

Hello!

I got to know the Monaco's right before Emmett got diagnosed and also right before my second pregnancy. Their story is so heartbreaking and moving. Because of them I opted to pay for expanded screening for my second child. I got pushback from the hospital staff that they couldn't do the blood draw for the screening due to hospital rules, etc. Eventually they did do the screening and I am happy to report it came back negative. I believe that Krabbe and many other curable diseases should already be included in the Oregon screening. Our babies, our futures, they are worth it.

Thank you!
