

Who gets to determine what "disorderly behavior" is? This bill sets up a subjective peer review and takes away the power of the voter to choose their own representation. Voters have the power of recall, to primary that official with a better candidate, or not elect them. There are plenty of remedies that reside with the voter if they find they are being failed by their elected official and that power should never be diminished by rules that are meant to weaken our rights as voters.