BACKGROUND:

Established in 2017, the Office of the Public Records Advocate (PRA) provides dispute resolution services, training, guidance, and advice to improve the administration of Oregon's public records laws. The PRA is appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate from a list of nominees recommended by the Public Records Advisory Council (PRAC). The PRAC makes recommendations concerning the PRA's role, as well as establishing practices, procedures, exemptions, and fees related to public records.

Senate Bill 500 A establishes the PRA as an independent office within the executive branch and authorizes the PRA to seek office facilities and administrative support from state agencies. The measure removes requirements for executive appointment and Senate confirmation of the PRA and requires the PRA to appoint a deputy who, along with other responsibilities, assumes the duties of the PRA when the position is vacant. The measure also changes how the PRAC operates, requiring the body to select a chairperson and vice-chairperson and authorizing the body to support, oppose, and request legislation relating to public records law.
