BACKGROUND:

On March 8, 2020, Oregon Governor Kate Brown declared a state of emergency due to concerns around the transmission of COVID-19. On March 22, Executive Order 20-11 prohibited law enforcement from delivering notices of eviction, and on April 1, Executive Order 20-13 placed a temporary moratorium on residential and non-residential evictions for non-payment.

During its first Joint Special Session in June 2020, the Legislative Assembly passed House Bill 4213, which established an eviction moratorium for residential and non-residential tenants through September 30, 2020 and allowed a six-month grace period for tenants to repay outstanding rent by March 31, 2021. The grace period established in House Bill 4213 applied to rent accrued between April 1, 2020 and September 30, 2020.

On September 28, 2020, the Governor issued Executive Order 20-56, extending the temporary moratorium on residential eviction for nonpayment to December 31, 2020. This second executive order did not apply the tenant grace period for repayment to rent accrued between October 1 and December 31, 2020, meaning that landlords could lawfully terminate a tenancy beginning in January 2021 for nonpayment of rent between October 2020 and January 2021.

SB 282 A STAFF MEASURE SUMMARY

In December 2020, the Legislative Assembly enacted House Bill 4401, which extended the grace period for tenant nonpayment of rent and other charges, as well as the moratorium on evictions without cause, until June 30, 2021. The measure also extended the moratorium on eviction for nonpayment through June 30, 2021, for tenants who declare a financial hardship, and established a landlord compensation fund to cover rental assistance.

According to a February 2021 report by Portland State University's Homeless Research & Action Collaborative, as many as 89,000 Oregon households are at risk of eviction. The report estimated that the statewide cost of evictions could reach between $1 billion and $3.3 billion based on health, shelter, child welfare, and juvenile justice costs associated with the loss of housing.

Senate Bill 282 A extends the expiration of the grace period from June 30, 2021 to February 28, 2022 for tenant repayment of residential rent accrued during the emergency period of April 1, 2020 through June 30, 2021. The measure restricts landlords from reporting tenant nonpayment accrued during the emergency period to consumer credit agencies and from considering tenant nonpayment accrued during the emergency period when evaluating rental applications. It allows former defendants to apply to seal court records of judgments regarding certain claims related to their tenancy if the claims arose during the grace period. The measure prohibits landlords from imposing restrictions against tenants' guests based on the maximum duration of stay in a tenant's dwelling and from enforcing lower maximum occupancies than those established by federal, state, or local laws. In addition, the measure allows landlords to require temporary occupancy agreements and guest screening using standard criteria, except for credit-related indicators.
