

Here we are again. Trying to take away the one significant tax break that middle Americans have needs to stop! The banks and large corporations have massive tax breaks to put the burden on middle American taxpayers. I sell real estate and it is this mortgage interest deduction that gives a boost to home ownership and investment. Owners of real estate provide rentals, provide homes, build communities. We are taxed on our real estate to provide city services, schools etc. Please stop trying to take this away and keep the mortgage interest deduction for all parties that own real estate. This is the backbone of our communities. Really! Look somewhere else.

Thanks
