

As a parent of 3 small children it is my job to know EXACTLY what is given to my children.

I have thoroughly researched the ingredients in vaccines. Aluminum is a "toxin". Thimerosal is a toxin". DNA from human babies is a "toxin". Blood from animals is a "toxin". Monkey kidney cells are a "toxin". Polysorbate 80 is a "toxin"

So why are we injecting tiny babies and small children with 850mcg of aluminum at once?

Did you know that the FDA has a guideline of how much aluminum your body can "handle" at once?

So in order for your child (or anyone!) to be "safely" injected with aluminum, per the FDA guidelines, each vaccine must contain ONLY 4 micrograms of aluminum per kilo.

Most shots contain 225 mcg to 850 mcg of aluminum.

So my kids would need to weigh a minimum of around 123 pounds to be safely vaccinated (with just ONE shot) per FDA guidelines.

And they need to wait to hit 467 pounds to safely receive the new Pediarix vaccine.

The science is never settled. As history has shown, science can be dangerously wrong. It can also be heavily influenced by financial interests. And doctors and scientists do not all agree about vaccines. There are many doctors, nurses, immunologists, and researchers who are aware of the shortcomings of vaccines. And if we want to really discuss vaccine science, we need to demand that there be more of it, because vaccine science is severely lacking. It is the tobacco science of our time. The current vaccine schedule (which has more than tripled since vaccine manufacturers became protected from liability in 1986) has never been tested for safety. There hasn't been a randomized double blind placebo controlled study comparing the outcomes of the vaccinated vs. unvaccinated.

If the science is truly settled than the pharmaceutical company's would have nothing to worry about and would just move on with their thousands of ads and commercials. But, parents are waking up as their children and several other children are being injured by vaccines.
