Analysis: This measure requires Teachers Standards and Practices Commission (TSPC) to create a performance-based measure to determine if a licensing candidate’s knowledge, skills and compensation qualify the candidate for a license. It would replace the current measures used by Education Preparation Programs (EPP)s. In addition, the measure requires TSPC to lower artificial barriers presented by standardized tests and evaluate locally and adopted assessment measures.

TSPC will engage with a consultant(s) to develop rubrics and major elements to determine a candidate’s knowledge, skills, and compensation. In addition, the consultant will assess the validity and reliability of the plan, supervise the implementation of the plan, and whether the candidates are meeting the framework elements. TSPC estimates they will need one Operations and Policy Analyst 3 (1.00 FTE) limited duration, to develop guidelines and the validity and reliability of the plan. TSPC would also need one Operations and Policy Analyst 3 (0.75 FTE) to review EPP plans and candidate success. Currently, TSPC is funded with licensing fees and those revenues would be insufficient to fund the activities under this bill so General Fund would be required.

There is no fiscal impact to the Higher Education Coordinating Commission or Universities.

This measure warrants a subsequent referral to the Joint Committee on Ways and Means for consideration of its budgetary impact on the State’s General Fund.
