

You can't just take away my right to carry a gun and defend myself, you are undermining the police and whomever else that gives out concealed carry licenses, saying their judgment and background checks aren't good enough. People get the concealed carry permits lawfully, they should be able to carry and protect themselves any and everywhere. There are rules in place for a reason and criminals aren't going to follow your rules just because you tell them to. They're criminals because they don't follow the rules and laws of the law abiding citizens. You are just taking away the weapons of the people that do everything legally, and making it easier for criminals to do what they do best
