: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Finalize requirements (refine, enhance, validate). • Identify alternatives including cost/benefit analysis against requirements. • Develop a written report with recommendations for a solution approach and plan for presentation to Legislature in January 2015 as required by HB 4151. • Develop a Final Business Case and recommendations for a solution approach and plan for presentation to Legislature in January 2015, as required by HB 4151.
01-15-15	Present technology assessment and plan to Legislature, along with funding alternatives, including federal funds and Policy Option Package for additional funding, as needed.

TBD	Finalize and Post RFPs for Systems Integrator and software product. Receive and evaluate proposals. Select Vendors, draft and finalize contract.	Estimated 5 months from developing RFP to finalized contract.
TBD	Vendor, Project Manager review workflow and rules to configure the system.	Several days of training the agency on the system configuration and functionality of the system is included in cost analysis. DHS will set up the operating parameters to configure the workflow rules and employee access rights.
TBD	Installation of Server Software.	Each installation has Microsoft SQL Server, an Application Server on the backend. Users will access the system through a desktop or web server/remote desktop. Database and services are installed on the server.
TBD	Second layer of software.
TBD	Data will be imported and stored on a SQL server hosted initially by Vendor.	Timeframe will vary depending on the complexity and amount of data to be configured in the system.
TBD	Interfaces.	Development and installation of required interfaces to external systems.
TBD	Building Operating Lists and System Admin Training.	Training of three key personnel on how to set-up and maintain the system. This process will incorporate meetings with other key staff members.
TBD	Software Installation and Configuration.	Install software for end users. For desktop and mobile users, this will involve installing programs, support tool and patches/software from Microsoft. Adjustment of firewalls and VPN's.

TBD	User Training.	On-site classroom training in a maximum of four (4) hour training blocks. Note: Classroom training includes workplace coaching to ensure that staff masters the capabilities of the respective subsystem.
TBD	Initial Operation of System.	Upon completion of training, system will be placed into a live environment.
TBD	Quality Assurance conducted.	Ensure integrity of data was maintained. Ensure system is operating as designed through vigorous testing. Ensure connectivity throughout the state.
TBD	Final System Completion.	All terms and conditions of agreement with vendor have been successfully completed.

Ideal Implementation Date: 06/01/17

Executive Summary

Proposal

The proposed investment is to develop an approach and solution that will support DHS' and OHA's collection of client Race, Ethnicity, Language plus Disability (REAL+D) data pursuant to ORS 943.070, 413.042 & 413.161 and the Affordable Care Act. As a result of Oregon HB2134 and ORS 943-070, DHS and OHA defined standard data collection requirements for race/ethnicity, language and disability (REAL+D). In the rule, it indicates that “standardized data collection methodology will improve the ability of the Authority, Department, community stakeholders, elected officials, and other decision makers to recognize, address, target and eliminate inequities experienced by distinct racial, cultural, and linguistic communities, and by people with disabilities...to meet federal reporting expectations; compare Oregon's progress with national trends; improve quality service delivery; and ensure equitable allocation of resources.”

In addition to the requirements outlined by OAR 943-070, the collection of this data is endorsed, and in many cases required by the federal government, federal programs, state government and various community interest groups.

Problem

While DHS and OHA have both established equity (service equity and health equity) as part of their core values, problems with data prevent both agencies from knowing the full extent of inequity and from measuring the impacts of efforts to assure quality.

The numerous client business processes (intake, application, re- application, etc) and the supporting data systems across DHS/OHA programs contain tremendous inconsistencies which make REAL+D reporting and analysis problematic. Even the definition of the terms “race,” “ethnicity,” or “disability” vary across key government, health and human service institutions (i.e. Census, Office of Management and Budget, Institute of Medicine, Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation, etc.),

Additionally, agency and contractor staff often lack training in best practice methods for collecting race, ethnicity, language and disability demographic information in an effective manner.

Currently, DHS and OHA's implementation of REAL+D data collection is hindered by the following critical variances and limitations:

- Variances or gaps in data definitions
- Variances of business processes to collect client demographic data
- Variances of data models across multiple independent systems in the two agencies
- Limited resources to modify numerous systems
- Limited maintainability of fragile but critical legacy systems
- Limited access to reliable, complete and timely data

All of these compounding issues undermine the legislative intent to make available and promote the use of data to identify and engage at-risk populations and integrate service equity and inclusion strategies to improve client outcomes, program delivery and policy development.

The following are agency business areas impacted by inaccurate, missing and inaccessible REAL+D client data:

- Service delivery (i.e. language translation needs)
- Credibility (i.e. consistent and accurate data when interacting with clients)
- Risk of client civil rights violations (i.e. failure to provide services, to clients as a result of language or other accessibility gaps)
- Effective use of resources (i.e. identify needs to align agency staff or other agency resources to client service delivery including translation, accessibility resources, reduce duplicate work)
- Service/health equity program strategies (i.e. understanding what program areas need to provide additional service offerings and resources to help address service gaps)

Proposed Approach

The first step in addressing these inequities is to identify and standardized definitions of key client data terms to be used consistently across DHS/OHA's programs and services. This consistency in client data elements will be the foundation of information systems that can share client eligibility, service and case information across program areas for clients served.

To address these business needs, the agencies each proposed 2015-2017 Policy Option Packages requesting general funds to support the initial investment, foundational structure and implementation of the Master Client Data Service.

The full implementation of a Master Client Data Service across DHS and OHA will take longer than this initial biennium as it will impact business processes and systems that collect client demographic information. Additionally, there may be opportunities through the Health System Transformation and Medicaid initiatives to provide additional funds, technical capabilities and focus on this effort. As part of this effort, the agencies will derive better data through governance, a data quality program and master data management. Additionally, the effort will support streamlined business processes, decision making and policy development by increasing our understanding of the causes of disparities, supporting the design effective responses, and supporting the evaluation of improvements over time.

Outcomes of the approach to REAL+D include:

- DHS/OHA enterprise "view" of client demographic and REAL+D data across programs.
- Client data that is consistent, standardized and aligned to REAL+D OARs across DHS/OHA programs.
- Improved reporting and analytics capabilities - Ability to associate service data and REAL+D client population data in order to identify potential areas of underserved populations and build localized community engagement strategies.
- Increased availability and accessibility of client data.
- Improved collection and maintenance of client demographic and REAL+D data for staff, clients and providers which also increases data quality and reduces duplication of data collection into multiple systems and associated costs.
- Client data governance is represented and supported.
- Client data is accessible according to business rules (needs, legislation, sensitivity, HIPAA, etc).

The following are the alternatives identified and included in this business case:

Alternative 1– Status Quo:

This approach would require all individual program areas, system owners and development resources to independently modify the existing systems (approximately 50+), to collect REAL+D data in accordance with the Oregon Revised Statutes plus any other related data required by current compliance requirements.

Alternative 2– Phased approach of Data Virtualization and MDM for Master Client Data Service:

Phase 1: This creates an incremental approach to aggregate REAL+D data collected from MAGI Medicaid clients and combine with other agency service information on clients to create an initial comprehensive view of clients relative to REAL+D. Outcomes of this phase would include foundational data and organizational structures which would then support the development of an Master Client Data Service.

Phase 2: Begin to build a “golden record” of clients with the use of the Transfer system’s Master Data Management capabilities and client portal to reduce duplicate data entry of client REAL+D and other client demographic information.

Alternative 3– Do Nothing Until MAGI Medicaid Transfer System’s MDM Tool Available:

Delay progress on implementing REAL+D until the Transfer system’s Master Data Management capabilities are available. Once the MDM tools are available, they can be used to further define and expand the data to build out a client golden record which could support client and staff portals as well as integrating with legacy systems.

Recommendation

The proposed IT investment in a Master Client Data Service aligns with and supports the:

- Governor’s 10-year plan, priorities and initiatives, by addressing “Health People” “Improving Government”
- DHS/OHA Strategic Technology plan by supporting a “Comprehensive View of Clients” and a “Trusted Source of Health and Human Services Data.”
- REAL+D OAR 943-070 by giving DHS and OHA the ability to identify health and service inequities and target resources to areas of greatest need, reduce costly data and compliance errors, and increase the quality of customer service to all of the communities we serve.
- Enterprise Information Resource Management Strategy by incorporating Enterprise Architecture practices and principles

In summary, building a Master Client Data Service will meet the Department of Human Services’ (DHS) and Oregon Health Authority’s (OHA) need for a unified, sustainable model for collecting, managing, and reporting client data across their 50+ programs which support over 1.3 million Oregonians (reference: Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis (OFRA), Integrated Client Services Data Warehouse). The Master Client Data System will also provide the foundation for future re-engineering of the state’s antiquated systems. The initial IT investment time period for REAL+D will be approximately two years spanning July of 2015 through June of 2017 to build out the re-usable, expandable Master Client Data Service.

Background and Purpose

Background

HB 2134 was passed with strong bipartisan support in 2013. The legislation requires DHS and OHA to develop a standard data classification for the collection of REAL (race, ethnicity, language) data in concert with community stakeholders. The legislation also includes new requirements to standardize the collection of disability-related demographic data. As a result of the legislation, OHA's Office of Equity and Inclusion convened a rules advisory committee of diverse stakeholders to finalize the standards. The collection and analysis of more detailed race, ethnicity, language and disability status (REAL+D) data is vital to promoting equity in health and human services for diverse populations in Oregon. The rules are located in OAR 943-070-0000 to 943-070-0070.

State and federal requirements and regulations require DHS and OHA to develop a standard for collection of race, ethnicity and language (REAL) data in conjunction with community stakeholders. More recently, Oregon HB2134 also included new requirements to standardize the collection of disability-related (+D) data. Extensive variation or gaps in the definition, intended use and collection of this data across multiple independent systems in the two agencies speaks directly to the legislative intent to improve the availability and use of data to identify at-risk populations and integrate service equity and inclusion strategies to improve client outcomes, program delivery and policy analysis.

Failure to act will incur the following consequences:

- Inability to adhere to REAL+D standards of House Bill 2134 and OAR 943-070-000 to 943-070-0070
- Insufficient service delivery
- Reduced credibility in agency data
- Potential for legal liability including risks of client civil rights violations
- Ineffective use of resources
- Inadequate service/health equity program strategies
- Data duplication and data integrity issues will transcend across REAL+D data implementation
- Exponentially increasing costs of maintain legacy client data systems through system by system modifications

The following are some example business scenarios related to the absence of REAL+D information:

Service Equity:

In accordance with ORS § 411.970, when the caseload of a Department of Human Services local office consists of 35 or more non-English-speaking households which share the same language, the department shall provide at that local office written materials in that language and access to a bilingual assistance worker or caseworker fluent in both that language and English. The challenge is the agency doesn't have a comprehensive way to track or report the data necessary determine the need to hire a worker to support client populations who speak the same language, or to prioritize providing written materials for those clients, if they don't already have materials translated in that language.

Health Equity:

In a February 12, 2013, CD Summary article by Oregon Public Health Division about "Racial and Ethnic Health Disparities in Oregon," it identified the need to address racial and ethnic health disparities is essential, given Oregon's changing demographics. ... Because it is important to monitor the health of populations, the State of Oregon collects data on health disparities by race and ethnicity. However, reporting by race and ethnicity is a tricky business and requires that some assumptions be made. Racial and ethnic categories reflect social constructs that are not necessarily based on biology, anthropology, or genetics. Broad categories used for data collection may obscure, rather than illuminate, important health disparities... Early health and risk assessments, obstetric care, and education improve health outcomes for both mother and infant. In 2009, Latino (62%), African American (63%), and American Indians/Alaska Native (60%) women in Oregon were less likely to have begun prenatal care in the first trimester compared to non-Latino white women (74%). There are opportunities for OHA and DHS to leverage shared REAL+D data to better understand the populations served and implement more appropriate strategies that result in better health outcomes and support OHA's Triple Aim.

A recent survey, completed in support of REAL+D standards and HB 2134, identified 69 datasets and systems across DHS and OHA that collect client demographics data.

OHA identified a total of 55 Systems (includes IT systems and surveys) that collect client demographic data. None of the systems are in compliance with HB2134 REAL+D data standards. House Bill 2134 Baseline Assessment Reports indicated:

- Most of the systems identified make use of broader race and ethnicity categories (e.g. "Asian") than those established by HB 2134 (e.g. "Laotian," "Hmong").
- Only 24% of datasets currently ask an open-ended race and ethnicity question, though compliance rates are better for other HB 2134 REAL+D standards such as always using client/respondent self-identification (65%) and allowing multiple race responses (65%).
- Less than half (45%) of OHA datasets collect some data on client/respondent language.
- Only 16% of OHA datasets currently collect any data on client/respondent disability.

In addition, DHS identified 14 Systems that collect client demographic data and none of the systems are in compliance with the HB2134 REAL+D data standards. The legislative House Bill 2134 Baseline Assessment Reports indicated:

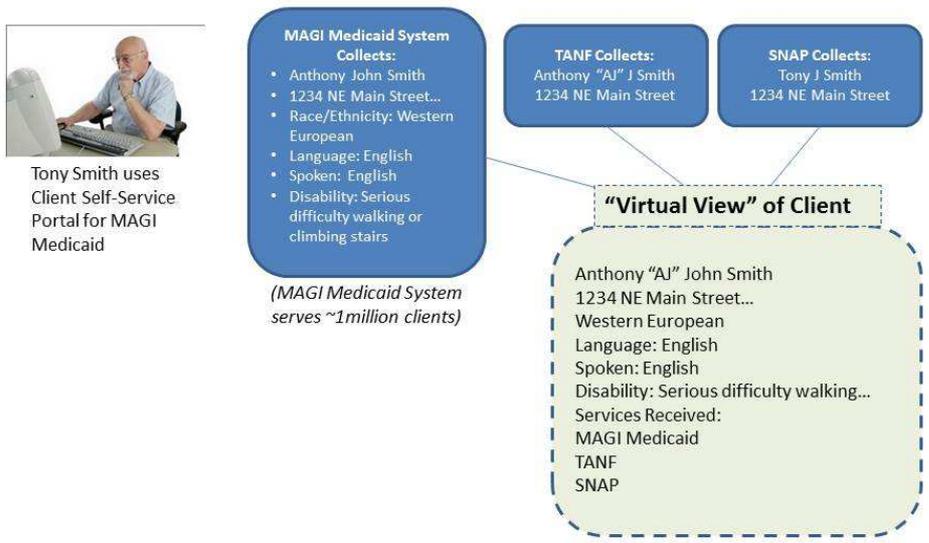

- 9 of the 14 (64%) DHS systems that collect client demographic data, collect data on language and none of them are compliant with the HB 2134 standards
- Only 43% of the DHS systems allow for multiple race response options
- Out of 14 DHS data sets recording client demographic information, ten (71%) data systems collect information on client disability status.

REAL+D survey results clearly show that DHS and OHA face significant challenges in client data management and their ability to meet standards, legislative requirements, and support agency Master Data Management (MDM) processes overall. In addition, such shortfalls in data have a considerable impact on agency costs, both one-time and on-going, as administration and maintenance of the multiple business processes and systems for data collection, transformation, normalization, consolidation, storage, distribution classification, enrichment and governance; rule administration; error detection and correction; , taxonomy services; item master creation; schema mapping; and product codification all require agency resources.

It is clear that the Department of Human Services (DHS) and Oregon Health Authority (OHA) need a unified, sustainable model for collecting, managing, and reporting client data across their 50+ programs which support over 1.3 million Oregonians (reference: Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis (OFRA), Integrated Client Services Data Warehouse).

Deriving a REAL+D View of Client

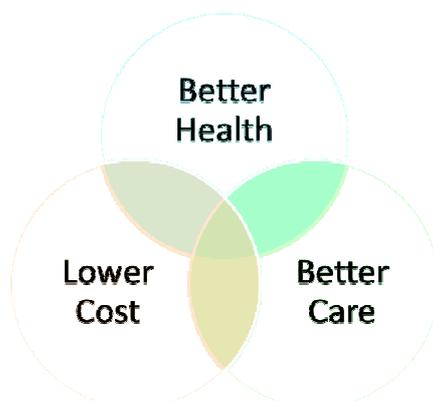

Other states are also addressing the need of identifying data standards, define business rules for data, and adopt methodologies and tools for data integrity and master data management. OHA and DHS are researching master data management efforts in other states to identify opportunities to collaborate and to leverage best practices to architect and implement the Master Client Data Service.

The proposed service must be architected and designed to support the OHA/DHS Strategic Business Objectives, Strategic Technology Plan, federal direction on increasing interoperability, and state direction in Healthcare and Human Services. The proposed service must:

- Leverage and support integrated DHS/OHA solutions to reduce complexity, data duplication and redundant work
- Be flexible, agile, and easy to adapt to changing data standards and values
- Be scalable and reusable for OHA and DHS, to reduce the number of data silos and duplication
- Enable data quality (completeness, uniqueness, timeliness, validity, accuracy, and consistency)
- Support privacy and security requirements
- Support Oregon and federal REAL+D standards, rules, and statutes
- Capture data once and re-use it, eliminating duplicate entry of similar data into multiple systems
- Capture data as a part of workflow, rather than as a separate data entry activity
- Support consistent information collection and management processes
- Support a single source of basic business data to be used across all systems, applications, and processes for the entire enterprise (all DHS and OHA departments, divisions, etc.)
- Provide support for a 360 degree, (comprehensive) view of the client across DHS and OHA programs
- Utilize the function of current DHS/OHA data systems and reporting tools where possible
- Support future development efforts of a self-service portal, so that clients may ultimately have the ability to maintain their own information
- Support easy integration with future development efforts, for example enterprise case management functionality
- Provide documentation and training to ensure efficient and effective end-user operations collecting client demographic information, such as for client intake, eligibility, enrollment, and case management.

OHA’s vision is the Triple Aim:

DHS’s vision ties directly to the Governor’s 10 year objectives:

Where We’ve Been	Where We’re Going
Multiple programs, departments, divisions with own missions, visions	One Department, One Mission, One Vision, Leveraging Program Specialties
Regulative & Compliance Oriented	Outcome & Results Oriented
Policy & Program Focused	Customer Focused
Multiple, Disconnected Data, Eligibility & Technology Services	Coordinated, integrated Data, Eligibility & Technology Services
Managers Define Solutions	Staff Are Empowered to Partner with Leadership to Create Solutions
Crisis Driven, Reactive, Risk Averse	Anticipatory, Proactive, Innovative
Government Services Operate in Relative Isolation	Collaborative Community & Business Partner

Stakeholders

DHS and OHA must engage with the population they serve to improve access, outcomes, service equity and targeting of population groups in need. Timely, complete and accurate data is needed to drive policy, practice and dialogue with an extensive and broad-range of internal and external stakeholders who span from Oregon citizens and local agencies to federal agencies and special interest groups.

Client data stakeholders include but are not limited to:

- Oregon citizens receiving services from DHS/OHA
- Governmental entities
 - Oregon Department of Human Services policy, program design and service delivery (DHS)
 - Oregon Health Authority (OHA)
 - Governor’s Racial and Ethnic Health Task Force
 - Oregon Health Policy Board,
 - Local public health authorities
 - Tribal representation/Tribal Liaison
- Community based organizations and interest groups including but not limited to
 - Urban League of Portland
 - Coalition of Communities of Color
 - Northwest Health Foundation
 - Asian Pacific American Network of Oregon (APANO)
 - Oregon Health Equity Alliance
 - Oregon Latino Health Coalition
 - Center for Intercultural Organizing
 - Oregon Health Care Interpreter Association
 - Disability rights organizations

- Health service provider (CCO/Mental Health/Addictions) organizations

Federal Government and national association stakeholders for DHS/OHA programs include:

- U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
 - Centers for Disease Control and Prevention(CDC)
 - Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS)
 - Administration for Community Living (ACL)
 - Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA)
 - Administration for Children and families (ACF)
 - Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR),
 - Office of Family Assistance (OFA)
 - Office of Child Care (OCC)
- United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), Food and Nutrition Service (FNS)
- National Public Health and Hospital Institute,
- National Association of Public Health and Health Systems and the National Partnership for Action

Current State

The current state of client data collection at DHS/OHA does not allow for an accurate view of the client across programs, nor does it comply with federal and state race, ethnicity, language and disability standards (REAL+D). Data definitions, recorded values and collection procedures for race, ethnicity, language and disability vary widely by program and purpose to an extent that prevents the compilation and presentation of agency wide information. The inconsistencies in the data at program level undermine the credibility of what data is available. Furthermore, the data collection standards used by DHS and OHA are inconsistent and insufficient to adequately assess the status and needs of Oregon’s communities of color, and immigrant and refugee communities. The inadequate data collection standards make it difficult to analyze how race, ethnicity and language impact individual and community health, making services more expensive and less effective in addressing community needs. Improving data systems that collect and support client data is a key component of continuous quality improvement efforts to support health and service equity

Currently, OHA has identified a total of 55 Systems collect client demographic data:

Currently, DHS has identified 14 Systems that collect client demographic data. While not listed below, DHS also uses MMIS which is an OHA system.

