

My son goes to Metro East Web Academy and loves it. He has dyslexia and social anxiety and is much happier learning in his home. Metro East has inspired him to work harder to improve his reading and writing, and he has made great progress. If we couldn't go to Metro East, we would homeschool on our own, and he would lose the interaction with teachers and students who inspire him. He is excited about learning and earning straight A's. I hope more students get this kind of opportunity.
