

STRONGLY OPPOSE

This bill requires school districts to establish educational equity advisory committee that would basically allow it to act as an unelected board member with veto power.

Parents are objecting to BLM and LGBTQ+ political speech that equity teams are promoting.

Schools that have experienced equity agendas report work from the equity team has caused students and families to leave public schools because they do not agree with such affiliations. The equity team has caused some strife among staff members. With the addition of this type of political speech, it could further cause declines in enrollment causing families to homeschool or move to private schools.