DHS Data Systems Caseworker Automated Processing Interface (CAPI)

- Child Welfare Data Warehouse and Reporting (CSDM)
- Express Payment and Recording System (eXPRS)
- Food Stamp Management Information Systems (FSMIS)
- Integrated Client Services (ICS)
- Office of Business Intelligence Data Warehouse (OBI Data Warehouse)
- Oregon Automated Computer Capture and Storage System (Oregon ACCESS)
- OR-Kids (Child Welfare system)
- Oregon Rehabilitation Case Automation (ORCA)
- Client Process Monitoring System (CPMS)
- Refugee Administration System (RAS)
- DD Eligibility System Service Authorization System
- Decision Support Systems and Surveillance
- Transition, Referral and Client Self-Sufficiency System (TRACS)

The Client Maintenance System and Client Index system are the two key DHS/OHA client demographic data systems that interface with other client systems, providing those systems with client information. However, those other systems may contain client information that is not included in either of these two key systems:

The Client Maintenance system (CM) system was implemented in 1985 and supports Medical Assistance Programs (MAP), Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Self Sufficiency program areas. The system contains client and case information (other than food stamps) as well as medical eligibility information. CM issues cash benefits, client notices and provides tracking. The system disburses 32,000 payments benefitting 280,000 people each month. CM is a mainframe COBOL based application hosted at the SDCC and supported by OIS.

Client Index system (CI) system is the single point of information for DHS clients across OR-Kids, Transition, Referral and Client Self-Sufficiency System (TRACS), CM, Food Stamp Management Information System (FSMIS), and Automated Computer Capture and Storage System (OR ACCESS) systems. CI is a mainframe system; implemented in 1992. CI contains more than 5 million records.

Additionally, DHS and OHA utilize data warehouses for various reporting needs. Below are two key reporting data warehouses:

OBI Data Warehouse is used for reporting in support of APD and DD programs. The system provides query capabilities across data from: CEP; CBC; eXpress; MMIS; CMS; and other systems. It contains Federal Reporting, Financial Management, Claims / Encounter, Eligibility, and Enrollment, Provider Billing, Demographic, and Licensing Data. It is a client server system with a SQL Server database using Active Directory for authentication. It is hosted at the SDC.

Integrated Client Services Data Warehouse is used for reporting (primarily forecasting and client service utilization patterns) in support of all five DHS program areas: DD; APD; CW, SSP, and VR (and all Medicaid based OHA program areas as well). It contains un-duplicated de-identified data and provides client and case “roll-up” information and some analytic capabilities. It is a client server / mainframe system (Visual Basic / DB2) using Active Directory for authentication. It is hosted at the SDC. The system was implemented in 2008.

There was a previous attempt at implementing master data management in the Health Insurance Exchange (HIX) and Modernization Initial Win projects. The effort lacked overall agreement from the agencies at an enterprise level on the meaning of “client.” True master data management was not supported at that point and any system changes that would impact legacy systems and data schemes couldn’t be changed without significant impact to the DHS and OHA. As a result, there was a specific agency decision to not allow those projects to directly impact the CI system, given its fragile state and the criticality of that system in supporting other programs. Consequently, the agency still has to access and maintain client and case information in a variety locations, perpetuating data synchronization, duplication, and quality issues. There are current collaborative business and technology efforts underway to develop standard enterprise (DHS/OHA) definitions for “client” and “case.”

The 2013 MITA (Medicaid Information Technology Architecture) Self-Assessment of DHS and OHA business processes (see the MITA Business Process Model) and systems supporting Medicaid Operations, identified multiple disparate data systems which collect client demographic data. These systems don’t capture the data in a consistent manner making research and analysis of this data challenging and ineffective. Data challenges identified during this inventory mirror the findings documented in the ongoing current state analysis and include:

- Multiple "silos" of systems with duplicate data
- Inconsistent accepted values for common data across systems (e.g., race values vary across systems)
- Inconsistent formats for common data across systems (e.g., person first name could be 40 characters or 30 characters, birthdate field formats can vary, etc.)
- Lack of data ownership, management, and standards
- A mixture of person-centric and case-centric information and associated conflicting business rules
- Difficult to transfer data, both internally and externally
- Policies and procedures and that support inconsistent methods of data collection

Problem or Opportunity Definition

Problem

The Affordable Care Act (ACA) and House Bill 2134 both dictate specific REAL+D data standards which must be implemented across DHS and OHA programs for the collection and reporting of race, ethnicity, language, and disability outcomes. None of the systems or business processes that currently collect, maintain, or report on client demographic data in support of over 50 programs across DHS and OHA are in compliance with the REAL+D standards.

DHS and OHA have both established equity (service and health equity) as part of their core values. However, problems with data prevent both agencies from knowing the service equity gaps and measuring the impact of efforts to improve service equity. The current DHS and OHA data collection standards and business processes are inconsistent across the various programs and result in insufficient or inaccurate data in support of REAL+D analysis. Even the definition of the terms “race,” “ethnicity” or “disability” vary across key government and health and human service institutions (e.g., Census, Office of Management and Budget, Institute of Medicine, Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation, etc.). In addition, agency and contractor staff often lack training in best practice methodology for collecting race, ethnicity, language and disability demographic information in a respectful, non-intrusive manner. Inadequate data collection standards make it difficult to analyze how race, ethnicity and language impact individual and community health. This makes services addressing community needs more expensive and less effective. Improving data systems is a key component of efforts to improve health and service equity.

Contributing to these data challenges are the number, age, stability, flexibility and variety of data systems within OHA and DHS. Differences existing in the mandated federal and funding partner requirements on specific data categories and the manner of reporting add to the variety and complexity of the systems. For example, some federal programs require staff to assign a race or ethnicity category to clients who decline to answer these demographic questions. The adopted standard requires staff to identify when they assign race, ethnicity and other demographic data to a recipient of services.

Opportunity

The ability to accurately and consistently collect race, ethnicity, language, and disability data will allow OHA and DHS to:

- Improve understanding of disparities in need and service gaps such as access to service, quality of service and outcomes of services
- Assist both agencies in supporting and developing community partnerships to close gaps
- Demonstrate progress towards reductions in racial and ethnic disparities by increasing transparency in reporting indicators.
- Meet additional federal and state REAL+D regulations
- Provide a comprehensive view of client and the services they are receiving
- Facilitate comparison of Oregon’s progress in addressing racial and ethnic disparities with national trends.

Improving data systems that collect and support client data is a key component of continuous quality improvement efforts to support health and service equity. Data virtualization and Master Data Management (MDM) best practices and technologies provide robust capabilities and a conceptual framework to evaluate options. Parallel state investments in master data management in support of the ACA could be leveraged to meet technology requirements. Legislative compliance drivers may allow DHS/OHA to bring partners to the table to begin the process of reconciling variations in terminology, data definitions, recorded values, intended use, collection methods and standards. While meeting the needs mandated under REAL+D legislations, these efforts are also the necessary precursors and fundamental components of any effort to reform state systems and implement master data management practices.

DHS and OHA can leverage the REAL+D legislation as an opportunity to build an enterprise data service for capturing, maintaining and accessing key client information. This enterprise data architecture will reduce data duplication, improve data integrity and ultimately help DHS and OHA build a comprehensive view of the clients.

Furthermore, this project will be a catalyst for implementing data standards, and data governance, to establish and support consistent methods for data collection, and ensure long term data quality across the agencies.

A Master Client Data Service will provide the comprehensive client information DHS and OHA need to analyze REAL +D data to identify service gaps, inform policy program and resource use, and demonstrate progress towards reductions in racial and ethnic disparities by increasing transparency in reporting indicators by race and ethnicity. In addition, it will allow DHS and OHA to meet federal reporting expectations and facilitate Oregon's progress in addressing racial and ethnic disparities.

Data objectives pertaining to the concept of a Master Client Data Service are:

- Provide accurate and timely data sources
- Capture data as a part of workflow, rather than as a separate data entry activity
- Capture data once and re-use it, eliminating duplicate entry of similar data into multiple systems
- Develop consistent collection and management processes for client data
- Provide robust data security meeting state and federal confidentiality, availability, and integrity standards. Including secure authentication and role-based access to all data an entity is entitled to, as well as confidentiality and privacy management.

Alignment with Governor's 10 Year Plan

The DHS/OHA Master Client Data Service will provide for a data infrastructure in support of the Governor's 10-year plan for "Healthy People." The establishment of the Master Client Data Service is a catalyst for creating an enterprise utility to support common, consistent and standardized methods for collecting essential, base client information that can be shared and reused by DHS and OHA to promote healthy people. The use of this proposed service would help address the inconsistencies existing in the client data, leading to more effective reporting and efficacy in service to address service and health equity.

Alignment with DHS|OHA Strategic Technology Plan

A Master Client Data Service will help the agencies to deliver on their OHA/DHS Technology Strategic goal #5 of being a "Trusted source for Health and Human Service Data," and enable them to create a comprehensive 360° view of clients over time as they consume various services. This service can result in reductions in data redundancy, reductions in staff time reconciling client information, increases data accuracy and quality, and alleviate the need to construct client histories in an ad-hoc manner. In implementing a Master Client Data Service the agencies can use standardized REAL+D client information to better inform service delivery and reporting and predictive analysis to help provide services which support the missions of DHS and OHA as well as the Healthy People outcome of the Governor's Ten Year Plan for Oregon.

The ability to accurately and consistently collect race, ethnicity, language, and disability data will allow OHA and DHS to:

- Improve understanding of disparities in need and service gaps such as access to service, quality of service and outcomes of services
- Assist both agencies in supporting and developing community partnerships to close gaps
- Demonstrate progress towards reductions in racial and ethnic disparities by increasing transparency in reporting indicators.
- Meet additional federal and state REAL+D regulations
- Facilitate comparison of Oregon's progress in addressing racial and ethnic disparities with national trends.

As this proposal addresses both DHS and OHA business needs and compliance with the legislation and federal ACA requirements, the agencies are proposing a joint Policy Option Package to support the delivery of a Master Client Data Service. Additionally, there may be opportunities through the Health System Transformation and Medicaid initiatives to provide additional funds, as well as demand and focus on this effort.

DHS/OHA can leverage the REAL+D legislation as an opportunity to build common data architecture for capturing, maintaining and accessing key client information to:

- Reduce data duplication
- Improve data integrity
- Simplify data integration and interfaces
- Reduce long term data maintenance costs
- Build a comprehensive, 360 degree view of DHS/OHA clients
- Streamline and align policies and procedures

Creation of a Master Client Data Service has direct and indirect ties to several outcome measures for the Department of Human Services:

- Service Equity;
- Employee Engagement;
- Customer Satisfaction
- Workforce Diversity

It is also tied to several DHS' Breakthroughs:

- Service Equity
- IT Breakthrough: REAL+D Strategy
- IT Breakthrough: Data Strategy

The opportunity to implement data standards, architecture, and governance to address these outcomes and breakthroughs is tremendous, and will foster better business practices, as well as result in technology improvements to ensure future flexibility and long term data quality across the agencies.

Preliminary Alternatives Analysis

The assumptions provided in this high level business case are a result of the previous agency findings since the original REAL policy was approved by DHS and OHA in 2012. Effective June 2014-June 2015, a business analysis and planning team will be gathering the following information:

1. Data governance: inventory the variations and gaps in terminology, definitions, utilization and collection procedures for REAL+D data elements and undertake a reconciliation process to bring into alignment with the required standards and identify ways to meet specific utilization requirements
2. Additional Current State Analysis: DHS and OHA will build upon previous analysis work to complete a current state assessment and analysis of current business practices and IT systems that collect maintain (update) or use REAL+D data. This would include a complete accurate inventory of all systems, business processes, programs and stakeholders that collect, maintain, or use REAL+D data.
 - a. Current State Analysis: Business Processes by Business Unit
 - b. Current State Analysis: System
3. Projects “In-Flight” Analysis: Identify any current projects that may be impacted by the REAL+D requirements.
4. Future State Implementation Approaches:
 - a. Roadmap for DHS and OHA for compliance to the REAL+D rule addressing the people, process and technology components
 - b. Business Case with alternatives analysis for a solution to address REAL+D, including considerations for a Master Data Management approach

Please Note: Upon completion of that analysis, there may be additional assumptions added to this section.

Assumptions

1. Timeframes

There is no specific implementation/compliance timeframe for the REAL+D rule, however, DHS and OHA needs to have a plan for how they will address rule compliance. Other agency initiatives such as enrollment and eligibility systems, case management and other systems or initiatives that rely upon client information would greatly benefit from a reusable Master Client Data Service that establishes a comprehensive, reliable “golden record” for each client. Assuming the agencies are supported in the investment of establishing a Master Client Data Service, we currently estimate that it would take the 2015-2017 biennium’s to “stand-up” the service. However, it will take longer for current systems to begin to consume that service. The roadmap will be highly driven by systems lifecycle, federal reporting requirements, priorities of the agencies and decisions on the overall project portfolio of the agencies.

2. Data Governance

The building and implementation of a Data Virtualization and a MDM approach will require executive level support and commitment from DHS and OHA. Implementation and integration of the solution across legacy systems would be prioritized by the business (DHS and OHA). A data governance group with representation from both agencies would be responsible for dictating data standards, rules, and policies. They would also be responsible for the coordination between state, federal and community partners to reduce data duplication, streamline data policies, and perform other data oversight functions. There are current proposals to establish enterprise data governance with a focus of enterprise case and client.

3. Business Transition

All programs providing direct support to clients and/or gathering demographic client information will be impacted by the REAL+D rule. This requires business process updates across the agencies and programs to collect REAL+D data.. The existence of a “Master Client Data Service” does not automatically assume that all agency programs, processes, forms, surveys or practices consume the service. The agencies will need to include activities to train and transition into an enterprise model of data management relevant to a client master. Staff training will be required for REAL+D data collection and communications to support client awareness of the new policy and requests for demographic data.

4. Technology & Technology Services

When the Policy Option Package was originally prepared, there was an assumption that the existing technology investment in Oracle Master Data Management (Oracle MDM) could be leveraged to support the creation of a Master Client Data Service. Since that time, the agency did a Technology Architecture Simplification Assessment to determine overall Integrated Eligibility Architecture needs. As a result of that assessment, it was determined that Oracle MDM would not be a good fit in the organization and therefore, this effort would need to consider other options. The enterprise architect and technical architects are currently exploring alternatives and opportunities in leveraging other master data management, data quality and data virtualization tools which are expected to be a part of a larger integrated enterprise architecture for DHS and OHA. There are assumptions that the agency would need external subject matter expertise would be needed to validate the available technology tools or recommend other tools that would address the agency requirements for data quality and data management. Additionally, the agency would require the provisioning of a systems integrator to architect, design, and implement the solution. The implementation of the solution would need to include a selected current and/or new data system to consume the service. The service and implementation approach would need to be repeatable and reusable for legacy systems as well as any new systems that are implemented in the agencies going forward. The new staff identified in the Master Client Data Service 2015-2017 POP would ultimately maintain the service.

5. Enterprise Data Definitions

The current OHA and DHS work effort to create enterprise definitions and standards for “client” and associated client attributes will support the development of a Master Client Data Service.

6. Funding

There is a 2015-2017 Policy Option Package funding request to fund the effort. Approved POP funds would be used to architect, design and implement re-useable approaches for systems to utilize a Master Client Data Service including application interfaces for current systems to leverage the master data repository.

Preliminary Solution Requirements

Please Note: The following is an initial set of functional and non-functional requirements. As a result of the current analysis and planning efforts, additional functional and non-functional requirements will be provided in the “detailed business case” and in preparation for state stage gates 2 and 3.

Business Requirements

In order to meet the business needs described above, the following requirements are considered the minimum necessary business functionality for the Master Client Data Service:

- Supports client data management across both OHA and DHS (collection, editing and reporting).
- Reduces need to re-enter same information across multiple agency programs.
- Supports self-service access for clients to enter and maintain basic person and REAL+D data.
- Provides ability for appropriate DHS and OHA staff to view and enter basic person and REAL+D data.
- Aggregates client service data and REAL+D data across DHS and OHA programs for reporting and a comprehensive view of the client, including “roll-up” capability to aggregate data to meet federal demographic data standards
- Provide secure, easily accessible, comprehensive data
- Support standardized, streamlined client data management and intake processing
- Reduce risks of privacy and/or identity theft violations by reducing redundant data sources, storage, and access needs

Technical Functional and Non-Functional Requirements

In order to meet the business needs described above, the following requirements are considered the minimum necessary technical functionality for the Master Client Data Service:

1. Master Data Management (MDM) Capabilities

Master Data is the consistent, available data of quality representing the core of the enterprise's trusted source of standardized information to be used across the agencies. Having the capabilities to manage a master record for enterprise class data is critical in unifying the business in not only the use of the data, but more importantly the definition of the data through data standards documented through a data dictionary.

Functional Requirements

- An ability to consolidate and synchronize master data across the enterprise
- An ability to manage, cleanse, and enrich structured and unstructured master data
- MDM must seamlessly integrate with modern Service Oriented Architectures to manage the master data across the many systems (internal and external) responsible for data entry
- Must seamlessly integrate with data warehouses, Enterprise Performance Management (EPM) applications, and all Business Intelligence (BI) systems
- Data access — A set of data access methods that supports direct real time access as well as batch and Data as a Service
- Ease of navigation
- A flexible, extensible and open data model to hold the master data and all needed attributes (both structured and unstructured). In addition, the data model must be application neutral, yet support OLTP workloads and directly connected applications.
- A data migration service for initial loads and periodic updates.
- A metadata management capability for items such as business entity relationships matrices and hierarchies
- A source system management capability to fully cross-reference business objects and to satisfy seemingly conflicting data ownership requirements
- A data quality function that can find and eliminate duplicate data while insuring correct data attribute survivorship
- A set of data quality functions that can manage structured and unstructured data
- A data quality interface to assist with preventing new errors from entering the system even when data entry is outside the MDM applications themselves
- A continuing data cleansing function to keep the data up to date
- An internal triggering mechanism to create and deploy change information to all connected systems
- A comprehensive role based data security system to control and monitor data access, update rights, and maintain change history
- A flexible business rules engine for managing master data processes such as privacy and data movement
- A user interface to support casual users and data stewards.
- A data migration management capability to insure consistency as data moves across the real time enterprise
- A business intelligence structure to support profiling, compliance, and business performance indicators

- An analytical foundation for directly analyzing master data
- A highly available and scalable platform for mission critical data access under heavy mixed workloads
- A means of usage monitoring
- Support for master data provenance tracing

Non-Functional Requirements

- Identification of primary data elements to be captured as master data
- Identification and management of business rules for managing master data process, e.g., privacy and data movement
- Design and maintenance of master data management processes
- Support of data governance — MDM executes data governance rules
 - Policy establishment and enforcement
 - Data ownership
 - Data standardization
 - Interoperability standards
 - Enablement of strong data controls across the enterprise
- Data quality
- Data modeling
- Data maintenance process
- Data change management
- Quality management
- Management of role access rights
- Audit management
- Internal customer support
- Data standards management

2. Data Quality Tools

Data quality tools are used to manage business' defined characteristics to determine the reliability of data for making business decisions.

Functional Requirements

- A means of profiling the data
- A means of ensuring that all relevant data is linked, e.g., person, client and case
- A means of ensuring data accuracy, e.g., common data issues like spelling, misuse of abbreviations and field usage are cleaned up
- A means of assessing data availability, i.e., users do not need to manually search for data
- A means of assessing the timeliness of the data, i.e., the data is up to date
- A means of assessing data validity
- A means of assessing data integrity, uniqueness, consistency, and precision
- A data profiling capability - initially assessing the data to understand its quality challenges
- A business rules engine that ensures that data conforms to quality rules
- An ability to perform geocoding - for name and address data. Corrects data to U.S. and Worldwide postal standards
- A matching and/or linking capability - a way to compare data so that similar, but slightly different records can be aligned. Matching may use "fuzzy logic" to find duplicates in the data. It often recognizes that 'Bob' and 'Robert' may be the same individual. It might be able to manage 'household', or finding links between spouses at the same address, for example.

