

Employer-linked health insurance seemed like a good/reasonable idea back in the 1940s, but we've had decades to see the flaws in this system.

We've had an equal amount of time to look at our fellow countries around the world who chose state-provided insurance. They seem to be able to provide comparable results at a fraction of the cost. It's time we moved to a model that has a proven track record of success and away from our model that has a proven track record of leaving out too many of our fellow citizens and charging too much for all of us.

Thank you for your time.
