

I just have not seen any evidence to suggest the police need access to military-grade weapons to do their job. Especially considering that many of them lack the training needed to use these weapons. I have seen the relish with which police wield these weapons, as if they are enjoying this. If they cannot do their job without the use of these weapons, then they are not fit to do the job.