- A means of data quality monitoring - keeping track of data quality over time and reporting variations in the quality of data
 - Software can also auto-correct the variations based on pre-defined business rules
- A capability for batch and real time data cleaning
- Data set completeness and relevance
- Completeness of records
- Data usability

Non-Functional Requirements

- Data governance
- Data stewardship
- Data standardization
- Data quality standards
- Data quality rules
 - Rules about business objects or entities
 - Rules about data elements or business attributes
 - Rules pertaining to various types of dependencies between business entities or attributes
 - Data validity rules
- Building a process into enterprise applications to keep their data clean

3. Design and support of service oriented architecture

Understanding the business drivers and requirements for a service is important in designing and supporting an SOA. SOA is partly about fixing existing architectures and building new architectures by treating major systems as services, turning them into enterprise-wide solutions. A service is a self-contained unit of functionality.

Functional Requirements

- Metadata should be provided in a form that software systems can use to configure dynamically by discovery and incorporation of defined services, and also to maintain coherence and integrity
- Metadata should be provided in a form that system designers can understand and manage with a reasonable expenditure of cost and effort
- Defined service architectures and technologies
 - Consumer Interface Layer - These are GUI for end users or apps accessing apps/service interfaces
 - Business Process Layer - These are choreographed services representing business use-cases in terms of applications
 - Services - Services are consolidated together for whole enterprise in service inventory
 - Service Components - The components used to build the services, like functional and technical libraries, technological interfaces etc.
 - Operational Systems - This layer contains the data models, enterprise data repository, technological platforms etc.
- Cross-cutting vertical layers applied to and supported by the horizontal layers above

- Integration Layer - starts with platform integration (protocols support), data integration, service integration, application integration, leading to enterprise application integration supporting business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C)
- Quality of Service - Security, availability, performance etc. constitute the quality of service which are configured based on required service level agreements (SLAs)
- Informational - provide business information
- Governance - IT strategy is governed to each horizontal layer to achieve required operating and capability model
- Standardized APIs (application programming interface)
- Standardized formats and protocols in use
- Automated discovery and usage
- Service is abstracted from application implementation
- Precise, published specification functionality of service interface
- Formal contract between endpoints places obligations on provider and consumer
- Functionality presented at a granularity recognized by the user as a meaningful service

Non-Functional Requirements

- IT governance
- Definition of service
- Service principles
- Reuse of services within applications by the business
- Policies, practices and frameworks by which the right services are provided and consumed
- Insurance that there are at least two different processes for provider and consumer organizations

4. Privacy Legal – Support data masking, data auditing and other privacy needs

Auditing is not only about who has access to what systems, but also what data. Auditing is critical to helping identify who has had access in the case of a breach as well as compliance with various program rules and state and federal law; HIPAA is an example of a law that has an auditing requirement.

Functional Requirements

- Methods for creating structurally similar but scrubbed data that removes any PII (personally identifiable information) or PHI (protected health information) from data

Data Masking

- Maintenance of application integrity during the masking process
- Identification of applications referencing the data to be masked
- Maintenance of metadata knowledge of application architectures involving data to be masked
- Verification of masking
- Testing of data masking values (i.e., masking trials) to ensure that masking does not affect application development and testing
- Application testing to determine whether the resulting masked data can be turned over to the non-production users
- Ability to report on changes made during data masking

- Identification of masking algorithms representing the optimal techniques to replace the original sensitive data
- Creation of a masking library
- Masking should not be reversible
- Masked data should resemble production data, i.e., the results must be representative of the source data
- Referential integrity of the data should be maintained
- Masking should be a repeatable process
- Only mask non-sensitive data if it can be used to recreate sensitive data
- The data masking solution should also be able to take care of triggers, keys, indices etc. It should be able to discover relationships between all database objects automatically and should be able to maintain the state accordingly
- If the solution is being purchased, then organization should also look for support for pre-packaged masked data for general requirements like credit card numbers, Social Security Numbers etc. The solution in question should be have sample data read

Data Auditing

- Check for object and system permissions
- Look for new database installations
- Search for users with data base administrator (DBA) privileges
- Audit database configuration and settings
- Check database system objects against system changes
- Ability to report on audits
- Access and authentication auditing, i.e., who accessed which systems, when, and how
- User and administrator auditing - what activities were performed in the database by both users and administrators
- Security activity monitoring -- identify and flag any suspicious, unusual or abnormal access to sensitive data or critical systems
- Vulnerability and threat auditing -- detect vulnerabilities in the database, then monitor for users attempting to exploit them
- Change auditing -- establish a baseline policy for database; configuration, schema, users, privileges and structure, then track deviations from that baseline
- “Outside in” and Inside out” scan of all database applications to assess security strength and database vulnerabilities, as well as application discovery and inventory
- Fix security holes and misconfigurations
- Real-time monitoring to defend against misuse, fraud, and abuse from internal and external users; monitor all user activity and system changes; and tune detection parameters to capture events while bypassing false positives

Non-Functional Requirements

- Data governance
- Policies and statutes requiring data masking and auditing
- Separation of duties
- Role-based permissions
- Defined roles for data stewards
- Clearly defined privacy policies and guidelines, i.e., legal requirements for data masking

- Identification and location of sensitive or regulated data elements and associated tables, columns, and relationships across enterprise databases
- Develop policies based on results from data audit scanning to identify database vulnerability, roles and responsibilities functionality to segregate users, and compliance risk factors
- Assessment of security posture to assess database security risks, determine processes, applications and systems affected, and prioritize risk
- Document risks and controls
- Establish controls, applying the principle of least privilege and role based access controls

5. Security – Roles-based access control (RBAC)

RBAC for Health and Human Services solutions should be modeled after the ANSI/INCITS RBAC model. This is a model standard that was formalized in 2004. The basic principal is that data/system access is associated with business roles and not people. This allows permissions to be granted or revoked to roles as the needs come and go. This model allows the development of access rules through policy in accordance with laws, program requirements and agency data security standards.

Functional Requirements

- Team of security administrators or data stewards
- Permission administration
- An approval of a mode of access to a resource
- Partially ordered role hierarchy
 - Support for inheritance between roles
- Roles are assigned based on organizational structure with emphasis on the organizational security policy
- Roles are assigned by the administrator based on relative relationships within the organization or user base. For instance, a manager would have certain authorized transactions over his employees. An administrator would have certain authorized transactions over his specific realm of duties (backup, account creation, etc.)
- Each role is designated a profile that includes all authorized commands, transactions, and allowable information access.
- Roles are granted permissions based on the principle of least privilege.
- Roles are determined with a separation of duties in mind so that a developer Role should not overlap a QA tester Role.
- Roles are activated statically and dynamically as appropriate to certain relational triggers (help desk queue, security alert, initiation of a new project, etc.)
- Roles can be only be transferred or delegated using strict sign-offs and procedures.
- Roles are managed centrally by a security administrator or project leader

Non-Functional Requirements

- Data governance
- Data stewards identified, trained, and provided appropriate authority for allowing RBAC
- Identification of the minimum requirement for any system that supports RBAC
- Role identification and assignment
- Role authorization
 - A subject can have multiple roles
 - A role can have multiple subjects

- A role can have many permissions
- A permission can be assigned to many roles
- An operation can be assigned many permissions
- A permission can be assigned to many operations

6. Network and other infrastructure requirements

Network and other infrastructure requirements should be developed and documented based on a balanced blend of business needs and security requirements in accordance with state law, federal law and agency policies.

7. Aligned with EA Principles

The table below articulates the high level requirements in alignment with the EA principles. These principles are aligned with the DHS and OHA Strategic Technology Plan principles.

DHS/OHA EA Principles	Requirement (functional/non-functional)
Consider the Enterprise Perspective First	The solution has to be scalable for OHA and DHS. It needs to help reinforce enterprise data standards yet also support diverse business needs, so that the agencies do not continue to add new silos of client data.
Start with the Business	The solution needs to support wise investments in technology, provide immediate gains and enable the agency to continue to grow and evolve the master client solution. The solution needs to support and enable data quality. The solution needs to support reporting capabilities that provide client outcomes by enabling: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Current and future data analytics and reporting needs. Provide appropriate access to DHS and OHA analytics groups to collect, analyze and report on services related to various demographics, to help reduce health disparities by understanding the causes, design effective responses and evaluate progress. ● The ability to link and analyze data sets from disparate sources, including technology platforms, for manipulating the data ● Easier access to data with the ability to link and analyze data sets from disparate sources The ability to produce standard reports and metrics as well as to model specific risk assessments, conduct program utilization analysis, etc. The solution should enable the agencies to better understand the data that currently exists, supporting data integrity

	through the enablement of business rules. Moreover, the solution needs to support the creation of a “golden record” and help the agencies build a comprehensive view of their clients. This solution needs to help the agencies reduce the maintenance of the data across multiple, silo systems. The solution should also support future efforts to provide a self-service portal so that clients may ultimately have the ability to maintain their own information. The solution needs to support privacy and security requirements including but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ability to secure data and apply roles for data access for internal and external users. • Enable other systems (self-service portals) to allow clients to view, update and maintain their own profile, based upon the data collection requirements. • Enable other systems to allow workers, clients, and the public access to information whenever they need it, when they need it and in the environment they need it in • Provide secure authentication, role-based access to all data an entity is entitled to, as well as confidentiality and privacy management. • Provide secure storage and retrieval of data, data integrity (valid data with minimal duplication). • The solution must have OHA, DHS, other state agency and federal client information requirements included. • This solution needs to be architected and designed to support the OHA/DHS Strategic Technology Plan, the federal direction on increasing interoperability, and state direction in healthcare and human services, as well as Oregon and Federal REAL+D standards • Support the agencies in their collection of information regarding health inequities, so as to improve service delivery. The solution should also support agency initiatives that look at the client from a longitudinal and latitudinal perspective (i.e., services consumed over their life).
Keep It Simple and Practical	The solution must be: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Flexible, agile and easy to adapt to changing data standards and values. • Easy for the business to use and interact with. • The ability to capture data once and re-use it, eliminating duplicate entry of similar data into multiple systems
Leverage Existing Assets	Wherever possible, the solution should leverage current technology, data models or architectures.
Make Information Accessible	The solution must include:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Data quality, management and integrity capabilities.• The ability to capture data as a part of workflow, rather than as a separate data entry activity• Supports for consistent collection and management processes for information• Provide a 360 degree, comprehensive view of the client across programs• Supports for agency MDM processes

Preliminary Alternatives Identification

*(Please Note: Additional costs may be identified through the 2014-2015 analysis and planning efforts and OHA/DHS technical architecture review.)

Alternative 1– Status Quo approach

This approach would require all individual program areas, system owners and development resources to independently modify the existing systems (approximately 40+), to collect REAL+D data in accordance with the Oregon Revised Statutes plus any other related data required by current compliance requirements. This would not support an enterprise comprehensive view of client containing REAL+D information without manual reconciliation of duplicate and conflicting data. Each program would need to prioritize the changes, as well as funding, scheduling and resources to perform this work. The reporting of REAL+D information would be mostly limited to an individual’s programs and services. Clients who receive multiple DHS or OHA services may be asked to provide REAL+D information multiple times in multiple places. Client data recorded in various systems may differ each time it is recorded. Matching and cleansing data across more the forty systems would present time, effort and cost barriers to the use of derived data products. Each update of the data would require a complete replication of the effort creating barriers to data use and constraining utility.

Alternative 2– Phased approach of Data Virtualization and MDM for Master Client Data Service:

Phase 1: This creates an incremental approach to aggregate REAL+D data collected from MAGI Medicaid clients and combine with other agency service information on clients to create an initial comprehensive view of clients relative to REAL+D. Outcomes of this phase would include foundational data and organizational structures which would then support the development of an Master Client Data Service.

Phase 2: Begin to build a “golden record” of clients with the use of the Transfer system’s Master Data Management capabilities and client portal to reduce duplicate data entry of client REAL+D and other client demographic information.

The first phase would support the agency to make some initial progress on the reporting on REAL+D data for client and client populations where the agency has been able to collect information and merge with other service information. This phase would also provide better data for DHS and OHA analytics groups to analyze and report on services, thereby providing better visibility to the agency on areas where they can reduce health and service disparities by understanding their causes, design effective responses and evaluate progress. This 360° view of the client would include the MAGI Medicaid REAL+D client data, allowing the agencies to see what additional program services are received by MAGI Medicaid clients, estimated at over 1 million clients. The agency can leverage data virtualization approaches to integrate related data maintained across a myriad of complex, disparate data silos to provide a virtual 360° view of clients. This would also help to identify DHS and OHA business rules and establishing data quality thresholds across multiple data systems and program areas which are key areas required in order to fully leverage Master Data Management capabilities.

The second phase would focus on leveraging and expanding the use of the Transfer system's Master Data Management (IBM Initiate Master Client Index (MCI), Master Data Management capabilities) solution and client portal. As the MDM solution and client portal are applied across other program areas, the agencies will be building a single version of client data over time, eventually replacing legacy data silos of client demographic data, including REAL+D data. This would ultimately reduce the need for all programs to individually collect client demographic and client REAL+D data. The timing would depend upon the successful launch and stabilization of the Transfer system which is targeted for initial implementation in December 2015 and would not be available for modifications until mid-2016. The Transfer System implementation and population of MAGI Medicaid client data could be a starting point. However, based upon the current scope of implementation, client records would not update legacy data systems with new information. Expansion of the Transfer System's MDM capabilities would still need to address reconciliation of the data to reduce duplication of collected data and other program use of the data outside the scope of MAGI Medicaid.

Alternative 3–Do Nothing Until MAGI Medicaid Transfer System's MDM Tool Available:

Delay progress on implementing REAL+D until the Transfer system's Master Data Management capabilities are available. The timing would depend upon the successful launch and stabilization of the Transfer system which is targeted for initial implementation in December 2015 and would not be available for modifications until mid-2016. Once the MDM tools are available, they can be used to further define and expand the data to build out a client golden record which could support client and staff portals as well as integrating with legacy systems. This approach would leverage the customer portal capabilities, to allow clients to provide REAL+D information. Prior to implementation, the agency would need to identify enterprise business rules and data quality thresholds to define the "golden client" record. This client record would replace other client data sources and could then be leveraged as a potential single, well-defined version of client data which could be expanded over time to include additional client data needed to support other programs.

Conclusions and Recommendations

Conclusions

Overall, DHS and OHA recommend a more sustainable model of maintaining client information compared to the myriad of data silos existing today. There have been, and will continue to be various initiatives and projects that would benefit from a Master Client Data Service. Upon successful implementation of a Master Client Data Service, the model could be reused for other master data efforts such as provider and partner data. DHS and OHA are collecting metrics to further express the total cost of operation and impact to the agency to support the REAL+D rule, during the period of June 2014-June 2015. If the agencies continue to perform “business as usual” (i.e., modifying all data systems separately to gather client demographic data), the amount of time to implement the REAL+D requirements will be longer and continue the data integrity and duplication issues of the past. The total cost of ownership and operation of doing business the “usual” way will increase over time through expanding support costs of multiple legacy systems. Additionally, the agencies will continue to struggle to provide a “comprehensive view of the client” and will have challenges accurately and effectively reporting on health disparities.

Recommendations

DHS and OHA recommend Alternative 2- Phased Approach of Data Virtualization and MDM in the development and establishment of a Master Client Data Service that can be consumed by various systems and programs in a reusable implementation model. This requires the agencies to establish enterprise data management, governance and standards. Business processes to collect and maintain client information would also need to be adapted over time to effectively utilize enterprise data standards and the Master Client Data Service.

In order to address this need in a comprehensive, efficient and forward looking way, DHS and OHA want to avoid building another stand-alone redundant reporting system and are proposing to apply Master Data Management principles and practices to build a Master Client Data Service.

Building a Master Client Data Service will meet the Department of Human Services’ (DHS) and Oregon Health Authority’s (OHA) need for a unified, sustainable model for collecting, managing, and reporting client data across their 50+ programs which support over 1.3 million Oregonians (reference: Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis (OFRA), Integrated Client Services Data Warehouse). The Master Client Data System will also provide the foundation for future system modernization of the state’s antiquated systems.

An enterprise Master Client Data Service will champion the DHS /OHA Strategic Technical Plan’s (STP) primary strategies of a Comprehensive View of Clients and a Trusted Source of Health and Human Services Data, as well as, support the business objective of health and service equity for all programs and activities within DHS and OHA. The DHS/OHA Master Client Data Service would provide a fundamental step in this effort providing an infrastructure in support of those priorities. The IT investment time period for REAL+D will be approximately two years spanning July of 2015 through June of 2017.

Consequences of Failure to Act on REAL+D Implementation

- Lack of ability to effectively and efficiently comply with the federal and state reporting requirements for collecting client demographic data, leading to financial implications.
- Ongoing data duplication and integrity issues.
- The agencies would be forced to do “business as usual” resulting in an overall increase to total cost of operation to DHS and OHA and their IT systems.
- Exponentially increasing costs of maintain legacy client data systems.
- Inability to adhere to REAL+D standards of House Bill 2134 and OAR 943-070-000 to 943-070-0070

Business Case Document:

As stated in the executive summary, this version of the document serves as the high level business case for the Master Client Data Service. A detailed business case will be developed as a result of the REAL+D Planning and Analysis work. The estimated date for completion of a detailed business case is May 2015.

Supporting Work Effort:

The REAL+D Planning and Analysis work will involve various DHS and OHA program staff, current IT system specialists and external interest groups. A Steering Committee is being formed to govern and advise in the analysis work effort which will be chaired by DHS Office of Equity and Multicultural Services (OEMS) and OHA Office of Equity and Inclusion(OEI). Data governance process will be initiated to compile and reconcile variations in REAL+D terminology, definitions, recorded values, usage and collection standards. Artifacts that are developed from this work such as the current state assessment and detailed business case will have external Quality Assurance review.

Funding:

A 2015-2017 Policy Option Package has been submitted for the “Master Client Data Service” within package initiative “Race, Ethnicity, and Language plus Disability” have been submitted by the DHS Office of Equity and Multicultural Services (OEMS) and OHA Office of Equity and Inclusion.

