

The Portland Children's Museum is a beloved institution, an invaluable educational and community resource that would be heartbreaking to lose. My children (age 6 and 2) have spent countless afternoons playing, exploring, learning, and socializing with their peers in this wonderful space, which has taught them so much about art, science, engineering, performance, conflict, sharing, and community. Please allocate funds from the state and the American Rescue Plan to save PCM!