

In both rural and urban areas, our lack of attention to how humans impact our planet is furthering the destruction we're causing. Human impacts are poisoning Oregon rivers, eroding natural habitats, exacerbating forest fires, and stripping our beautiful state of critical biodiversity. Taking care of the environment means taking care of Oregonians -- as the earth is our home too. Please aid local governments across the state in becoming environmentally responsible and looking forward to prevent further damage.