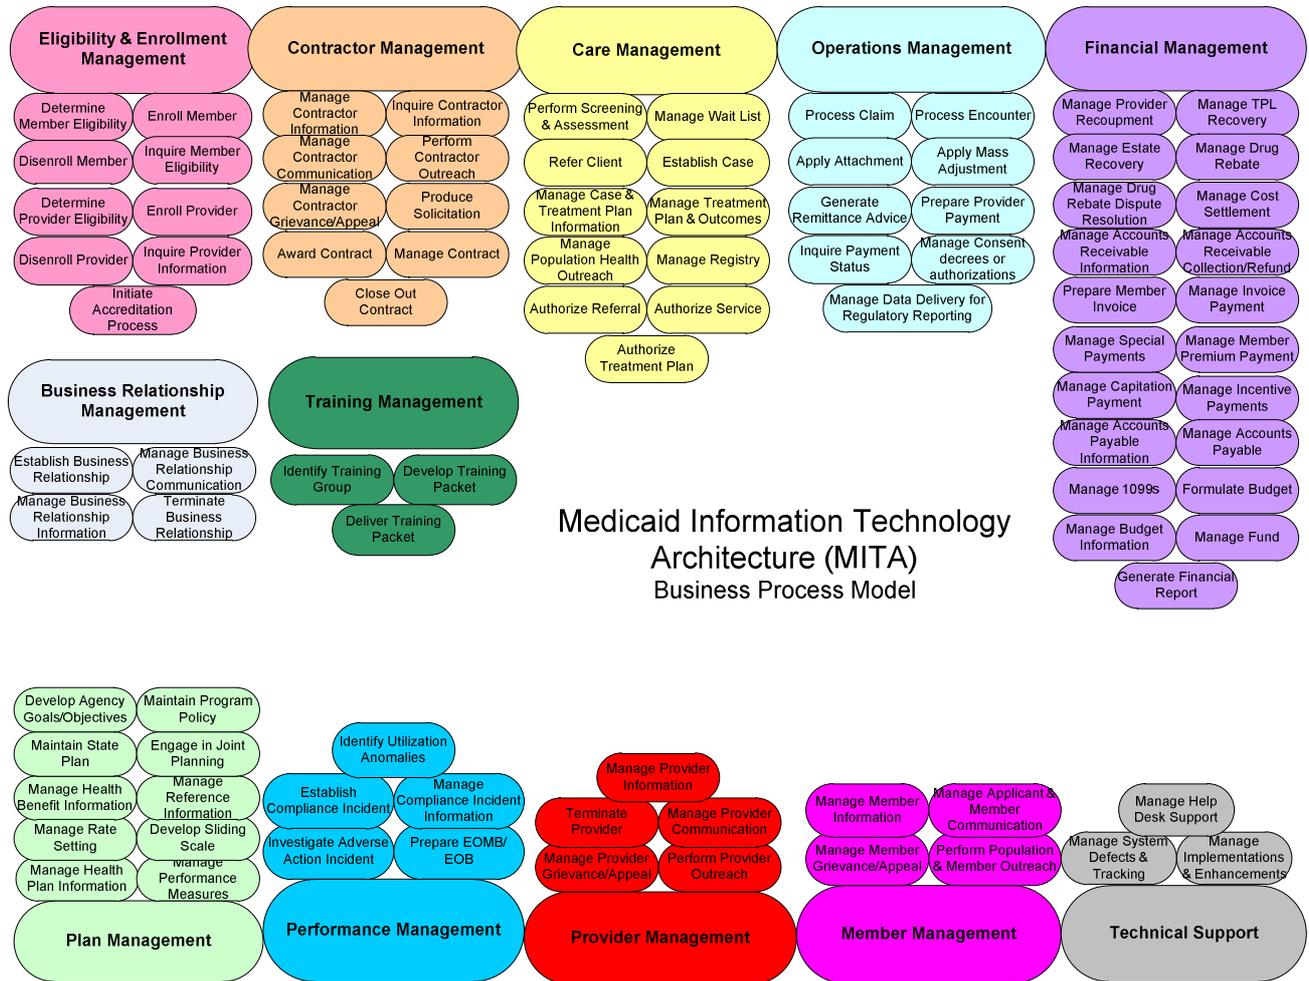

Project:

Until the 2014-2015 REAL+D Analysis and Planning work is complete and Master Client Data Service POP is approved, there will not be the initiation of the Master Client Data Service project.

2013-2014 KPM #	2013-2014 Approved Key Performance Measures (KPMs)
1	OVRS CLOSED - EMPLOYED – The percentage of Office of Vocational Rehabilitation Services (OVRS) consumers with a goal of employment who are employed.
2	TANF FAMILY STABILITY – The percentage of children entering foster care who had received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months.
3	TANF RE-ENTRY - The percentage of Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) cases who have not returned within 18 months after exit due to employment.
4	SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) UTILIZATION - The ratio of Oregonians served by SNAP to the number of low-income Oregonians.
5	SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) ACCURACY - The percentage of accurate SNAP payments
6	ENHANCED CHILD CARE - The percentage of children receiving care from providers who are receiving the enhanced or licensed rate for child care subsidized by DHS
7	ABSENCE OF REPEAT MALTREATMENT - The percentage of abused/neglected children who were not subsequently victimized within 6 months of prior victimization.
8	TIMELINESS AND PERMANENCY OF REUNIFICATION OF CHILDREN
9	TIMELINESS OF FOSTER CARE RELATED ADOPTIONS
10	LTC NEED PREVENTION - Percentage of seniors (65+) needing publicly-funded long term care services.
11	LTC RECIPIENTS LIVING OUTSIDE OF NURSING FACILITIES – The percentage of Oregonians accessing publicly-funded long-term care services who are living outside of nursing facilities.
12	DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITY SUPPORT SERVICES - The percentage of eligible adults who are receiving adult support services within 90 days of request.
13	PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES IN COMMUNITY SETTINGS – The percentage of individuals with developmental disabilities who live in community settings of five or fewer.

2013-2014 KPM #	2013-2014 Approved Key Performance Measures (KPMs)
14	INTEGRATED EMPLOYMENT SETTINGS - The percentage of adults with developmental disabilities who receive ODDS services who are working in integrated employment settings.
15	ABUSE OF PEOPLE WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES - The percentage of people with developmental disabilities experiencing abuse.
16	PLACEHOLDER: ADULT PROTECTIVE SERVICES
18	PLACEHOLDER: SERVICE EQUITY

New Delete	Proposed Key Performance Measures (KPM's) for Biennium 2015-2017
NEW	Title: TANF FAMILY STABILITY – The percentage of children receiving TANF who entered foster. Rationale: This measure is the inverse of the previous KPM of the same name. The change in the measure is meant to make it more TANF program specific.
NEW	Title: TIMELY REUNIFICATION - The percentage of foster children exiting to reunification within 12 months of foster care entry. Rationale: The composite measure was hard to understand and interpret. This measure is more straightforward and focuses on the goal of DHS to reunify children who enter foster care in a timely fashion.
NEW	Title: PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES LIVING AT HOME – The percentage of individuals enrolled in the Intellectual/Developmental disabilities program who are receiving services in their own home. Rationale: This measure more directly demonstrates the goal DHS has to help people live as independently as possible. The prior measure was a focus on those living in a community setting. The new measure sets a higher standard.
NEW	Title: ABUSE OF PEOPLE WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES - The percentage of people with developmental disabilities in licensed settings who experienced abuse. Rationale: This change is a language change only, to clarify the abuse is occurring in a licensed setting.
NEW	Title: ABUSE OF PEOPLE WITH PHYSICAL DISABILITIES OR THOSE OVER AGE 65: The percentage of people with physical disabilities and those over the age of 65 in licensed settings who experienced abuse. Rationale: This was a placeholder measure. The proposed measure is one showing the abuse rate of those placed in a licensed setting that experience abuse for the Aging and Peoples with Disabilities program area.
NEW	Title: SERVICE EQUITYThe rate of unduplicated DHS clients served per 1,000 of Oregon population at or below 185% FPL for All Communities of Color and broken down by:• African American, Non-Hispanic• Native American/Alaska Native, Non-Hispanic • Asian, Non-Hispanic • Pacific Islander, Non-Hispanic • Hispanic – all races Rationale: This was a placeholder measure.The proposed measure will show whether clients of each reported race group is over-represented or under-represented compared to all clients served by DHS. Note that neither higher or lower is necessarily better, but being close to the overall population rate per 1,000 is the goal.The intent is to have a view, much like with Customer Satisfaction, so that each category can be shown in the chart.

NEW	Title: Children Served by Child Welfare Residing In Parental Home: The percent of children served in Child Welfare on an average daily basis (In Home and Foster Care) who were served while residing in their parent's home. Rationale: Oregon has been focusing on the safe and equitable reduction of children in foster care. This new measure allows for us to show the proportion of children served by Child Welfare who are able to reside in their own home.
NEW	Title: Timeliness of Adoption Once Legally Free: Percent of Legally free children adopted in less than 12 months Rationale: Once a child has been determined to be legally free, that is, all parental rights have been terminated or relinquished, this measure shows how successful Oregon is on finalizing adoptions within a timely fashion.
NEW	Title: TANF JOBS PLACEMENTS: The percentage of clients who achieve job placement each month compared to those anticipated to achieve placement. Rationale: This measure shows how well the TANF program is doing to get clients in a job placement compared to predetermined goals. This is an important measurement for the TANF JOBS program and an important measure of client engagement in achieving self-sufficiency.
DELETE	Title: TANF FAMILY STABILITY – The percentage of children entering foster care who had received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months. Rationale:

1. SCOPE OF REPORT

This report covers a broad array of programs throughout the Department of Human Services (DHS), such as employment, child well-being, and independence of seniors and people with intellectual and developmental disabilities that support the mission and goals of the agency. The purpose of this annual performance report is to communicate the results of the work we do. While the primary audience of this report is the Oregon Legislature and other key stakeholders, it is also a communication tool for staff, other governmental agencies and the public.

2. THE OREGON CONTEXT

The Oregon Department of Human Services helps achieve Oregon's goals. The agency's mission is to help Oregonians in their own communities achieve safety, well-being and independence through services that protect, empower, respect choice and preserve dignity. DHS is responsible for the care of some of Oregon's most vulnerable citizens – children, families, people with intellectual and developmental disabilities, and seniors. DHS is also responsible for serving Oregonians at times when they are most in need – when they have experienced abuse, when they are hungry, when they are homeless. Every year, more than one million people rely on DHS services to meet their most basic needs and their efforts to achieve economic stability and independence. DHS works to ensure these outcomes and tracks agency progress toward their successful achievement.

3. PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

DHS achieved green status on eleven (55.6%) Key Performance Measures. One (11.1%) KPM achieved yellow status. Three (22.2%) achieved red status, one measure does not have a Target established for 2013 and another two measures are Pending legislative approval. Green status = Target to -5% Yellow status = Target -6% to -15% Red status = Target > -15%

4. CHALLENGES

Poor economic conditions and unemployment appear to have an influence on many of our measures. Cuts in funding and limited resources (such as staff and providers) have an impact on whether or not we can achieve our desired results. Other challenges include the fact that the work of DHS is complex and requires coordinated efforts to see an impact on the results. It's not uncommon for clients to have multiple barriers to face. They may have drug or alcohol abuse issues, involvement with law enforcement, have mental health challenges, or be unemployed.

It continues to be a challenge to connect the daily work of the agency to intermediate and high level outcomes. However, doing so will enable us to prioritize and clarify the results of what we do (effectiveness) and the importance of efficient processes, thereby creating a culture throughout DHS by which all managers and staff rigorously use performance measures and other metrics for decision-making, managing the daily work and driving improvements throughout the agency. More effective communication with the public and stakeholders of the value of DHS services is desired as we attempt to educate others about our role as good stewards of public resources.

KPM #1	OVRS CLOSED - EMPLOYED – The percentage of Office of Vocational Rehabilitation Services (OVRS) consumers with a goal of employment who are employed.	1997
Goal	People are living as independently as possible.
Oregon Context	Percentage of individuals receiving services who had employment outcomes during the state fiscal year.
Data Source	Office of Vocational Rehabilitation Services Core Performance Status Summary Report
Owner	DHS - Vocational Rehabilitation, David Ritacco, 503-945-6720

1. OUR STRATEGY

Obtaining and maintaining suitable employment is consistent with the Department’s goal of assisting people to live independently. This outcome measure shows how successful DHS and its partners are at helping people with disabilities become employed in local communities. Based on a Harris Survey of Americans with Disabilities, “Two out of three unemployed people with disabilities would prefer to be working.” During State Fiscal Year 2011, VR clients who closed with employment earned an average wage of $11.76 an hour and worked an average of 27 hours per week.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

This target, often internally referred to as the success rate, reports the percentage of vocational rehabilitation clients who have received services and maintained suitable employment for a minimum of 90 consecutive days and who have exited the program. A higher percentage indicates more individuals obtaining successful employment outcomes.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

OVRs’ performance declined on this measure with the imposition of the Order of Selection on January 15, 2009, which requires that OVRs serve the most severely disabled clients first, as well with the decline in the labor market during the past year. However, the performance began to improve in FFY11 increasing from 47% in FFY10 to 57% in FFY11. Currently, OVRs’ percentage of individuals receiving services who had employment outcomes for FFY13 through September 2013 was 60%.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

All 50 states have a state run general VR program. The State of Oregon’s VR program is required to meet or exceed a national performance level of 55.8 percent. As such, this percentage is considered a minimum acceptable number. The State of Oregon’s VR program met this measure in FFY 13 (60%).

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

There is one factor which will impact Oregon’s performance. The Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) requires totally different performance measures than is currently reported under the KPM. A higher percentage obtaining a rehabilitation may actually be detrimental to meeting the current WIOA performance measures (long term job retention and post-secondary education and training completion).

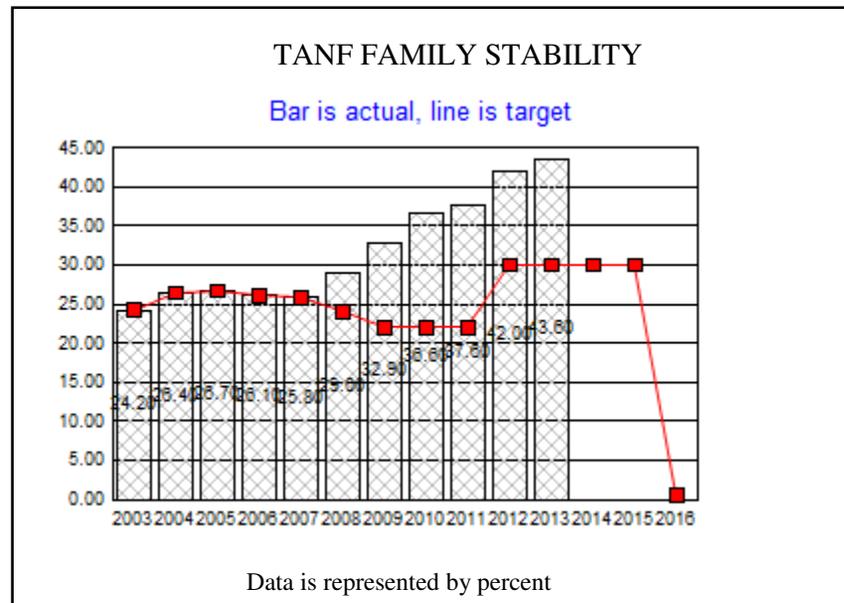

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

The VR program will continue to conduct program monitoring and implement any necessary program improvements based on the data analysis.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle – federal fiscal year. The success rate calculation is based on dividing the number of clients who exited the VR program in employment by the number of clients who exited the VR program after receiving services, multiplied by 100. VR relies on a state and federal relationship. Federal funding requires a state match of 21.3 percent and this has worked well for over 80 years but under the current appropriations, the VR program can meet the needs of only a small percentage of people with disabilities who live in Oregon. The VR program continues to look at state population distributions and have relocated staff to meet the increased demands in specific areas.

KPM #2	TANF FAMILY STABILITY – The percentage of children entering foster care who had received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months.	2007
Goal	People are safe
Oregon Context	Oregon Benchmark #51 - Number of children per 1,000 persons under 18, who are: a) neglected/abused, b) at substantial risk of being neglected/abused.
Data Source	Cumulative Federal Fiscal report cycle using AFCARS quarterly is used to identify the number of children entering foster care and Client Maintenance System to identify whether those children were from a household that received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months (referred to as TANF children). The number of TANF children is divided by the total number of children entering foster care for the federal fiscal year to arrive at the percent of children entering foster care who had received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months.
Owner	DHS - Self Sufficiency, Xochitl Esparza, TANF Manager, 503-945-6122

1. OUR STRATEGY

This measure tracks the movement of low-income children who leave the TANF program and enter foster care within two months of exit. This is designed to increase the overall effectiveness of the TANF program's family stability efforts.

The programs and services provided include supports to meet immediate needs and holistic family assessments, prevention (Family Support and Connections); Families are offered a holistic family assessment including screenings for physical health, substance abuse, mental health, domestic violence, learning needs and other family stability issues.

Family Support and Connections provides supports to prevent children in at-risk TANF families from entering the child welfare system. Home and community based services are used to guide interventions that build on family strengths and address family functioning issues. The services are designed to strengthen and support families by increasing parental protective factors and addressing risk factors related to child abuse. Temporary Assistance to Domestic Violence Survivors (TA-DVS) provides temporary financial assistance and support services to families with children who need to flee and stay free from domestic violence. TA-DVS is used to help the domestic violence survivor and the children address their safety concerns and to stabilize their living situation, thus reducing the likelihood of the survivor returning to the abuser. The array of these TANF services are intended to support and maintain the safety of these vulnerable children and their parents, and can prevent sometimes life-threatening situations. These services also help prevent child abuse and the need for child welfare intervention.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

Our objective is to decrease the percentage of children being served by the TANF cash assistance program who enter the foster care system.

DHS used the 2003 through 2007 performance data to establish a baseline. The FY2013 data indicates Foster Care entries are decreasing and TANF cash assistance cases are on the rise which could result in an increase in the percentage of TANF children entering foster care.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

In FFY2007, 25.8 percent of the children entering foster care had received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months. The rate increased to 43.6 percent for FFY2013.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

This is a unique measure for Oregon and, therefore, there is a lack of data from other states for purposes of a comparison. However, a comparison of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and child welfare caseloads in California, Illinois and North Carolina found the majority of children entering foster care had been removed from AFDC-eligible households (U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office of Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation, 2000).

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

The factors affecting results include: multiple child abuse risk factors present in families such as, alcohol or drug abuse, parental involvement with law enforcement, domestic violence, homelessness, previous child welfare involvement and unemployment. Often, there are several of these factors in families of child abuse/neglect victims. Following a national trend, the number of Oregon TANF children entering foster care has increased in direct relationship to more families entering poverty. This has resulted in an impact in the total number of children going into foster care as reported in the KPM.

Since the recession and the slow economic recovery, Oregonians continue accessing programs for low-income families such as TANF. The data table shows the percentage of children entering foster care who had received TANF has also been increasing. Contributing factors include higher case loads, broader demographic of families entering TANF and fewer community resources.

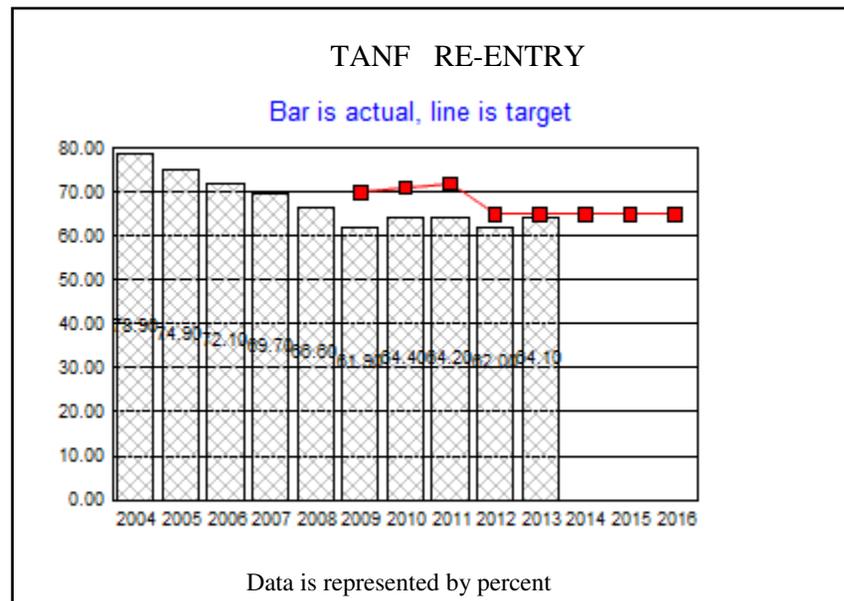

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

We will continue to monitor data and trends related to family stability, child abuse and foster care utilization. Oregon has also increased the workforce capacity to provide enhanced case management services and intervene much earlier with appropriate services in support of struggling families. When family stability and parenting skills increase as a result of case management and services provided increasing parental protective factors will decrease the need for child welfare resources.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle - Federal Fiscal year. AFCARS quarterly data is used to identify the number of children entering foster care and Client Maintenance System to identify whether those children were from a household that received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months (referred to as TANF children). The number of TANF children is divided by the total number of children entering foster care for the federal fiscal year to arrive at the percent of children entering foster care who had received TANF cash assistance within the prior two months. The percentage can be skewed by differing rate of increase/decrease of the two programs. As of FFY 2013 Foster Care entries are decreasing and TANF cash assistance cases are on the rise, this can cause an increase in the percentages.

