

As a mother of a biracial child and also of two white children I am appalled at the lack of education in public schools in regards to the racist history of our country. I truly believe that the steps beyond racism have to include acknowledging the past. This has been done with much success in other countries including those with ,arguably, more horrific histories of racist violence and oppression.