

Taylor's death had huge impact on life and I still think about him almost every day. It is not fair in any way how he died, and the person who killed him should face consequences. Taylor didn't deserve this and no one should have to deal with what his family and friends have had to. Something needs to change, and passing this law is the first step toward that.