

The electoral college served its purpose when the nation was young and transportation slow and communication also very slow. In the 21st century none of the above are true. The Electoral College has outlived its usefulness and needs to be discarded. Now we can easily support one person, one vote. This can and must be done.

Martha McGuirk