

Housing is a complex issue and this is just part of the solution. Just because something is possible, doesn't mean the market or location will make it so. We need more places for friends and neighbors, people just out of school or transition, and new residents to live. Developers aren't doing the job by building 5 bedroom, 4 bath McMansions priced out of reach for just about everyone.