

As a person who eats food, drinks water, breathes air, and requires ambient temperatures and weather patterns that support all of those things in Oregon, I support this effort to increase the availability of support for organic and regenerative agriculture.