

I love being a caregiver (IDD DSP) because it's one of the most essential and socially beneficial careers out there, also the feel-good feeling of knowing you've helped someone's needs.

I believe professionals see us as an invisible profession and that is too why I believe we are under paid for what we do daily. Helping others makes you feel good, as a caregiver we face many challenges in our profession and we deserve to be compensated for everything we go through. Building relationships with our clients is one of the most important aspect of caregiving-and most fun!!

There's such a high demand for more people to want to see themselves being a caregiver but what we are making to live a comfortable life is not enough. The most satisfying part of my job is earning the trust of our clients. Caregivers work hard ! Extra money could help ease the financial pressure. Thank you for supporting the DSP caregivers.
