BACKGROUND:

In 2020, the Supreme Court of the United States in Ramos v Louisiana, 140 S. Ct. 1390 (2020) found that guilty verdicts in criminal cases must be a unanimous jury verdict. The Oregon Supreme Court found that the cap on the amount of noneconomic damages that could be awarded to an injured party in a bodily injury case deprived the party of their right to a remedy under Article 1, Section 10 of the Oregon Constitution.

Senate Bill 193 A makes statutory revisions based on the two court decisions. First, it updates ORS 136.450 to require unanimous agreement of jurors for a verdict of guilty and concurrence of at least 10 of 12 jurors for a verdict of not guilty. The measure also removes the statutory cap on noneconomic damages for claims for bodily injury, but retains the cap on noneconomic damages for wrongful death claims.
