

I am a retired teacher of 30 years. In that time I have seen and experienced many cultures in my classes. The most important part of a teachers job is to include all students in the learning process. Inclusion is so important to the growth of the student and the long lasting relationships that it builds can only help all races in a healthy and prosperous education. A true and total history of our nation can only strengthen us as a people and face the challenges of standing up for what is right. Facing our racist background is a start to moving forward with an all inclusive education. This bill show the rest of the nation that it can be done. Good work and I support this bill fully.
