

I totally oppose any wind energy projects in the ocean.

My reasons:

1. Potential oil leaks from the turbines.

2. How will the power get to shore? Underground cables? With the earthquakes that have been occurring off Oregon's coast... bad idea..

3. Tsunamis .. how stable would these floating towers be during a Tsunami?

4. Aesthetics. The ocean is very scenic now. Why ruin it with wind towers?

5. What would the effects be on marine plants and animals. I doubt the whales would like the vibrations these towers would cause.

6. Has any research been done on these questions and the long term effects of these issues?

Thank you

Barbara Arnold