BACKGROUND:

In 2013, the legislature passed House Bill 2782 permitting undergraduate students who are not citizens or lawful permanent residents to pay in-state tuition and fees at Oregon public universities. The legislation is commonly referred to as tuition equity. To qualify, a student must attend an Oregon elementary or high school for three years immediately prior to graduating or leaving school without a diploma, attend an elementary or high school in the United States or territory five years immediately prior to graduating or leaving school without a diploma, earn an Oregon high school diploma or equivalent, and demonstrate intent to become a U.S. citizen or lawful permanent resident. HECC reports that in 2017-2018 approximately 250 undergraduate students qualified for in-state tuition and fees under tuition equity provisions. Students who are not U.S. citizens or lawful permanent residents are not eligible for federal student loan programs. Senate Bill 953 creates a state loan program for students who meet the requirements for tuition equity in Oregon.
