

Research shows diversity on corporate boards in Oregon will lead to higher profits and increased customer base. In addition, these changes will end up attracting other talented employees which will be a big plus for the local economy.