

At this time, I do not feel it prudent to direct funds to a special group of students, as all students should be treated with respect and give them resources they need, regardless of how they identify. By calling out specific groups of students, one is unintentionally possibly causing more harm than good.