

As a former Oregonian, I'm proud to see my home state taking leadership on the critical issue of reducing greenhouse gases. Of course, no one measure will by itself change the destructive path we are on with respect to climate change, but we instead will need the cumulative effect of many courageous actions by individuals, businesses and governments. The current Oregon cap & trade initiative appears to me to be one of them.

Emil R. Berg