

I support automated traffic enforcement and note that we need to legislate better alternatives to getting around that do not require people to drive. We should also build infrastructure which doesn't tempt or permit users to break rules in an unsafe manner. Further we should adjust traffic fines and rules to be a more equitable deterrent such that everyone is firmly encouraged to safely operate their vehicle in the public space or their license removed. To the extent that speed limits are a part of roadway design, they must be enforced more consistently.
