1 person as a result of the presence of the genetically engineered organism on the land. In 2 addition to economic damages, a court shall award a plaintiff prevailing in an action under 3 this section reasonable costs and attorney fees.

4 (3) If the genetically engineered organism is present on land owned or occupied by a 5 public body, and the governing officials of the public body decline to bring an action under 6 this section for a resulting injury to the land, any individual residing within the jurisdiction
7 of the public body may bring the action against the patent holder or a licensed manufacturer
8 on behalf of the public body. If an individual prevails in an action under this section, the 9 court may award a sum of money equal to treble the economic damages suffered by the 10 public body as a result of the presence of the genetically engineered organism on the land 11 and shall award individual costs and reasonable attorney fees.

12 (4) It is an affirmative defense against an action brought under this section that:

13 (a) The genetically engineered organism is present on the land due to an intentional act

17 and

18 (c) The person or entity was not an agent of the patent holder or a licensed manufacturer 19 and was not an end user authorized to grow the genetically engineered organism.

20 (5) Any contractual provision that attempts to transfer potential liability of a patent 21 holder or licensed manufacturer under this section to an end user growing or raising the 22 genetically engineered organism is void as contrary to public policy.

23 (6) The remedy provided under this section is in addition to, and not in lieu of, any other 24 relief available to a person that owns, rents, is leasing or otherwise holds an interest in or 25 lawfully occupies the land on which a genetically engineered organism is present without 26 permission.
