

To whom it may concern,

As a registered pharmacist, I am trained to recommend and administer vaccines. Vaccines are complex biological products with lifelong consequences to the body-both intended and unintended. I do not agree with coercive mandates. I would find it unethical for me to inject a child with a product, knowing their parents are only agreeing to it to fulfill an oppressive mandate to access education, especially with a product whose manufacturers are shielded from liability.

I find it highly disturbing that the hearing as been moved up suddenly, after a snowstorm, when many concerned citizens will have great hardship to attend.

Thank you,
Emma Kung RPh

Sent from my iPad