

Black literature and Black History should be taught in all public schools. To not teach facts, stories, experiences and history's of Black people is racist and wrong. Representation matters and it's time Oregon starts to value and celebrate the Black community.