HB 3103-1 Testimony Submitted for the League of Oregon Cities and the Oregon Water Utility Council

- For the record, my name is Niki Iverson, and I'm the Water Director for the City of Hillsboro, Chair of the League of Oregon Cities Water/Wastewater Policy Committee, and Project Manager of the Oregon Water Utility Council's Willamette Subcommittee
- The Oregon Water Utility Council represent numerous public drinking water providers across Oregon – both small and large, rural and urban.
- The League of Oregon Cities Water/Wastewater Policy Committee represents the interests of Cities that run drinking water, wastewater, and storm-water utilities.

The Oregon Water Resources Department (OWRD) has historically processed and approved transfer applications to change the character of use for storage water rights. We are aware of no instance in which these transfers raised questions or controversies regarding OWRD's authority to make the change. In fact in multiple work group meetings on transfers, all stakeholders have agreed that this authority is crucial to managing stored water supplies and needs to be restored.

HB 3103-1 merely seeks to reinstate a transactional authority process that OWRD has had for over 100 years. The ability to transfer or change the character of use of stored water is a critical management tool in order to allow users to effectively and efficiently manage their water supplies. Without this tool and flexibility, water suppliers throughout Oregon will be forced to seek the expensive alternative of building new storage supplies instead of efficiently using existing supplies to meet multiple needs.

In order to illustrate how common a practice the transfer of character of use is for stored water, our associations completed some initial research from the Oregon Water Resources Department's water rights database.

Please see the attached list of storage water right transfers.

- The list includes approximately 280 water right transfers, submitted from about 1960 to the present.
- The oldest approved transfer included in the list is from 1960, when OWRD approved the transfer of Certificate 15241 from storage for floating of logs to storage for steelhead rearing ponds at the request of the Oregon State Game Commission. The change in the character of use is noted on the old certificate and described in the order approving the transfer.

- In 2016, OWRD approved a character of use change through Transfer T-12120 for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation's storage water right Certificate 72755. The transfer authorized the storage of 437 acre-feet in Cottage Grove and Dorena Reservoirs for municipal and industrial use, which the certificate originally authorized for irrigation use.
- OWRD appears to have most recently approved the transfer of a change in the character of use of a storage water right in June 2017 when they approved transfer application T-12598, requesting a change in the character of use of Certificate 83164 from storage for recreation to multipurpose storage.
- This is likely a partial list, made up of transfer information from OWRD's public water rights database.
- These water right transfers were approved as part of the normal course of OWRD business and the overwhelming majority are for character of use changes.

HB 3103-1 is not about approving a single transfer application or related project. It is about restoring a process that all water users, including water suppliers, require for multiple purposes. It can take many years to get approval for a transfer from the time of application submittal to final approval. OWRD has rules and a methodology in place to measure the merits of the applications, including a required injury analysis to other water users.

I have previously presented to the Committee on the Willamette Reallocation which is just one example of a project that requires a transfer. However, I think it would be prudent for the legislature to direct OWRD to develop an implementation plan to address the concerns and questions that have been raised by stakeholders.

Applications have recently been submitted for character of use transfers have been denied or held in limbo without a final order. Two of the applications were outright denied by OWRD due to their interpretation of their lack of authority. Some examples of water suppliers that have been recently impacted by these denials are described below.

One of the applications (Application T-12734) submitted in 2017 requested to transfer the character of use on a storage right from livestock and wildlife to multipurpose. OWRD issued a final order on February 25, 2021 indicating they do not have authority to transfer stored water rights, and so, the application was withdrawn.

Another application (Application T-12199) submitted in 2015 requested to transfer the character of use on a storage right from recreation to recreation and industrial. OWRD issued a final order on December 13, 2019 indicating they do not have authority to transfer stored water rights.

Another application (Application T-12714) that was submitted in 2017 is still pending, which requested a transfer to change a storage right from irrigation to multi-purpose.

HB 3103-1 simply reaffirms the authority OWRD believed they already had for many decades. HB 3103-1 does not change the application and review process or approve or deny any applications. It is a mere technical fix to ensure OWRD has the authority to carry out their established process. It is very important to address this issue now, so that water managers have this critical tool to manage their supplies.

Since it also takes several years to obtain an approval or denial from OWRD, as demonstrated by the application described that was submitted in 2017 and has no resolution to date. Also, the application that was submitted in 2015 was likely for an important industrial use to support their community's local economy that was denied. The applicant waited 4 years to receive a denial. Communities cannot attract businesses to locate in their area if there is no certainty in our water supplies.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide this testimony and we urge your support for HB 3103 with the -1 amendment.
