

Sande Johnson testimony

Variability in weather and the heavy demands on our schedules during certain times of the production season preclude agriculture from fitting into a neat little package of predictability. Record keeping is something that must be sidelined at times . For these reasons, I see the threat of penalty for non-compliance an egregious infraction imposed upon those who have little choice but to neglect such a mandate as written into HB2193.

We in Ag attempt to be fair to employees, but there are annual occurrences superseding convenience .
