

All the gun owners I know lock up their firearms that are not within arms reach or when they are not home. That being said if a criminal breaks into any ones home and takes a firearm they are not responsible for the action of that CRIMINAL.

What if a criminal stole a steak knife and then stabbed someone with it ? How would that be different . Should their be a law...

Look in your medicine cabinet if a criminal stole medicine and then sold it causing someone to get sick are you responsible ?

Bottom line I/we tax we are not responsible for the action of others !
