

Chemical weapons are bad. That a country would employ the use of such weapons against their own people, it makes me have very little faith in our government. If they believe this is the only way to address the people they are meant to protect and serve, I have very little faith they could handle any other matters appropriately. I demand police reform now if the government hopes to preserve any shred of faith in their police force.