BACKGROUND:

The Governor makes appointments to over 250 Boards and Commissions connected to various policy and subject matter areas, including to policy-making boards that head major state agencies and departments. Oregon law allows for, but does not require, per diem and reimbursement of certain travel expenses for members of state boards and commissions. ORS 292.495 allows for the compensation of board or commission members who are not public employees for each day or portion of a day in which they spend time performing board or commission duties and for the reimbursement of certain expenses. Member compensation or expense reimbursement is limited to boards or commissions where funding is available and where the allowance of compensation or expenses is not otherwise prohibited by statute. Information provided by the Department of Administrative Services in 2020 for approximately 235 state boards and commissions showed that about two-thirds pay mileage expenses to all members while just over half pay compensation or per diem to all members.

House Bill 2992 requires state boards and commissions to pay compensation and reimbursement of actual and necessary travel or other expenses to a member who is not in full-time public service and has a certain adjusted gross income for the previous tax year.
