

Do not take away the rights of people who are willing to run toward danger to help others.