

Why would the legislature single out one crop to tax? Especially a crop with a 50 year harvest cycle? With the 1 million acres that burned last year, the legislators are mugging burn victims by taxation. If you want to disincentivize growing trees and storing carbon to address climate change then impose taxes and the land use will change to something else. Stupid is what stupid does.