1. OUR STRATEGY

One of the main goals of the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Job Opportunities and Basic Skills (JOBS) program is to help clients find and maintain employment. The longer clients can stay employed, the higher their wages will be. The department's strategies are focused on meeting people where they are at, and as part of this we strive to give clients the tools they need to be successful in the workplace and to reduce incidences of returning to assistance. Our partners include other state agencies such as the Employment Department and Community Colleges and Workforce Development. We also work closely with county-based services, JOBS program providers, and community social service partners.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

Our objective is to increase the number of former TANF clients who do not require future TANF cash assistance. Due to the recent economic crisis DHS used only the 2007 performance data to develop a baseline. The target was determined by adding 1% to the baseline performance. The goal for 2014 and 2015 were maintained to consider the prolonged effects of the economic recession. Our goal continues to be focused on achieving high level of success in this area.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

64.1% of TANF clients that left public cash assistance due to employment between January 2013 and December 2013 were not receiving cash assistance 18 months later, an increase from the previous year. This indicates that the majority of TANF clients who left the program due to employment were having relative success in the workplace, or have found other resources to maintain their own and their family's financial independence. The increase also may be indicative of an economy that slowly continues to recover.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

There are no relevant public or private industry standards that directly compare to this measure.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

This measure may be affected by several things, including the status of the economy, the labor market and industry. It can also be affected by the effectiveness of the JOBS program that determines, coordinates, and provides services to assist TANF clients find and retain employment, and offer strategies to enhance wage gain efforts. As the TANF caseload remains relatively high, a smaller percentage of families are able to be served in the JOBS program which also affects the program's ability to help families move off assistance through job placement. As a way to help the state balance its budget shortfall, the JOBS Program budget was reduced by half in 2011-13 compared to the previous biennium budget. This meant that the program was funded to support only 25% of those required to participate in employment or other alternatives. Additionally, the Post TANF payment was progressively reduced and then suspended. In 2013-15, the program was modified to allow for flexibility of services that support families in becoming self-sufficient.

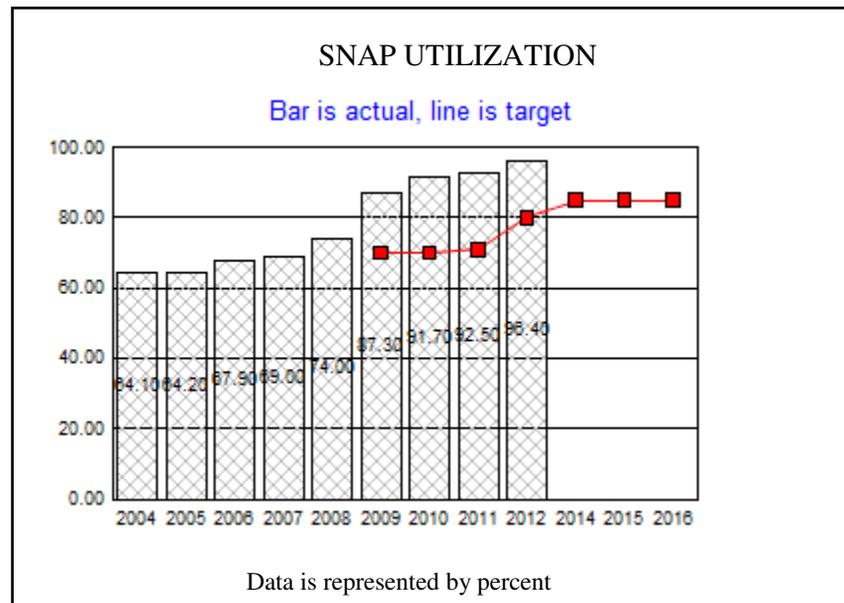

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Further study of this measure is needed to ensure it accurately reflects the TANF/JOBS programs' design in future biennia. This measure was modified for calendar year 2010.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle – Calendar Year. This measure recently changed from counting all clients who left due to employment and are currently off TANF, to counting only clients who have never returned. The methodology and criteria used to obtain the data is adjusted as program changes occur, to ensure the validity of the data. Recidivism and Placement reports are issued separately, on a monthly basis and studied for any potential anomalies, as well as to identify trends in performance. The data is sent to program managers and interested parties.

1. OUR STRATEGY

Our strategy is to maintain our outreach efforts, increase access and continue a focus on customer service. Outreach and education efforts will continue to focus on the most vulnerable populations (children and elderly) and the most under-served (the elderly).

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

Target levels are established to assess the relative improvement in the proportion of Oregonians eligible for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) who are accessing the program. An increase in the proportion eligible that accesses the program is a positive outcome. The targets are set using the Program Access Index (PAI), which is one of the measures Food and Nutrition Services (FNS) uses to reward states for high performance.

The PAI is an index of the average monthly number of SNAP participants over the course of a calendar year to the number of people with income below 125 percent of the official poverty level. FNS computes average monthly participation over a calendar year – rather than the Federal fiscal year – to better align the participation count with the annual poverty measure. FNS makes an adjustment to the counts of participants, the numerator of this index, to better reflect State performance in the administration of SNAP.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

SNAP participation (persons receiving benefits) has increased monthly for several years. In just the last 12-month period (07/2013-07/2014), the number of households receiving SNAP in Oregon decreased: from 443,618 to 439,865 households 789,001 persons, the decline is likely due to increased economic recovery in Oregon. (1 in 5 state residents The DHS SNAP has received federal participation bonuses for the past three federal fiscal years for ranking in the top three states nation-wide in participation rate.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

In 2007 Oregon was ranked number 18 in the nation in participation according to the PAI. In 2008 and 2009, Oregon was ranked second in the nation in SNAP participation based on the PAI and has remained one of the highest ranked states for participation. FNS ranking is based on the number of potential eligibles compared to the number receiving benefits.

There are eight states within the FNS Western Region: Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon and Washington. (Guam is excluded from this comparison because of its small size and temporary suspension of SNAP.) Within the region, Oregon continues to be ranked 1st in participation (5th in the nation), the next closest state is Washington, ranked 8th in the nation. California is last in the Western Region and in the nation (ranked 50th). An additional comparison looks at Oregon and other states outside of the Western Region. These states have similar populations and a similar mix of relatively few urban/population centers with larger rural/remote areas as is found in Oregon. These states are: Alabama, ranked 25th; Kentucky, ranked 14th; Minnesota, 43rd; Oklahoma, ranked 26th; and South Carolina, 24th.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Oregon has had great success in encouraging use of the on-line application, which is one of several efforts to ease access to SNAP benefits. The recession created critical need for basic necessities such as food in households that never expected asking for help. Oregon is also working to expand outreach efforts to identify and remove barriers to the SNAP program in all populations.

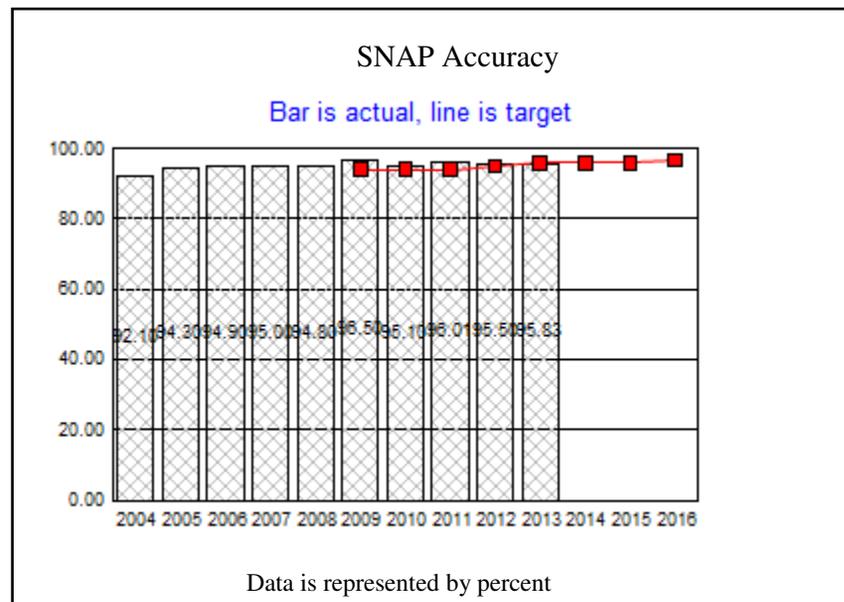

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Despite our outstanding performance in getting benefits to eligible households, Oregon as a state has a hunger problem. For several years, Oregon ranked among the top three states in food insecurity: the number of households in which residents were not certain where their next meal was coming from. Finally, the state is making progress. In the latest USDA data on very low food security or hunger, Oregon ranks 15th in the nation^[1]. Oregon continues efforts in outreach and improved customer service to reach more Oregonians; including working to increase population segments that are underserved. Oregon also partners with many anti-hunger organizations to help understand the issues and try to identify new ways to fight hunger in Oregon.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle – calendar year. Reports submitted to Food and Nutrition Services (FNS) from our Food Stamp Management Information system is compared by FNS to Census estimates of Oregonians living at or below the federal poverty level.

KPM #5	SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) ACCURACY - The percentage of accurate SNAP payments	2009

1. OUR STRATEGY

DHS has utilized an effective strategy in the past several years to reduce the error rate to below the national standard. This includes:

- Use of the SNAP Steering Committee, including field representatives, advocacy groups, policy, and Program Integrity, to oversee accuracy, access and customer services initiatives.
- Making available a variety of training tools for all levels of field staff, including materials listed on the SNAP policy website. Tools include classroom training, NetLink classes, monthly skill challenges, “On Target” and “In the Loop” accuracy newsletters and e-learning.
- Continuation and enhancement of a local review process which utilizes dedicated program accuracy reviewers. Over three thousand SNAP cases are assessed each month and feedback is shared with local offices. Reports produced from the database help identify areas of concern and keep track of accuracy targets.
- Updating and expanding SNAP related training, including SNAP core training, interview and narration training, and refresher training.
- Pursuit of continuous improvement concepts through Program Integrity Steering Committee.
- Making QC and Quality Assurance (QA) data available through the Office of Program Integrity (OPI) intranet website.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

The target for this measure is for the state’s payment error rate to be below the national standard. The national standard changes every year based on each state’s performance. The national standard has improved each year since FY 06. In FY 13, the national error rate was 3.20 percent, a historic low.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

In FY 09, Oregon reached an all-time low error rate of 3.54 percent. The rate increased to 4.88 in FY 10 and decreased to 3.99 percent in FY 11. Oregon was placed into first year liability status in FY12, based on the error rate of 4.66 percent. In FY 13 our rate decreased to 4.17 percent.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

There are eight states and one territory within the FNS Western Region: Alaska, Arizona, California, Guam, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon and Washington. (Guam is excluded from this comparison because of its small size.) In FY13, Oregon was ranked fifth in our region in accuracy. Within the region, Oregon continues to be ranked 1st in participation (5th in the nation). The next closest state is Washington, ranked 8th in the nation.

An additional comparison looks at Oregon and other states outside of the Western Region. These states have similar populations and a similar mix of relatively few urban/population centers with large rural/remote areas, as is found in Oregon. For this comparison, Oregon ranks 5th in accuracy.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Oregon has worked hard to improve our Quality Control Payment Error Rate over the past decade. Despite increasing caseloads, efforts have been successful in reducing the error rate to 3.54 percent in FY 09, an all-time low, and to 4.5 percent in FY 12. Strategies contributing to this success include:

- Statewide Quality Control (QC) Panel video-conference meetings are held each month to discuss QC errors and preventative measures. This collaborative effort includes participation from field staff, SNAP policy staff, program integrity and training staff.
- DHS continues to use an improved intake process. Clients are seen more quickly, benefits are issued sooner and errors caused by delays in processing are reduced.
- “Error Trends” training is provided by Program Integrity staff to selected branch offices across the state.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

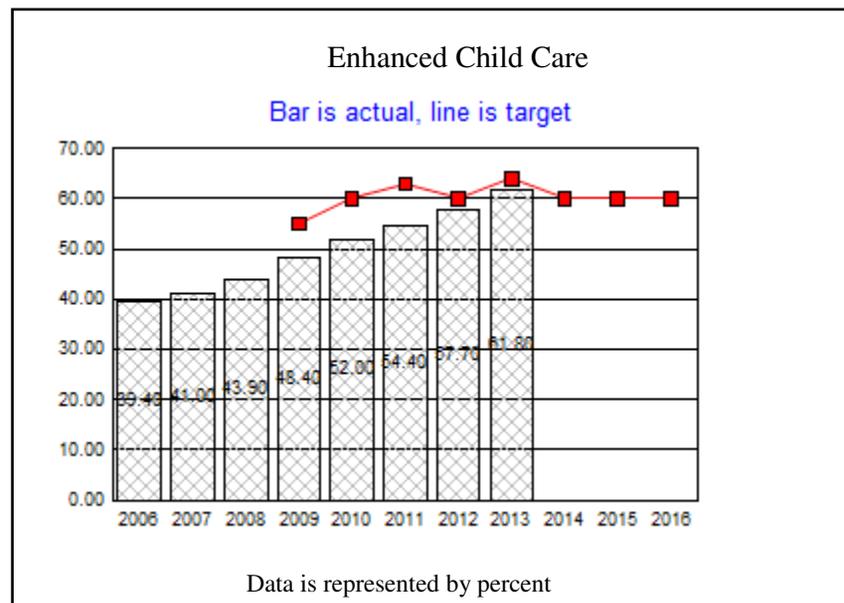

Oregon needs to maintain focus on SNAP accuracy. This will be accomplished by implementing the strategies listed above and by ongoing collaborative efforts with Office of Program Integrity, field staff, the SNAP policy unit and training staff. In addition, continuing to move forward with modernization efforts is expected to result in increased program accuracy in SNAP.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

This data is available in June every year for the previous Federal Fiscal Year. The data is regressed by federal validation and allows comparison of Oregon to other states. FY 12 and FY 13 payment accuracy data has been regressed by federal validation.

Error rates are published on the FNS Partnerweb website at <https://www.partnerweb.usda.gov>. The QC active case payment accuracy rate will be determined by subtracting the error rate from 100.

KPM #6	ENHANCED CHILD CARE - The percentage of children receiving care from providers who are receiving the enhanced or licensed rate for child care subsidized by DHS	2009
Goal	People are able to support themselves and their families
Oregon Context	This performance measure links to the DHS goal, "People are able to support themselves and their families." With respect to children in care this measure links to the DHS goals, "People are healthy" and "People are safe."
Data Source	DHS Provider Pay system. Percent of children receiving care from providers paid through DHS Provider Pay system receiving the enhanced or licensed rate.
Owner	DHS - Self Sufficiency, Rhonda Prodzinski, (503) 945-6108

1. OUR STRATEGY

To improve the quality of care available to subsidized families, DHS provides an incentive of 8 to 15% above the standard rate, dependent on the provider’s geographic location, for license-exempt providers who meet the same basic training requirements that are required of licensed family providers. DHS partners with Child Care Resource & Referral Agencies (CCR&R), American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), Service Employees International Union Local 503 (SEIU) and the Oregon Registry. The CCR&R's educate parents and help them find quality child care. They also assist with provider training that is required to qualify for the DHS enhanced rate and encourage licensed and enhanced providers to care for DHS subsidy families. The Oregon Registry documents provider training. DHS, the CCR&Rs, AFSCME, SEIU and the Oregon Registry team together to publicize training and resources available.

All license-exempt and registered providers must take a two hour pre-service online Child Care Basic Health and Safety class before they can be approved as a subsidy provider. A Child Care Orientation class is required for all newly approved license-exempt providers. The Orientation class includes information on resources available including no-cost training on First Aid/CPR, Recognizing and Reporting Child Abuse and Neglect, and Food Handlers to publicize the enhanced rate as well as the USDA Food Program. Providers also receive a license-exempt provider Literacy Tool Kit DHS, in collaboration with the Oregon Department of Education, Early Learning Division (ELD) leveraged the existing Head Start contracted child care and expanded through a three year field test to Oregon Program of Quality providers. The key goals of the field test are for children to have access to continuous quality child care, for providers to have stable funding and for families to have continuity of quality child care to support their employment. A statewide research team has been engaged in evaluating the field test which is in its third year. The field test for expanding contracted child care is related to priorities set by the Governor and the Early Learning Council (ELC) to better prepare children for kindergarten and beyond. OPQ was Oregon's first step in creating a quality child care system for providers.

As ELD progressed their quality system, they adopted a new version to align with the Federal level movement for quality. With this shift, Oregon has developed a Quality Improvement Rating System (QRIS) for providers. QRIS is a star rating system that raises the quality and consistency of child care and early learning programs across the state. It helps ensure children in QRIS programs are ready for kindergarten, star rating starts at a C2Q (commitment to quality) and continues upward with 3, 4 and 5 Star. QRIS is currently in a pilot stage with rollout beginning state wide. DHS hopes to increase contracting efforts with QRIS in the near future. The Early Learning Division and DHS are also excited about the prospect of expanding contracted child care opportunities with Head Start as they partner with Child Care programs in their communities through the federal Early Head Start – Child Care Partnership grants. These partnerships provide more of Oregon's children with the opportunity to have high quality child care. DHS is engaged in this work and is building stronger collaborations with other agencies and partners to integrate our ERDC program with the state's early learning system. Guiding more of our providers through the Quality Improvement Rating System will be a priority.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

The targets were set based on an anticipated - and desired - increase in the numbers of children receiving care from providers who meet the training standards required to become licensed. These training standards promote child safety, well-being and enhance the quality of child care which encourages a more stable provider base. Stability in care arrangements promotes healthy child development, continuity of care and helps parents remain employed.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

There was a steady increase in the percentage of children receiving care either from a license-exempt provider receiving the enhanced rate or from a licensed provider from 2009 through present. There was also an increase in the number of license exempt providers who became registered providers with the Early Learning Division.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

Although a number of states have a tiered reimbursement system for child care providers, requirements vary too widely to draw meaningful comparisons.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

The 2007 Legislature authorized significant rate increases that took effect October 1, 2007. This gave parents increased access to licensed providers. In addition the Legislature authorized significant funding for outreach and training for license-exempt providers. The combination of more parents selecting licensed providers and increased investment in exempt provider training resulted in a steady increase in the percentage of children receiving care from providers earning the enhanced rate or the licensed rate. In July 2010, a Child Care Orientation class became required for all new license-exempt providers.

In July of 2013 an agreement was reached to increase licensed family child care provider rates effective October 1, followed by an agreement to increase license-exempt family provider rates effective November 1 of 2013.

An analysis of Subsidy Employment by Industry Sector was completed by the DHS Forecasting Unit in April 2010. The majority of ERDC clients work in industries that constrain child care options. Many subsidy parents work evening or night shifts, weekend shift or have a week or less advance notice of work schedule. A recent study confirmed that the majority of subsidy participants have two or more constraints on child care options. Most regulated child care facilities only operate during the day, and many require the parent pay for a part-time or full-time slot, so this limits subsidy parents

A new federal strategic framework from the Administration for Children and Families was made available in June of 2013. The Office of Child Care is recognizing the importance of access to quality childcare that supports parental employment in stable jobs that help parents provide for their families, that leads to healthy, happy and competent children who are ready for school with the necessary pre-academic skills; and high functioning CCDF grantees that use program dollars effectively, efficiently and with integrity, to the benefit of eligible children and families. The goal for DHS which aligns with federal ideals is to build a child care subsidy system that is child-focused, family friendly and fair to providers.

The Race to the Top Early Learning Challenge Grant is a four year federal grant recognizing Oregon's early learning work, and strengthening a statewide early care and education system. State recipients were chosen based on their ability to implement coherent, compelling, and comprehensive early learning education reform. This funding is designed to spur broad system improvement over four years to ensure Oregon children enter school ready to learn and succeed. The Early Learning Council prioritized the activities below through determining the greatest impact on young children, and that fit grant scope and requirements:

- Tiered Quality Rating Improvement System

Race to the Top resources will engage providers with more training, mentorship, and professional development.

- Early Childhood Workforce

Race to the Top resources will provide professional development to support career pathways for early childhood educators to develop expertise in quality early learning and best practices.

- Family and Community Access

Race to the Top resources will provide dedicated outreach to build an informed, engaged public around quality early learning environments.

- Enhance the QRIS Data System

Race to the Top resources will enhance and connect data systems to capture quality information to deliver service providers, policy makers, and funders information needed to ensure better outcomes for children.

- Kindergarten Assessment

Race to the Top resources will allow Oregon to align statewide early learning with K-12 Common Core standards, launch the statewide rollout of the assessment, and gauge where children are at when they enter school.

