

Laws like this will not prevent things that are already illegal! Criminals do not care about committing a crime, so preventing honest law abiding citizens from carrying a firearm, legally, does not make society any safer! This would just force people who carry to lock the firearm in their vehicle, which it is more likely to get stolen from than on their person. Going home to lock it up first is not always an option (which also defeats the reason of carrying consistently), many people must make stops on their way to/from other places.
