

California allowed unlimited coyote hunting and the result was that the open habitat was overrun with Jackrabbits, rats, and other rodents that were a food source for the Coyotes. Coyotes will limit their reproduction to coincide with food availability. Perhaps killing of Coyotes should be limited to if they are killing pets and livestock and if they are a danger to people in neighborhoods.