

It's shocking that on the 10th anniversary of Japans Tsunami that killed thousands of people Oregon is just now addressing design standards when it comes to being prepared. Yes, I fully support stronger standards for building on Oregons coast.