

This is a no brainer to increase transparency, justice, and trust in law enforcement and our criminal justice system. Nobody is perfect and initial decisions are often based on emotions as much as fact. Obviously we should be able to review these things.