

For too long the racist history of Oregon has been denied and, in many cases, erased. It's time young people were taught that this is part of our state and that to make changes we first need to acknowledge this.