Activities connecting early learning programs and the K-12 system are a priority throughout. Grant funding provides Oregon an opportunity to execute the system, making historic progress.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

DHS will continue to work with the Early Learning Division to promote innovations in subsidy intake and consumer education to increase access to high quality child care.

Efforts to inform parents and providers of the importance of quality child care and training continue to be improved. Exempt providers are represented by SEIU. DHS, Child Care Resource and Referral agencies and SEIU will continue to work together to promote the enhanced rate and help exempt providers access the training required to earn the enhanced rate.

HB 2013 legislatively mandated the Professional Development and Quality Improvement Committee for license-exempt family child care providers that receive subsidy. The committee shall develop a quality improvement system for self-employed child care providers and must use evidence-based approaches. Any quality standards established for the subsidy program are subject to collective bargaining.

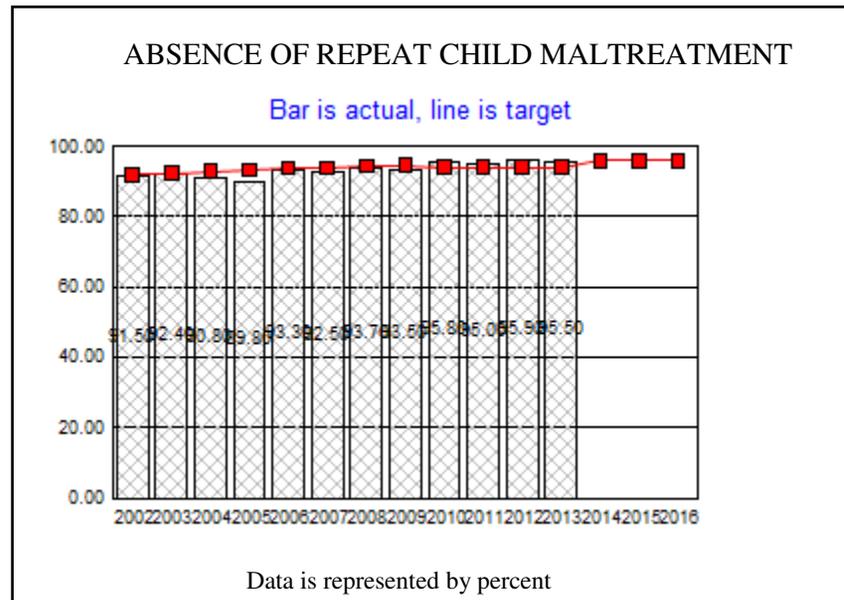

New Proposed Federal Rules for CCDF – The proposed regulatory action is needed to improve accountability broadly across many areas of the CCDF program, but is especially focused on ensuring children supported by CCDF funds are in safe, healthy, quality child care, and empowering parents with transparent information about the child care choices available to them. The new proposed rule would provide the first comprehensive update of CCDF regulations since 1998. The changes have the twin goals of promoting families' economic self-sufficiency by making child care more affordable, and fostering healthy child development and school success by improving the quality of child care. This NPRM is needed to improve accountability broadly across many areas of the CCDF program, but is especially focused on ensuring children supported by CCDF funds are in safe, healthy, quality child care, and empowering parents with transparent information about the child care choices available to them.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle - point in time, October of each year. This measure is reported as a percentage. The data are taken from the DHS Provider Pay system and compares the number of children in care with providers earning the enhanced and licensed rate to the total number of active providers in the system. As a result, the number is very reliable. Any variance caused by possible coding errors would be too small to be statistically significant. The data has been adjusted to include Head Start. Beginning, September 1, 2012, OPQ contracted child care was included.

KPM #7	ABSENCE OF REPEAT MALTREATMENT - The percentage of abused/neglected children who were not subsequently victimized within 6 months of prior victimization.	1997
Goal	People are safe
Oregon Context	This performance measure links to the DHS goal, "People are safe." It also links to Oregon Benchmark #50 and the DHS high-level outcome, "Number of children per 1,000 persons under 18, who are: a) neglected/abused, b) at a substantial risk of being neglected/abused." This measure concerns children who are victims in founded cases of abuse. The term "founded" means that there is reasonable cause to believe that child abuse or neglect has occurred.
Data Source	State Child Welfare SACWIS data system.
Owner	DHS - Child Safety Program, Office of Child Welfare Programs, Stacey Ayers (503) 945-6696

1. OUR STRATEGY

The state Child Welfare Program in conjunction with the National Resource Center for Child Protective Services (NRCCPS) developed and implemented a comprehensive Safety Intervention Model in March 2007. The Safety Intervention Model, known as the Oregon Safety Model (OSM) includes all actions and decisions required throughout the life of a case to:

- Define Child Welfare (CW) as the “safety expert” and assure that all child welfare staff receives training in child safety interventions.
- Assess allegations of child abuse in a timely manner and provide a comprehensive protective capacity assessment of caregivers when a child has been determined to be unsafe.
- Develop focused service plans in families impacted by issues of abuse and create change goals to increase capacity and restore safety for children.
- The OSM has specific requirements regarding confirming and reconfirming the safety of children in their own homes or in out-of-home care throughout the life of the case. Active safety monitoring will enhance safety of children and decrease the potential of reabuse.
- The OSM moves away from incident-based child abuse assessments toward comprehensive safety assessments which focus on six factors related to child safety: 1) The extent of the abuse or neglect; 2) The circumstances surrounding the abuse or neglect; 3) Child functioning; 4) Adult functioning ; 5) Parenting; and 6) Disciplinary practices.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

Oregon performed above the Target of 94.1 percent in 2013. The current national standard for Absence of Repeat Maltreatment is 94.6 percent. The Target of 96 percent for 2014 and 2015 show a desire to increase our performance in keeping children safe.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

From 2012 to 2013, Oregon saw a slight decrease in this performance measure of .4%. While 95.5% is still above the national standard, this is a measurement Oregon will continue to closely monitor to ensure it does not continue to drop.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

Oregon’s absence of repeat maltreatment rate is better than the national standard of 94.6%.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

The comprehensiveness of child abuse/neglect assessments takes significant resources and workload demand and urgency. The major factors affecting families of abused and neglected children are drug/alcohol abuse, parental involvement with law enforcement, domestic violence and poverty. Often, there are several of these factors co-occurring in families of child abuse/neglect victims.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

In February 2013, the NRCCPS assisted the department to develop curriculum for OSM training for each of the department's child welfare supervisors. The training consisted of 4 ½ days in a classroom setting and focused on the comprehensive assessment as well as other key concepts of the OSM. The training was piloted from April through September 2013, in 6 counties including Multnomah, Marion, Polk, Yamhill, Klamath and Lake. A total of 74 participants including child welfare supervisors, program managers and a representative from Portland State University Training unit completed this 4 ½ day training over a period of 6 months.

Following each classroom session, Intensive Field Consultation was provided to approximately 63 CPS & Permanency supervisors by the Child Protective Services Program consultants. The consultants were able to provide a minimum of two hours per week of Intensive Field Consultation for each supervisor to further their learning and application of the OSM concepts with their casework staff.

From October 2013 through May 2014, nearly 180 child welfare supervisors and program managers participated in the training and received intensive field consultation. Currently, another round of training for new supervisors and program managers is scheduled to begin the last week of August 2014. This has started.

In addition to the OSM training that was developed for supervisors, the CPS program is currently developing an interactive, OSM computer based training for child welfare caseworkers and other DHS staff. While some modules of the training are still in production, modules related to comprehensive assessments have been released and are being used by child welfare staff.

Oregon is also in the beginning stages of implementing a Differential Response (DR) system. For those families who are eligible for Child Protective Services, Differential Response is about providing more than one pathway for families to enter and exit the child welfare system. Assessing the needs of each family on an individual basis and offering services to meet those needs will continue to be critical to our work with families. Additionally, a DR system allows for greater flexibility in responding earlier and more meaningfully towards a collaborative helping process for families.

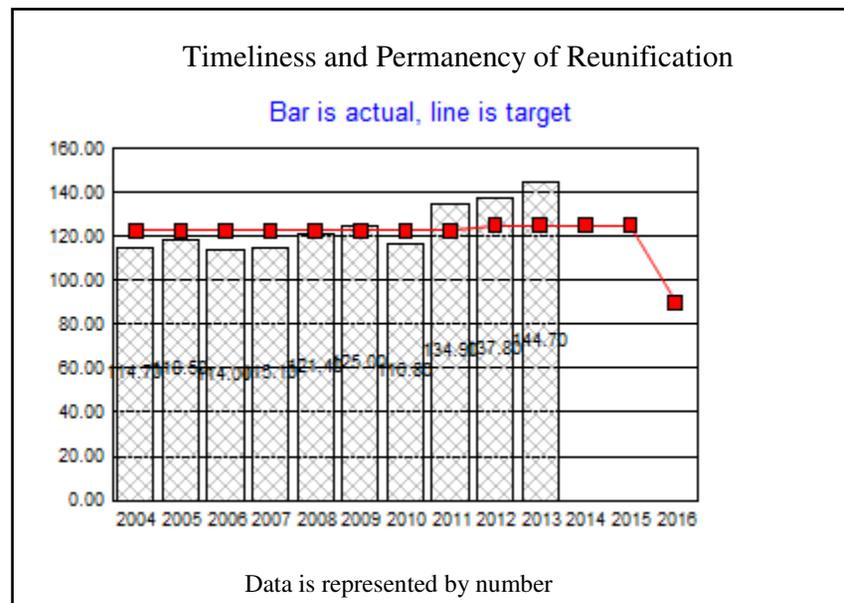

Finally, DHS is continuing to implement the Strengthening, Preserving, and Reunifying Families Act (SPRF) which requires DHS and county partners to implement programs to provide family preservation services to eligible families and reunification services for children in the custody of DHS, with the goal of fostering collaboration across programs and resources to help children remain safely with their families and thereby reduce the number of Oregon children in foster care.

Both Differential Response and SB 964 provide earlier interventions that connect families with preventive, community based services which can prevent further contact with the Child Welfare System, thus further reducing the reabuse rate.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Definition: Of all children who were victims of a substantiated maltreatment allegation during the first 6 months of the year, the percent who were not victims of another substantiated maltreatment allegation within 6 months of the original abuse/neglect. Due to availability of more timely data in the Result Oriented Management system, we have transition to gathering the data from this source.

KPM #8	TIMELINESS AND PERMANENCY OF REUNIFICATION OF CHILDREN	2009
Goal	People are safe
Oregon Context	This systemic KPM aligns with Oregon’s vision to have safe, caring and engaged communities.
Data Source	The data used for this KPM are the same data gathered and reported to the federal government every six months as part of Oregon’s Federal Child and Family Services Review (CFSR).
Owner	DHS - Child Well-Being Program, Office of Child Welfare Programs DHS Kevin George (503) 945-5987

1. OUR STRATEGY

While children need and deserve timely permanency, the processes to terminate parental rights and establish a legal and emotional relationship with a new (adoptive) family is complex and time consuming. This process is being accomplished with due care given to protecting the civil rights of the biological family while at the same time assuring, as much as possible using good social work practice, that the child's new (adoptive) family will truly be permanent and meet his or her current and life-long needs.

Identification and implementation of efficiencies in the adoption process intended to decrease the length of time to achieve finalization and increased monitoring and support of cases and families as they move through the process to finalization, to include:

- Use of the SAFE Home Study model as a common study approach to approval of families
- In-state general applicant adoptive home recruitment that includes an intra-state web-based photo exchange
- Increased focus of placement of children with relatives upon entering care
- Work with JCIP on the impact Judges can have on increasing timeliness of adoption
- Evaluation of barriers to timely adoptions occurring in targeted branch offices. Branch specific plans to address those barriers
- Increased training regarding the adoption process
- Addition of permanency consultants to the Permanency Unit to consult earlier and throughout the life of a Child Welfare case

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

The target for this measure represents the goal within Oregon's Program Improvement Plan. The national standard for this measure is 104.4 or higher. The national standard represents the 75th percentile in performance among states (i.e. 75% of states have a Timeliness of Adoptions score LOWER than 104.4).

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

KPM #9 is a composite measure taking into account separate performance components impacted by practice, policy, and statute. 2011 data was not reported in the last round. Three components, C2.2 Median Months to Adoption, C2.3 Timeliness to Adoption for those children who are legally free or who have been in foster care for 17 or more months and C2.4 Children in care 17 months or longer who became legally free during the first 6 months of the year all remained stable for 2012 as compared to 2011, with slight positive changes to 2 of these 3 components. However, the other two components, C2.1 Adopted in less than 24 months from removal from the home and C2.5 Adopted in less than 12 months from legally free date both showed significant decreases in performance for 2011 and 2012. The net result was a decrease in performance in this KPM by 9.1% from the 2010 to 2011 level, and a decrease of 12.6% from the 2011 to 2012 level. An increase occurred in 2013 but Oregon is still below the target for this measure.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

Currently, Oregon's performance is below the national standard.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

With the implementation of Oregon's SACWIS system, the department has continued to revise the Federal AFCARS file which is the source for calculating the data in this measure.

The department has developed key strategic efforts to address the issue of foster care long stayers. These efforts include increased training and focus for how to work with teens on their permanency plans, specific case consultation on cases of youth who are in long term foster care, Casey Family plans in identified counties that focus on reduction of long stayers, and specific case consultation on children for whom reunification has not been timely achieved. Success in getting long stayers out of foster care and into a permanent plan, specifically adoption, will reduce the composite score in this key performance measure.

Another factor that affects the results of this composite is workload of field caseworkers. The process of freeing, placing, and finalizing an adoption is paperwork intensive on the part of field caseworkers. When staffing levels are down which they were during the recession, not all work gets completed in a timely manner. With the addition of casework staff over the past year, the performance of this composite should be affected in a positive manner.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

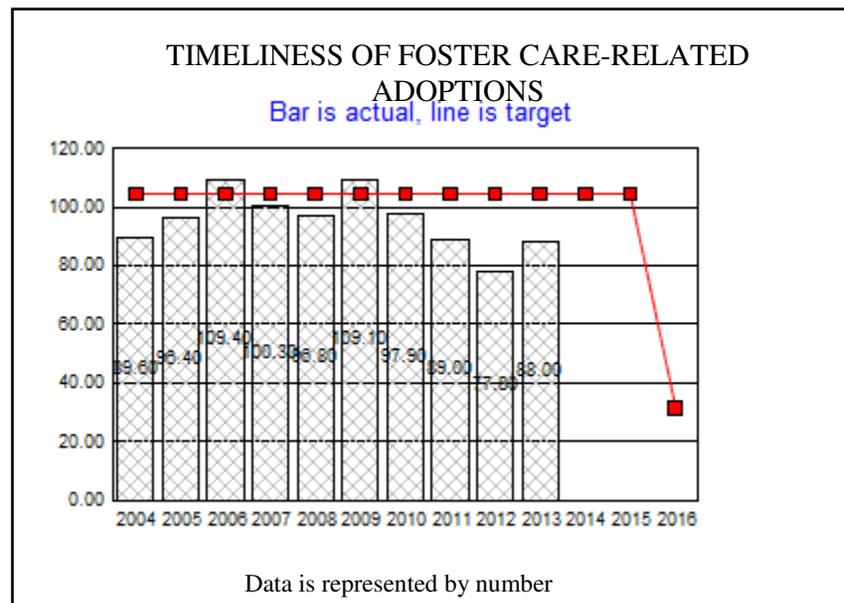

The Department should continue to proceed with implementation and development of the various activities identified in OUR STRATEGY section.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

The timeliness of adoptions composite KPM is made up of five individual measures. There are two measures around timeliness of adoptions, two measures around the progress being made for children in care at least 17 months, and one measure for those children who are legally free and progress towards finalization.

Each of these measures has been combined into one overarching score. A higher score represents better performance. The data represents performance during a federal fiscal year (October – September).

KPM #10	LTC NEED PREVENTION - Percentage of seniors (65+) needing publicly-funded long term care services.	2012
Goal	Independence – People are living as independently as possible.
Oregon Context	DHS high-level outcome – Independent seniors
Data Source	DHS data warehouse, the Office of Forecasting, Research-Analysis and Census data
Owner	DHS - Aging and People with Disabilities, Mike McCormick, (503) 945-6229

1. OUR STRATEGY

This performance measure links to the DHS goal – “People are living as independently as possible.” This measure also links to Oregon Benchmark #58 and the DHS high-level outcome “Percent of seniors (over 65) living independently.”

This key performance measure will focus APD efforts on keeping people independent, healthy and safe for longer periods of time. With the aging demographic rapidly approaching, it's key that Oregon design and implement systems that will keep seniors independent for longer periods of time.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

The targets were established by the 2013 Legislative Assembly.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

In 2012, only 3.4% of Oregonians 65 or older needed assistance with publicly funded long term care. In 2013, only 3.13% of Oregonians 65 or older needed assistance with publicly funded long term care. For both years, APD is currently performing better than the goal established by the Legislative Assembly for 2014.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

We are unaware of how other states are measuring this.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

The success of the Coordinated Care Model (Better health, better care, lower costs) should contribute towards the success of this measure. Additionally, the success of the AAA network administering Oregon Project Independence and Older Americans Act program contribute towards keeping seniors independent.

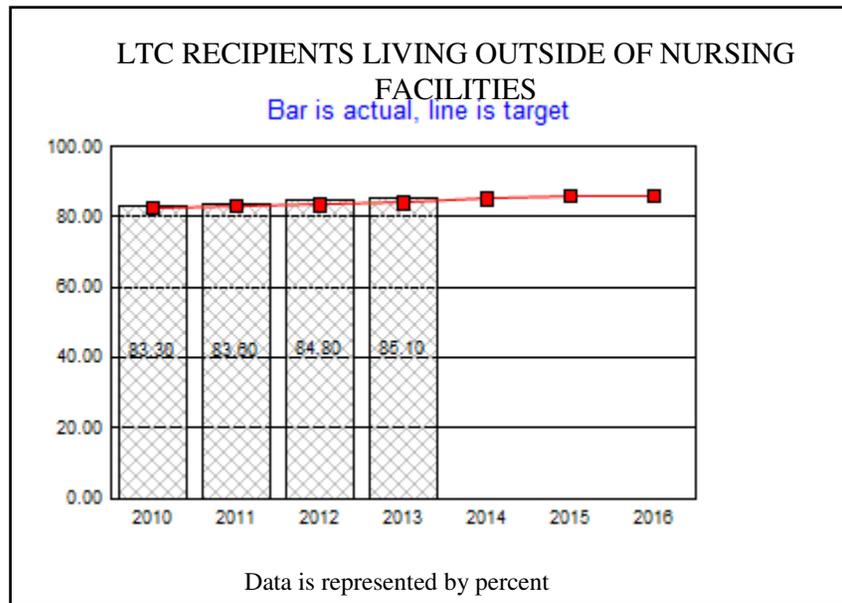

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

In 2013, the Legislature recognized the need to get ahead of the demographic growth and passed SB21. This bill requires the State to develop a plan to strengthen and improve Oregon's system of long term care. It also requires the identification of factors that drive the need for long term care services. Strategies have been identified that will keep more seniors independent for a longer period of time. The Department intends to present those results to the 2015 Legislative Assembly.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Data comes from DHS data warehouse, the Office of Forecasting, Research-Analysis and Census data.

KPM #11	LTC RECIPIENTS LIVING OUTSIDE OF NURSING FACILITIES – The percentage of Oregonians accessing publicly-funded long-term care services who are living outside of nursing facilities.	2012
Goal	People are living as independently as possible.
Oregon Context	DHS high-level outcome – Independent seniors
Data Source	The Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis
Owner	DHS - Aging and People with Disabilities, Mike McCormick, (503) 945-6229

1. OUR STRATEGY

This performance measure links to the DHS goal – “People are living as independently as possible.” This measure also links to Oregon Benchmark #58 and the DHS high-level outcome “Percent of seniors (over 65) living independently.” This measure concerns serving seniors and people with physical disabilities in the most independent settings.

Institutionalization of people age 65 and older has historically been used as a marker of the degree to which seniors are living independently and has been extensively tracked. A nursing facility is an institution; people who live in their own homes, in the homes of family, or in community based care settings, adult foster homes, assisted living facilities, and residential care facilities are considered to be living independently. DHS strategy continues to emphasize maintaining seniors in their home communities, outside of institutions, to the maximum extent possible.

