

Timber jobs are the economic backbone of many rural communities. A new timber tax will hurt jobs and small businesses already struggling to survive. It won't replant and restore our devastated forests. It won't restore lost jobs or rebuild communities. A new timber tax isn't needed to fund state government.