

I strongly support efforts to regulate the use of potentially dangerous or toxic chemicals and weapons. For way too long, enforcement agencies have been using these with little or no restraint, causing damage to peaceful protestors, communities, and our environment. These things should be used as a last resort after all other options have been exhausted.