APD has increased its efforts to divert or relocate people who receive Medicaid-funded long-term services from nursing facilities and into home or community settings.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

This measure is used by APD to track its performance at helping seniors and people with disabilities age in their own communities. APD recognizes that some people must be served in institutional settings, but some institutionalized individuals could receive services in other less restrictive settings if they were available. Oregon continues to be the nation's leader in identifying and establishing community based options to institutional care, and as a result, the values of choice, dignity, and independence for Oregon's senior and disabled citizens continue to be the focus of all agency activities.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

APD is making steady, continued progress at serving seniors and people with disabilities in settings less restrictive than nursing facilities.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

In a recent nationwide study conducted by AARP, Oregon's long term care system was ranked #3 over a wide variety of factors.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Hospitals continue to discharge patients "sicker and quicker". In many cases, hospital preference on discharge of a senior who needs additional care is a nursing facility. While institutional care may be appropriate for certain individuals for short periods of time, DHS must continue to aggressively ensure that seniors are appropriately discharged from nursing facilities.

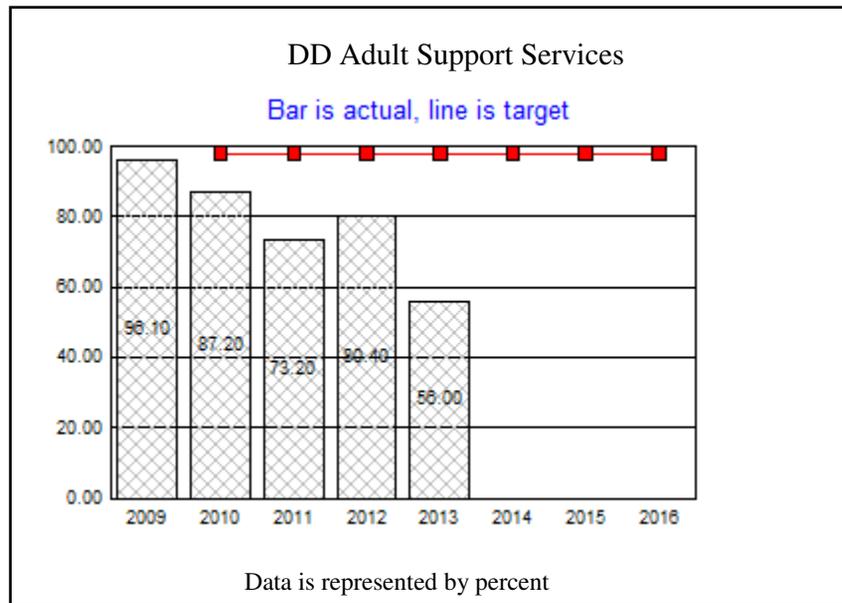

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Using the significant investment dollars made available by the K Plan and Legislative decisions, APD should continue to develop community resources to address the needs of seniors who may not be able to live fully independently, but need not live in an institution. APD needs to continually reinforce the importance of its diversion and transition program to ensure the steady rate of deinstitutionalization remains.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Data comes from the Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis. The Office of Forecasting, Research and Analysis publishes actual caseloads in long term care each month. The calculation is $1 - (\text{Total Nursing Facility Long Term Care} / \text{Total Long Term Care})$. An average of each calendar year is reported.

KPM #12	DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITY SUPPORT SERVICES - The percentage of eligible adults who are receiving adult support services within 90 days of request.	2009
Goal	People are independent. People are safe.
Oregon Context	Oregon Benchmark - Working Disabled
Data Source	Express Payment & Reporting System (eXPRS)
Owner	DHS – Developmental Disabilities, Leaann Stutheit, 503-945-9783

1. OUR STRATEGY

Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) tracks individuals enrolled in case management for developmental disabilities services who will be turning 18 or otherwise eligible for Adult Support Services using the case management service enrolment data system. In addition, all exits from Support Service Brokerages are tracked to best utilize vacant capacity. Contracts are modified or new providers solicited to meet the forecasted need as resources allow.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

Adult Support Services were developed as a result of the Staley Settlement Agreement. This in-home service for adults with developmental disabilities was the key service accessed to eliminate the wait list for services. Based on the provisions of the settlement, these services needed to be accessed within 90-days of eligibility. The settlement agreement ended in June of 2011. But ODDS is still maintaining the 90-day access threshold as a performance measure, since timely access to service and avoidance of a wait list are important system features.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

Meeting this target is an ongoing challenge. While individuals are still accessing services, the absolute target of 90-days is not always met.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

There is no equivalency in other states or systems from which to make comparisons. This measure needs to be assessed within its own baselines and metrics.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

In October 2011, Legislative action required that only adults with developmental disabilities eligible for federally funded Home and Community-Based Service Waivers would be eligible for Adult Support Services. Up to that time, this was not a requirement for accessing adult support services. This created another level of action prior to enrollment which as slowed down the process. Additionally, costs per case have escalated, this has caused less resources to be available to expand services to meet forecasted needs.

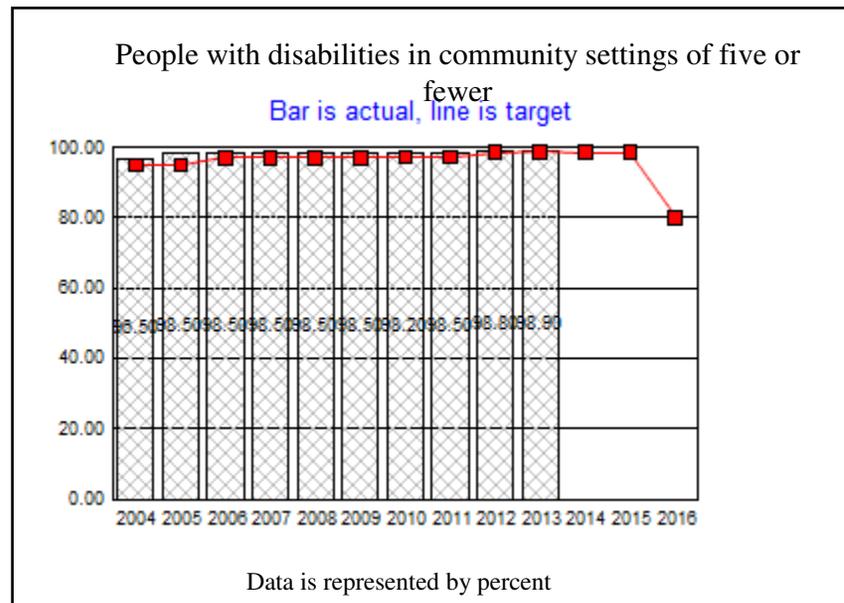

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

ODDS is working with the DHS/OHA Forecast and Budget Units to identify trends, future growth, and associated costs. Some modifications to the data collection process may be necessary to assure accurate reporting and analysis.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Data comes from Express Payment & Reporting System (eXPRS). The reporting cycle is fiscal year. The calculation is: Number of adults receiving adult support services within 90 days of request divided by the number of adults who were eligible and referred for adult support services.

KPM #13	PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES IN COMMUNITY SETTINGS – The percentage of individuals with developmental disabilities who live in community settings of five or fewer.	2002
Goal	People are living as independently as possible.
Oregon Context	Increase the percentage of Oregonians with a lasting developmental, mental and/or physical disability who could live on their own with adequate support.
Data Source	Express Payment & Reporting System (eXPRS)
Owner	DHS - Developmental Disabilities, Leaann Stutheit, 503-945-9783

1. OUR STRATEGY

The Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) provides an array of support for people that qualify for services. Historically, many services were provided in large institutions or other congregate care situation. In recent years focus has been on the development of small (5 or less) residential service settings or the provision of supports in the private home of the individual with developmental disabilities or their family. Critical partners include County Developmental Disabilities Programs, Oregon's network of private service provider entities, and a variety of advocacy/stakeholder organizations.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

ODDS provides opportunities to individuals with developmental disabilities to become better integrated with and included in their local communities. By making it possible for people with developmental disabilities to live in small community settings or their own/family homes service outcomes are improved, client satisfaction is higher, and cost efficiencies are achieved. Smaller service settings also provide individuals a chance to experience living in an environment that approximates those experienced by all other Oregon citizens. Additionally, people with developmental disabilities can take advantage of everyday community life and involvement and take advantage of the opportunities this offers.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

DHS has met or exceeded its target for the past years.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

Oregon ranks near the top in states that provide small residential or in-home services. Oregon is one of only three states that have no public or private institutions (Intermediate Care Facilities for individuals with Intellectual Disabilities – ICF/ID) serving individuals with developmental disabilities.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

ODDS, in recent years through the implementation of the Staley Settlement Agreement and development of Family Support and other in-home type services continues momentum in providing small community-based or family setting services to people with developmental disabilities. Continued implementation of Crisis Diversion assists in keeping people from institutional placement. PASRR- the Pre-Admission Screening Resident Review - is a screening tool which is used to prevent the placement of individuals with mental illness or intellectual or other developmental disabilities (I/DD) in a nursing facility unless their medical needs clearly indicate they require the level of care provided by a nursing facility. When placement into a nursing facility is ruled out, smaller, community based settings are explored. In-home support services and establishment of the Housing Trust Fund also support this measure.

ODDS reviews the programs with people greater than five persons to determine their ability to fill vacancies in the program. Agencies are required to offer vacancies to individuals determined to be in crisis and in need of residential services. If the larger size program cannot meet the need due to low staff to high client ratio, programmatic changes may be required.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Preservation of policy and funding structures that contribute to the maintenance and / or improvement of efforts for providing in-home services to persons with developmental disabilities, and continued attention to the impact of aging family caregivers and their needs. Access to funding for modifications of homes to assure their accessibility and appropriateness in regard to individual needs. Finally, access to low income housing options is a major barrier and needs to be addressed.

Next steps also include a focus on quality of life issues, particularly for those clients under age 18, and review of existing larger (6 or more) group homes with respect to their ability to meet the needs of the community.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle is calendar year. Data comes from the following source:

-- Express Payment & Reporting System (eXPRS) - count of people receiving Case Management (Service Element 48) and count of residents in settings 6 or more. Formula used for this report is:

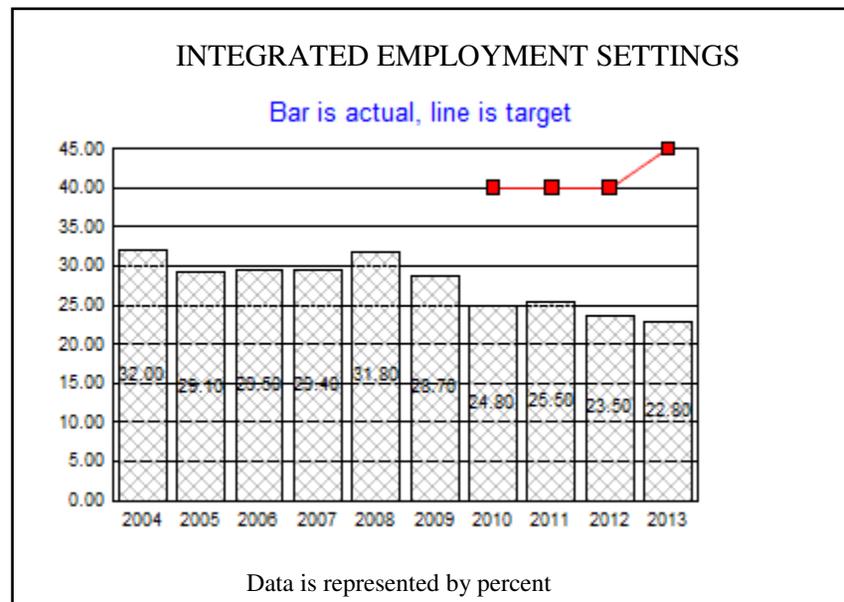

Calendar Year (SE 48 Count – Count of residents in settings 6 or more) / (SE 48 Count)

2012 data disaggregated: Count of people receiving Case Management = 21,545

Calendar Year (# of residents in settings 6 or more)= 251 (21,545 – 251) / (21,545) = 98.8%

KPM #14	INTEGRATED EMPLOYMENT SETTINGS - The percentage of adults with developmental disabilities who receive ODDS services who are working in integrated employment settings.	2009
Goal	People are living as independently as possible.
Oregon Context	People with developmental disabilities who are employed value their wage-earning capacity. People are able to achieve a desired lifestyle. People become less financially dependent over time on long-term state and federal programs.
Data Source	DEVELOPMENTAL. After September 1, 2014 the data source will be from planned and actual service utilization from the eXPRS payment system. It will be necessary to use supplemental sources of information beyond that system using periodic surveys or data sharing agreements with other state agencies. Data prior to 9/1/14 has relied on use the Employment Outcome System for people in comprehensive services and semi-annual surveys for people in adult support services to determine the percentage of people employed in integrated employment settings.

1. OUR STRATEGY

The Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) has developed and trained to an Employment First Policy which requires case managers to ask at each annual client planning meeting about the person with intellectual and other developmental disabilities (I/DD) seeking and maintaining employment in an integrated community setting. This policy was reinforced by Executive Order 13-04, "Providing Employment Services to Individuals with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities", issued by Governor Kitzhaber in April 2013.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

The targets are being set by a Statewide Policy Group established by the Executive Order 13-04. The timelines will align with the Executive Order, that includes an implementation schedule ending July 1, 2022. Achieving improved employment outcomes for working age adults with developmental disabilities is a key component to the system sustainability plan adopted by ODDS and fulfilling the mission of DHS and its Office of Developmental Disability Services.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

In general people with experience unemployment at a significant amount greater than individuals who are not disabled, people with I/DD face a greater rate of unemployment. The present employment market and economic continue to represent an additional challenge to the employment to individuals receiving services from ODDS. Consequently, meeting targets has been a challenge. The original targets have not been met. However, DHS has instituted in that past months policy and practice changes targeted to increase integrated employment opportunities for individuals with I/DD.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

The Institute of Community Inclusion has been collecting national data, while it is often hard to compare data from state to state, based on the latest published report (2013) Oregon continues to hold it relative position to other reporting states. Of the 42 states reporting, 9 states reported a percentage of people with I/DD in integrated employment services higher than Oregon. This means Oregon remains above the norm for state's reporting on integrated employment for working age adults with I/DD.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Obtaining paid integrated employment for individuals with I/DD is a challenge in Oregon and nationwide. Many factors affect results such as attitudes/knowledge among prospective employers, work disincentives that exist with public funding streams, the general economic conditions and business climate and the availability of public resources allocated to this goal, and provider capacity. As indicated earlier, in recent months DHS has instituted policy and practice changes to address factors affecting results.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Continued efforts need to be made in several areas. Included are the areas of continued training and technical assistance, specific service capacity building efforts, improving individual service planning processes as they relate to employment, employer education efforts, the alignment of key policies/practices between agencies such as ODDS, Vocational Rehabilitation, and the Department of Education, integrating efforts with the State's general workforce development and employer engagement strategies, and education/awareness effort with key stakeholders.. ODDS/DHS also needs to engage in new approaches such as customized employment approaches and pilot promising new practices.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

As noted earlier, the historic reporting cycle is 6-month "snapshot" of available information. These reported data months are March and September. Use the Employment Outcome System for people in comprehensive services and semi-annual surveys for people in adult support services to determine the percentage of people employed in integrated employment settings. More reliance for data will now be placed on the DHS eXPRS payment system in addition to supplemental sources to data.

KPM #15	ABUSE OF PEOPLE WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES - The percentage of people with developmental disabilities experiencing abuse.	2010
Oregon Context	Elder abuse
Data Source	Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAAPI)
Owner	DHS - Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations, Marie Cervantes, (503) 945-9491

1. OUR STRATEGY

Developmental disabilities: Ensuring the safety of people with developmental disabilities (DD) is an important part OAAPI’s Safety Outcome Area. Decreasing the incidence of DD abuse in Oregon will lead to fewer people experiencing harm and allows us to measure the impact of prevention strategies. Increasing public awareness of abuse, strengthening collaboration with community partners and developing education and prevention initiatives that focus on the people we serve, their families, providers and the community at large are important elements of our strategy. In addition, continued focus on training for local protective service investigators and collaboration with brokerages who serve people with developmental disabilities in their own home are high priorities.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

This is a new measure and targets will be established for 2013 by conducting retrospective analysis of the prior three years (2010 thru 2012). In the abuse rate table, lower numbers are better.)

People with developmental disabilities: The types of services being received by over 20,000 individuals with developmental disabilities is significantly changing. The abuse rate primarily reflects licensed and certified settings, such as DD group homes and adult fosters homes licensed through ODDS, as well as vocational and employment programs. Reports of suspected abuse in these settings have traditional been nearly 70% of all reported abuse.

As individuals receiving brokerage services have surpassed those in residential settings, overall reporting of suspected abuse has increased. With the passage of HB 2442, additional definitions of abuse are now included (for example verbal abuse, financial abuse/exploitation and wrongful restraint) for these individuals that were not in place prior to 2010. While overall reporting for this population has increased, the “reporting rate” for community DD settings is much lower than the rate of reporting for licensed and certified settings. Individual decision-making, self-determination and autonomy will also affect the ability to provide protection in community DD settings. In comparison, licensed settings have more control over who may have access to a vulnerable person thru the employment process.

The baseline is, therefore, unclear. Because of the changes in the abuse definitions for community clients, including those receiving brokerage services, we propose that the 2010 thru 2012 data be used to establish a baseline and an appropriate target going forward. Strategies for intervention and abuse reduction will continue, however.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

Developmental disabilities: Analysis of the 2006 thru 2009 abuse and neglect data showed a gradual increase the overall abuse rate from 2.9 to 3.1 percent for this population. Analysis of the 2010 thru 2012 abuse and neglect data showed a drop in the abuse rate (range of 2.4 - 2.8) when compared to the 2006-09 data. The numbers of investigations for abuse and neglect have been relatively consistent over this time period. While the data for substantiated allegations do show some annual fluctuation, they are also relatively consistent. Between 2006 and 2009 there were an average of 546 substantiated findings per year, and between 2010 and 2012 the average annual number of substantiations was 533 per year. The number of clients receiving services has significantly increased over this time and is more likely the reason for the drop in the abuse rate. This finding does raised concern that there may be a lack of reporting in community/brokerage programs.

The most serious types of substantiated abuse such as sexual abuse (2%) and physical abuse (10%) have remained relatively low as percentage of all substantiated findings. Neglect is by far the most commonly substantiated abuse type and represents nearly 40% of all findings. Financial exploitation has decreased in recent years, but remains the second largest substantiated abuse at approximately 20%. Verbal abuse has increased recently and is the third most common abuse at 15%.

Strategies to improve performance on these measures include initiation of a prevention initiative which will increase training to providers consumers advocates and the public; leadership of an initiative to address sexual abuse of persons with developmental disabilities that is sponsored by the Attorney General’s Sexual Assault Task Force' collaboration with community partners to solicit a grant that will expand local capacity of domestic violence and sexual assault programs to meet the needs of victims of abuse who are developmentally disabled

4. HOW WE COMPARE

Developmental disabilities: There is no National data on abuse rates. Oregon is a national leader in this area as we are one of a very few number of states that track and report this data publicly.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Developmental disabilities: For people with developmental disabilities, primarily due to their cognitive limitations, there is a pronounced level of vulnerability resulting in an inability to self-report incidents that may be abuse, and so the initiation of protective services depends on a healthy reporting system and mandatory abuse reporting by care givers when they suspect abuse. In addition people with developmental disabilities often show an inability to protect themselves. Factors affecting performance to target include high turnover of staff in licensed and certified programs; right to self determination; response of the criminal justice system; lack of services with the knowledge and capacity to respond and support developmentally disabled victims of abuse (e.g. domestic violence shelters, counseling resources).

