

Oregon is one of only a few states that requires this ridiculous quorum rule. Democrats have the majority because that is the values of Oregon's citizens being represented. The few republicans elected to office in Oregon need to show up and actually do their job or be removed like any other person would be for missing work.