

Everyone has been hit hard by the recent pandemic, not only those who are renting property, but those who provide housing opportunities for others as well. I believe it is unfair and unethical, for those families who might have a slight economical advantage, to be forced to take on the financial responsibility of providing housing to those who can't meet their obligations. Not only is it not their duty, but all it accomplishes is putting yet another family in a possible financial crisis.