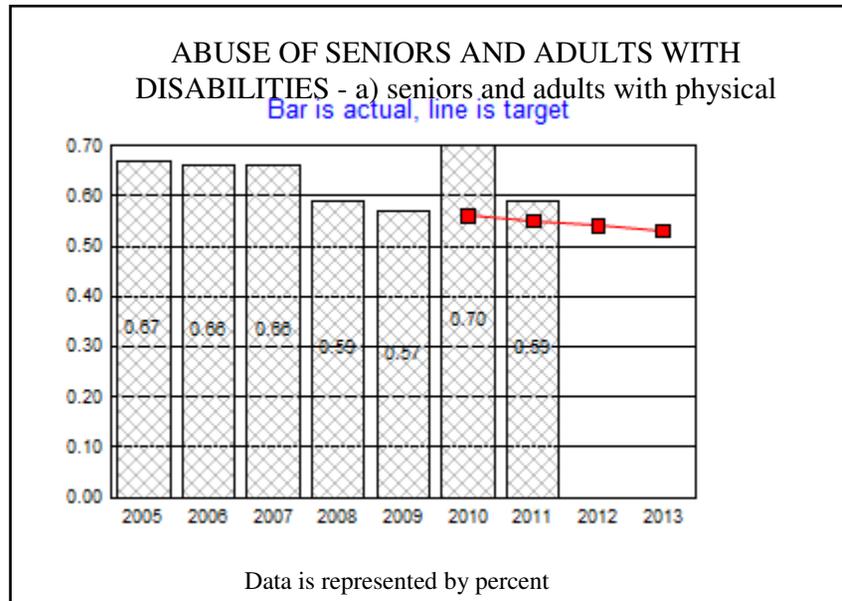

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Developmental disabilities: Additional training for protective service investigators and brokerage staff who are serving people in their own homes. Research on, and collaboration with community response systems including domestic violence and sexual assault needs to be explored further. Initiate program focusing on prevention of abuse such as the Attorney General's Sexual Assault Task Force Developmental Disability Initiative and inclusion of clients, their family and the community at large. Additional research on reporting rates to explore why some settings such as DD group homes have much higher reporting of possible abuse compared to DD adult foster care and brokerage settings.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle is Calendar Year, and will reflect all case that closed during the reporting cycle. Data is maintained by the Office Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigation (OAAPI). The data source is the DD and MH Abuse Database, which reflects the investigation reports submitted to OAAPI by county and state DD and MH abuse investigators. Several quality assurance checks are conducted before final reports are generated from the database. The data for performance measure was checked for duplication.

Increase public awareness, strengthen collaboration with community partners, strengthen and increase Protective Service Training.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

This is a new measure and targets will be established for 2013 by conducting retrospective analysis of the prior three years (2010 thru 2012). In the abuse rate graphs, lower numbers are better.) In order to measure success in reducing abuse in the community, a preliminary target of under 1% is established. The primary strategy is to assist the victim in moving from the abusive living situations or to remove the abuser from the situation. The underlying ethical value for the Seniors and Adults with Disabilities' protective service model is to balance our obligation to protect older adults and adults with disabilities with their rights to self-determination. Independent adults can make decisions about their own life and the course of action to be taken in abuse situations. Performance to target comparison could be affected by a number of variables. This includes but is not limited to the following for Seniors and Adults with Disabilities:

- Right to self-determination;
- Limited resources including local community, state and federal resources;
- Additional training and development needed for APS Specialist's;
- Response of the criminal justice system;
- Development and understanding of intra-agency functions; Self-neglect: The abuse data figures include those clients that are categorized under self-neglect. This may be a result of an individual's right to self-determination that results in abuse, and may not be due to any of the other potential contributory factors.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

Since our Department currently is below the preliminary target of 1% for the percentage of seniors and adults with disabilities who are abused, it appears that we are meeting the goals of our intervention model described above. However, abuse in the community can be difficult to lower due to the individual's right to make decisions about their own life and the course of action. Additionally, as public awareness of the signs of abuse increases so do the number of abuse reports received by the department resulting in more investigations and interventions. The department wants to encourage individuals to report as suspected abuse.

Strategies to improve the department's performance include:

- On-going Adult Protective Service training including fundamentals of and advanced training for experienced APS workers.

- Continuation of public education efforts;
- Technical Assistance to field offices;
- Basic Adult Protective Service Specialist functions such as screening, consultation, triage, assessment, investigation, intervention, documentation and risk management;
- Collaboration with community partners;
- Continuation of intra-agency relationships/training with other agencies that serve Adult Protective Service clients such as those with mental illness, developmental disabilities, and the Office of Investigations and Training.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

There is no National data on abuse rates.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Performance to target comparison could be affected by a number of variables. This includes but is not limited to the following for Seniors and Adults with Disabilities:

- Right to self-determination;
- Limited resources including state, federal, and community-type(s);
- Additional training and development needed for APS Specialist's;
- Response of the criminal justice system;

-Development and understanding of intra-agency functions;

-Self-neglect: The abuse data figures include those clients that are categorized under self-neglect. This could be interpreted to mean that it may be an individual's right to self-determination that results in re-abuse, and may not be due to any of the other potential contributory factors.

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

Continue to develop data tracking systems for baseline figures needed for comparison;

Continue Department activities related to this measure;

-Address the variances and see if any reductions can be made in order to achieve the Department's goals;

Gather data from public/private industry sources for comparison;

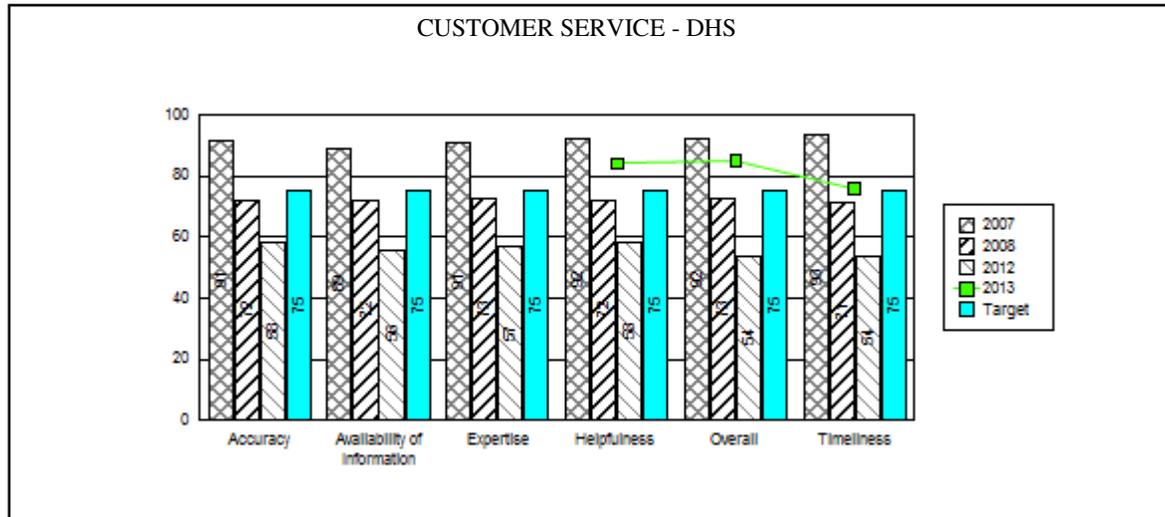

Respond to legislative request to direct efforts at maintaining to 5%.<

7. ABOUT THE DATA

Reporting cycle is Calendar Year, and will reflect all case that closed during the reporting cycle. Data is maintained by the Office of Licensing and Quality of Care, Quality Assessment and Monitoring Unit. Original data source is Oregon ACCESS for Community APS and QMDB for facility APS. Since Lane County does not use Oregon Access, abuse data is sent in electronically and then appended to the abuse data. Oregon ACCESS has system edits the help prevent duplication in data. Reports are checked for duplication.

Data for Seniors and Adults with Disabilities can be obtained by contacting the Office of Licencing & Quality of Care Adult Protective Services.

1. OUR STRATEGY

The mission of DHS is to help Oregonians in their own communities achieve well-being and independence through opportunities that protect, empower, respect choice and preserve dignity. DHS is responsible for the care for our most vulnerable citizens -- children, people with disabilities and seniors. The agency seeks to collaborate with families and among agencies and community organizations, whenever possible. DHS believes that the prevention of problems will result in long-term benefits and savings, and DHS strives to deliver services that are prioritized, innovative and streamlined. Finally, the agency seeks to continuously improve and innovate to increase efficiency with public resources.

2. ABOUT THE TARGETS

Our methodology has varied greatly from year to year making it difficult to develop meaningful targets. In addition, with the split of DHS into two agencies it is unclear how the earlier targets were set. The current DHS Online Client Survey is part of an outcome tracked through the agency's management system. The management system includes a status reporting process. Status for each outcome is reported quarterly and is reported as red, yellow or green. Green status (90% of target or higher) represents outcome areas that have reached agency target. As a result, the agency target for client satisfaction is 90 percent. The legislatively approved Target for these measures is 75 percent.

3. HOW WE ARE DOING

Each year we've used a different methodology, therefore it's impossible, at this time, to determine whether or not we were seeing an improvement in the service we provide to clients. The current DHS Online Client Survey began in December 2011, and was discontinued at the end of 2012. The 2013 numbers are the first attempt at a random sample of customer experience.

4. HOW WE COMPARE

At this time, we are unable to compare our results to other agencies, organizations or jurisdictions. We can't compare our results from year to year because of the changes in survey methodology. The 2013 results give us a baseline to work with, based on the first random survey of clients and customers in all DHS programs.

5. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS

Two main factors affect results: Changes in the survey methodology and agency reorganization. In July 2011, DHS was split into two separate agencies – DHS and the Oregon Health Authority (OHA). The DHS customer base changed after the split when several divisions (Addictions and Mental Health, Division of Medical Assistance Programs and the Public Health Division) transferred to OHA. Today, the DHS customer base includes clients who receive services from the following programs: Child Welfare, Self Sufficiency, Aging and People with Disabilities, Developmental Disabilities and Vocational Rehabilitation.

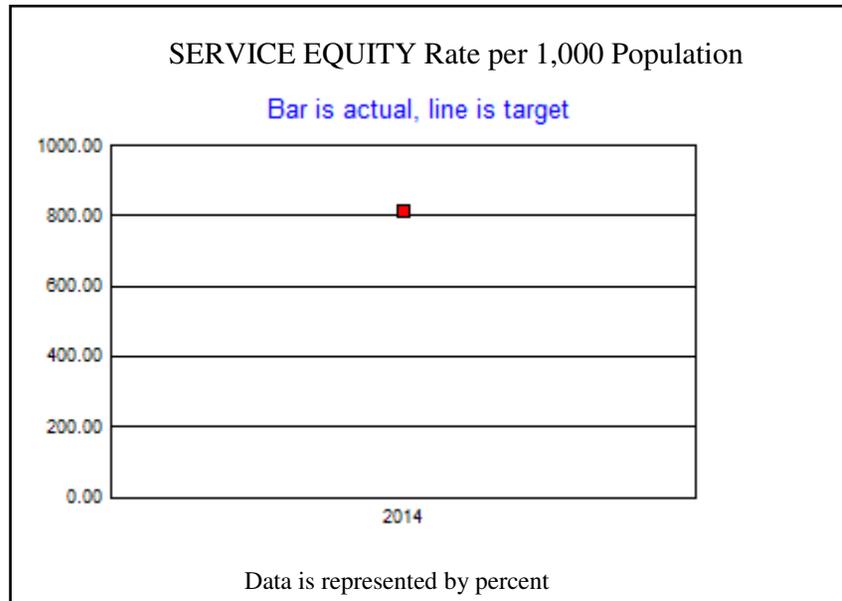

6. WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE

The agency split created a need for DHS to revisit how it will collect and evaluate satisfaction data from its re-defined customer base. An online survey was created and posted in December 2011. The agency is working to develop a consistent, comprehensive and sustainable measurement of customer service. Measuring customer satisfaction is a priority for the agency, and the measure has been incorporated into the management system to be tracked quarterly by the DHS Director and Executive Leadership Team.

7. ABOUT THE DATA

This data was collected from October 2013-June 2014 of customers who had an experience with DHS within the past 6-9 months. The survey is administered in English and Spanish, and there were more than 700 respondents during three quarterly administrations. The 2008 results are from the Consumer Assessment of Health Plans Survey (CAHPS). It was administered through the Division of Medical Assistance Programs (DMAP) over a 10-week period (October-December 2007) using a mixed-mode (mail and telephone) five-wave protocol. Respondents were surveyed in English and Spanish. The sampling plan for the adult and child surveys called for a random sample of 900 eligible members per plan in each age group. To be eligible, members had to have been enrolled in Oregon Health Plan for at least six months as of December 31, 2006. The final selected sample consisted of 13,962 adult OHP enrollees and 13,747 child OHP enrollees. For the customer service questions, we received approximately 10,600 responses. The CAHPS survey is a biennial survey.

HUMAN SERVICES, DEPARTMENT of	III. USING PERFORMANCE DATA
--------------------------------------	------------------------------------

Agency Mission: Assisting people to become independent, healthy and safe.

Contact: Anna Cox, DHS Data Collection & Reporting	Contact Phone: 503-945-6680

The following questions indicate how performance measures and data are used for management and accountability purposes.

1. INCLUSIVITY	* Staff : Staff are involved in the identification and refinement of Key Performance Measures. This is more true than ever, as DHS use the Quarterly Business Reviews to review measures that will ideally replace or roll-up into Key Performance Measures. Feedback is sought to validate the measures. Over the next biennium, staff will become more involved in identifying, tracking and using performance metrics to make improvements to the work we do. * Elected Officials: Elected officials provide input to the agency KPMs, targets and strategies. * Stakeholders: Customer feedback is gathered to help guide strategies for effective service delivery. We continue to work closely with Legislative Fiscal Office and DAS Budget and Management to ensure we are making continuous improvements to our KPMs so they provide useful and relevant information for decision-making and management. * Citizens: Community forums related to budget development and priority-setting are a way to identify and validate priorities, expectations and performance areas.
2 MANAGING FOR RESULTS	As a result of Transformation efforts, there is an emphasis on using metrics to identify where improvements are needed, make changes, and track and report results to make sure improvements are sustained. The department has been training work units in the Lean Daily Management System® (LDMS®) which includes a component for developing metrics at the work unit level for the team’s main processes. Key Performance Measures provide a high-level picture of our results, but the underlying metrics provide a more meaningful and actionable management tool.
3 STAFF TRAINING	Management and staff continue to receive training related to transformation and continuous improvement. Training in both online and classroom formats is available. The courses are introducing staff to the principles and concepts for thinking about work in terms of systems, processes and process improvement. A component of these trainings focus on metrics and how to effectively measure the results of our work. People are becoming more familiar with using data and information to inform our strategies and decision-making. Required courses for managers teach about creating a culture of continuous improvement to achieve results to become a world-class organization and sustain the transformation. Workshops help prepare managers to assist their work groups to establish and sustain LDMS® elements and practices, and improve their ability to guide work teams to constructively and practically select and use metrics to improve their work.

4 COMMUNICATING RESULTS	* Staff : The annual performance report is posted online and used for information sharing. One goal of the Transformation Initiative is to make data and metrics more visible at all levels of the organization. As work units begin using the Lean Daily Management System® (LDMS®), they create visual display boards to post in their areas that include data and metrics about the team’s work to provide current information about the results they are achieving and goals they are working toward. Work unit members meet in front of the display board regularly to review metrics, share information, set priorities and problem-solve when needed. * Elected Officials: The annual performance report is posted online and included in the agency request document for purposes of sharing performance results, showing accountability, and informing the budget development process. KPMs are presented during the Ways & Means presentations to describe program results. * Stakeholders: The annual performance report is posted online and used for information sharing. * Citizens: The annual performance report is posted online and used for information sharing.

LFO Recommendation:

Approve KPMs #1 through 9, 12, 13, 17, and 18 with targets as shown. Approve delete/new (replacement) requests for current KPMs #10 and 11, with targets as displayed. Modify requested change for KPM #14 as follows: Retain the old KPM but change the wording slightly, to: "Integrated Employment Settings: The percentage of adults with developmental disabilities who receive ODDS services who are working in integrated employment settings. Also, for KPM #14, show the most current result but leave the targets blank. Executive Order (EO) #13-04 establishes a policy group that is to recommend employment outcome metrics; that group is expected to evaluate this KPM and develop targets that fit EO objectives. Targets can be communicated to the Legislative Fiscal Office after review. Retitle KPM #15 to "ABUSE OF PEOPLE WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES" and approve the targets as presented. Direct the agency to reconsider this measure as it works to develop the Adult Protective Services KPM. Deny request to delete/replace KPM #16. Retain KPM #16 as a placeholder performance measurement for Adult Protective Services and direct the agency to develop an alternative KPM for 2015-17, with the understanding that DHS will continue to capture, analyze, and report on abuse-related data as part of the agency's overall program management responsibilities. Approve the customer service performance measure elements with targets as shown. Approve the placeholder request for Service Equity as KPM #18; specific measure and targets to be included with requested KPMs for 2015-17. Direct the Department of Human Services, as the agency works to align KPMs with its performance-based management system for the 2015-17 budget cycle, to improve the consistency of measurement components, displays, and comparisons.

Sub-Committee Action:

Approved the LFO Recommendation.

During FFY2013 the rate had risen to 43.6 percent. DHS continues to seek resources to meet the needs of families being served through the TANF program and enhance and strengthen partnerships with community partners that provide family-centered, preventative, and comprehensive services for children and families.
3 - TANF RE-ENTRY - The percentage of Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) cases who have not returned within 18 months after exit due to employment.	64.10	65.00	Green	2013	While the majority of TANF clients that leave the program due to employment were having relative success in the workplace the status of the labor market and industry has a strong effect on performance for this measure. The recent economic crisis has had the greatest effect on low-income families and demand for TANF increased. Caseloads are beginning to decline but remain higher than immediately prior to recession.

5 - SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) ACCURACY - The percentage of accurate SNAP payments	95.83	96.00	Green	2013	Oregon has been successful in reducing the error rate and avoiding a fiscal penalty for the past eight years, while having high participation rates. The error rate for FY 09 reached an all-time low of 3.54 percent, compared to the national standard of 4.36 percent. Oregon's error rate of 4.66 percent in FY 12 put Oregon in first year liability status. In order to have a liability established by FNS, a state must be in liability status for 2 consecutive years and for the second year of liability status, the state's validated error rate needs to be above 6.00 percent. Oregon's error rate for FY 13 of 4.17 percent did not place us in liability status, but was above the national standard of 3.20 percent. Oregon DHS will continue to focus on accuracy efforts to avoid a federal penalty and ensure our clients receive accurate and timely benefits.

					of Proposed Rule Making (NPRM) changes for CCDF funded child care providers. The proposed rules could have an effect on future KPM's once rules become effective in October of 2015. This proposed regulatory action is needed to improve accountability broadly across many areas of the CCDF program, but is especially focused on ensuring children supported by CCDF funds are in safe, healthy, quality child care, and empowering parents with transparent information about the child care choices available to them. This proposed rule includes regulatory changes for CCDF in four priority areas: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Improving health and safety in child care 2. Department of Human Services SUPERVISORY RATIO REPORT

DHS started the 11-13 biennium with a budgeted ratio of 1:9 (6689/738) based on information provided by DAS and confirmed by DHS staff.

DHS approached the ratio work from an enterprise perspective with a goal of exceeding the ratio, if possible, and not limiting the review to only those areas under the target ratio. Through targeted actions including abolishment of positions and restructuring of supervisory duties, DHS received the required plus-one certification in June 2012 from the Department of Administrative Services, Human Resources Service Division for moving the ratio from 1:9 to 1:10.

In October 2013, DHS was approved for an exception to the 1:11 ratio for Child Welfare supervisors due to the clinical supervision nature of these positions as allowed in HB 4131 (2012) section 1 (4). During the 2007 Legislative Session the legislature made a $3.2 million TF investment to increase the number Child Welfare caseworkers and supervisors. The intended result was to bring Oregon's child welfare supervisor to caseworker ratio to 1:7 which is considered the national best practice standard by the National Resource Center for Organizational Improvement. Before this action the Oregon ratio was 1:9.5. Best practices continue to recommend 1:7 or lower due to the clinical supervision provided by the supervisors. Child Welfare supervisors take years to gain the clinical experience necessary to assist and ensure caseworkers make appropriate safety and case planning decisions for Oregon's children. DHS requested all child welfare caseworkers and direct caseworker supervisors be excluded from the supervisor to non-supervisor ratio calculation. The result removed 199 supervisors and 1,385 non-supervisors from the calculation moving DHS to 1:11.40 in 2013-15.

DHS continues to examine all units, especially those with smaller supervisory ratios, to determine if there are natural ways to combine supervisory functions. This requires shifting how supervisory, as opposed to “management” functions are performed. This diligent management of the supervisory ratio will ensure DHS continues to maintain the 1:11 minimum.
