

There is such a bounty of solid, academic and field evidence suggesting beavers are essential to maintaining if not improving on our delicate, waterway ecosystems, which we in turn depend on for our own survival as a species. It would seem to be a no-brainer to remove beavers from any category that contributes to their further decline. Where go the beavers, so go we, so let's strengthen their protection.